Senator Robinson of Arkansas Comes to Defense Of Pact In Address

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(UP)—President Hoover took a hand today in the senate fight for the London naval treaty.

But while senator Robinson, Democrat, Arkansas, one of the American delegates to London, was addressing the senate in support of the pact, and urging its ratification, Mr. Hoover was informed by Majority Leader Watson and Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee there was no hope of a vote before next week.

Mr. Hoover had hoped for ratification last week and his anxiety at the senate's slow pace was communicated to his spokesmen at the capitol. The present program is to permit the treaty opposition to talk itself out and to bring the pact to a vote the end of next week.

To this end it has been suggested that Borah, Watson and Senator McNary, Republican, Oregon, join with Senators Robinson, Arkansas, and Swanson, Virginia, on the Democratic side to outline a bipartisan program to which the senate would be held by cloture if necessary, opposition tactics designed to force the debate into a fourth week probably would be met by an effort to invoke the cloture rule, the United Press was reliably informed.

Borah told Mr. Hoover the real problem confronting the treaty was maintenance of a quorum. Telegrams have been sent to all senators within reach, requesting their immediate presence to bolster the administration in its fight against a bipratisan anti-treaty minority led by two Republicans, Johnson, California, and Moses, New Hampshire.

The administration group is considering amendment instead of rejection of the Norris resolution, which stipulates the treaty shall not be subject to secret papers nor its provisions subject to prior interpretations. It was pointed out today the present wording of the resolution probably would prevent use of the notes exchanged with Japan and Great Britain to clarify replacement clauses of the pact.

ONE-LESSON FLYING

NEW YORK, July 14.—J. G. Orr, manager of Roosevelt Field, recently gave a demonstration to prove that flying can be taught in one day. He took up three novices, each a woman, and gave them a one-day course. At the end of the instructions, each woman completed a short solo flight. All three had less than 7 hours of instruction.

Mrs. McCormick Files 5000 Word Statement With Investigators

FEDERAL BUILDING, CHICAGO, July 14.—(UP)—"It may be possible to buy certain elections in this country but you cannot buy Illinois landslides," Ruth Hanna McCormick said today at the opening of the senate committee's investigation into charges of excessive expenditures in Mrs. McCormick's successful campaign for the Illinois senatorial nomination.

The first woman ever nominated for the senate by a major party sumbitted a written statement at the opening of the campaign expenditures committee's Chicago hearing. The statement was more than 5,000 words long and reiterated much of the testimony she had given at the hearing in Washington on May 1.

Mrs. McCormick not only reviewed the campaign in which she defeated Senator Charles S. Deneed for the Republican nomination but repeated her original testimony that she had spent $252,572.30.

She recalled that three weeks ago she had submitted to the committee, whose Chicago hearing is being conducted by Senator Gerald P. Nye, a statement showing that she had found three volunteer organizations which worked for her in the campaign expended $67,214.10 in addition to her personal expenditures.

Mrs. McCromick criticized Senator Nye for giving a statement to the newspapers saying that his investigators had found she expended approximately $325,000 instead of the $252,000 which she reported.

"His assertion is inaccurate and misleading," her statement said. "It is difficult to understand in

BANDIT SOUGHT BY SHERIFF'S POSSES

SAN DIEGO, July 14.—Sheriffs posses are searching the mountain section near Descanso today for a youthful bandit who gagged and bound R. H. Bowman, Owensmouth, Calif., to a tree near there yesterday after Bowman had given the robber a ride in his car.

The robber took the car but was later captured after Bowman had freed himself and notified the sheriff's office. Taken to Descanso by a deputy the robber escaped. He is believed to have been wounded by one of four shots fired by the deputy but no trace of him had been found today.

Brock Sees Large Orange Crop For County Orchards

The 1930-31 orange crop in Orange county will be 95 per cent of normal, in the opinion of A. A. Brock, county horticultural commissioner.

The commissioner basis his estimates on the results of investigations as to the June drop. This, he said, was light, taking the county as a whole into consideration. The drop in some orchards was heavy, he said, but the average for the county was very light.

The setting for the 1930-31 season, which starts with next November, indicates that the trees will be heavily loaded with the golden fruit. The commissioner pointed out that this would portend fruit of small size.

Screen Actress Drives Nude In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, July 14.—(UP)—Even if the temperature did reach 98 yesterday, Evelyn Eagan, screen actress, had no right to do a Lady Godiva through the streets of Hollywood, police said.

Accordingly Miss Egan was arrested on a drunk charge after two officers halted her weaving automobile and found to their surprise that the driver was nude.

The actress explained that it was so warm that she just was stifling so she had removed the bathing suit which she had worn to the beach.

With the aid of a blanket officers transported Miss Eagan to the police station and then to county jail. She was released this morning.

DEATH CLAIMS REAR ADMIRAL A. H. ROBERTSON

Commandant of Pacific Division Passes Away In San Diego Hospital

SAN DIEGO, July 14.—(UP)—Flags of the eleventh naval district were at half mast today for Rear Admiral Ashley Herman Robertson, 62, commandant of the division and a prominent world war figure, who died at the naval hospital here yesterday.

A congestion of the lungs which followed influenza caused Admiral Robertson's death at a time when doctors believed him on the road to recovery.

Military funeral services will be held at the First Methodist church here tomorrow afternoon. Service units will escort the body to a train for Washington, D. C., where the fallen naval leader will be buried in Arlington cemetery.

Admiral Robertson, born at Ashmore, Ill., December 14, 1867, entered Annapolis naval academy in 1884 and after graduation served with various vessels of the fleet. Later he became an instructor at the academy and in 1916 was commissioned as a captain.

His career reached its height during the World war when, after commanding the great troop ship Mt. Vernon, he was appointed transport officer charged with maintaining a steady stream of transports to France. When the war closed he became commander of the U. S. S. New Mexico, the navy's first electrically driven dreadnaught.

Subsequent assignments given Admiral Robertson were as commander of the Atlantic destroyer force and chief of staff at the naval war college, Newport, R. I. In 1923 he was given command of the eleventh naval district here and remained until 1926. He was placed in command a second time in 1928, a post he held at the time of his death.

Among the admiral's honors during his career were the naval war college diploma, the navy cross and the distinguished service medal of the war department.

Investigate Death Of Grape Worker

FRESNO, Calif., July 14.—(UP)—A coroner's jury will investigate this afternoon the death of A. R. Matignon, Sanger worker for the grape campaign who was shot to death Friday night.

Two step-brothers, William Maglio, 27, and Joseph Egialeo, 23, were in the county jail here today, visibly repentant for their part in the tragedy.

DELHI MEXICAN IS KILLED IN SUNDAY FIGHT

Police Narrowly Avert Lynching After One Man Stabbed to Death

SERIOUS TROUBLE which threatened soon after Pete Gonzales, 30, had been arrested by Officers E. E. Perry and Merle Dean, at Delhi, early last night, for the brutal murder of Manuel Valenzuella, in a knife-gun battle at Measer street and Central avenue, was averted when Officer Perry rushed the murderer to the county jail, while Officer Dean mingled with an angry crowd which had gathered and dispersed them.

Several Mexicans jumped on the running board of the police car as Perry was taking the prisoner away.

Valenzuella was stabbed through the heart with a butcher knife, after a shot he had fired at Gonzales had gone wild. He didn't have another chance to fire, as Gonzales rushed him with the knife and with one upward swing plunged the knife through the man's heart.

The story of the murder was told officers by both Gonzales and Elisa Bozorquez, the latter being the only eye witness to the killing.

She told officers that she saw Valenzuella in her front yard and that he had been drinking and she attempted to have him come into the house. Just as she spoke to him, she said Gonzales came around the corner of the house and threatened her, telling her to get inside or he would kill her.

He then turned to Valenzuella and Valenzuella pulled a pistol and fired at Gonzales. The shot went wild and Gonzales rushed his assailant. One swing of the knife and Valenzuella was dead. His body slumped down into a corner of the fence.

The body was found there by officers who were led to the scene of the murder by Gonzales. After the

MOTHER OF ELSIE JANIS DIES SUNDAY

LOS ANGELES, July 14.—(UP)—One of the most famous companionship in filmdom ended here last night when the death of Mrs. Janie E. Bierbower, mother of Elsie Janis, stage and screen star.

More than a parent, Mrs. Bierbower remained with her daughter throughout the star's brilliant career. During the World war, when Miss Janis entertained the soldiers of the front, her mother secured a special permit from the government and traveled across the ocean with her daughter.

Mrs. Bierbower, a native of Cleveland, O., rescended from an old American family, prominent in the Revolutionary war. Her husband, John E. Bierbower, died a year ago.

173 Known to Have Died In Last 6 Days

Southern States Continue In Grip of Heat With Many Suffering

CHICAGO, July 14.—(UP)—Rainstorms and cooling breezes brought relief to the mid-west today after one of the worst heat waves of the century.

While the torrid wave that already had lasted a week continued Sunday in extreme southern states, temperatures in central and north central states showed decided drops and predictions today were the weather would remain about normal.

In Chicago, a drop of 36 degrees in 24 hours caused residents to complain that it was chilly and to get out their topcoats.

It was impossible to check accurately the amount of damage caused by the six day heat wave, but it was estimated it would run into hundreds of thousands of dollars. Growing crops in many sections were severely hurt and the loss in human life was great.

An unofficial tabulation showed at least 173 dead for the week from heat prostrations, and many others seriously ill. Scores of persons were drowned trying to escape the heat. St. Louis, where the temperature was above 100 for six consecutive days, reported 51 death.

Relief also came to western states, and at Denver the temperature dropped from 94 to 58 degrees in 36 hours. Heavy rains reduced the temperatures in almost all parts of the Rocky mountain region.

In southern states the weather continued intensely hot, but temperatures were a few degrees cooler than on preceding days. Some of the high temperatures reported Sunday were: Cairo, 102; Memphis, 102; Nashville, 100; Little Rock, 106; Atlanta, 100; Fort Worth, 106; Shreveport, 104; and Phoenix, 104.

HOOVER NARROWLY ESCAPES SMASHUP

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(UP)—President Hoover's tranquil week end at his Rapidan, Va., fishing lodge nearly was marred last night by what narrowly missed being a serious automobile accident.

As it was, a White House car driven by Lawrence Richey, one of the President's secretaries, was struck head on by an automobile driven by a Brooklyn, N. Y., woman, who apparently had lost control of her machine as it careened past the car bearing the president, into that driven by Ritchey.

No one was injured in the collision, which took place near Falls Church, Va., capital suburb, while the presidential party was motoring back from Rapidan.

CALVIN COOLIDGE DECLARES ECONOMIC PROGRESS AHEAD; UNCERTAINTY IS NOW PAST

By CALVIN COOLIDGE
Former President of the United States

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., July 14.—The economic progress, not only of our own country, but of the world at large, has been retarded by three factors of uncertainty, the German bond issue, the tariff revision and the long session of Congress. All of these have now been removed.

Business can stand anything better than uncertainty. A bad situation it can write off and then start anew, but when confronted by the unknown it can only remain inactive. The universal over-subscription to the German loan was most encouraging. It shows the financial world has confidence in the Young plan and in the credit stability of Germany. It was also a gratifying illustration of a broad desire to restore Germany, and on our part, of a continuing purpose to help Europe.

The worst and the best is now fairly well known about the tariff. The Congress will cease from troubling for a period of five months. International finance and domestic legislation have reached a more certain position. Certainty is the basis of business confidence.

M'DONALD, KEY WITNESS IN BILLINGS-MOONEY CASE, IS FREED TO COME TO COAST

BALTIMORE, Md., July 14.—(UP)—John McDonald, key-witness in the Mooney-Billings case, was released here today so that he may return to California to repudiate testimony which sent the two California labor leaders to jail in connection with the 1916 San Francisco bombing. He had been held since Friday night by police.

Release was upon motion of Herbert R. O'Connor, state's attorney, for Baltimore.

MacDonald, now broken in health, was released to the joint custody of his two lawyers, Charles Ruzeika and Hillary Gans, and Frank P. Walsh, who is representing the Mooney defense committee, by Judge Walter S. Dawkins in Baltimore circuit ccurt. MacDonald probably will not go west for a week or more, pending preparation of his case here by his attorneys.

MacDonald was released without any qualifications to his attorneys and Walsh. He left the courtroom in the company of Ruzeika and Gans.

Wire Givernor

His lawyers wired Governor Young of California, today asking him to set a date for a hearing in the case of Mooney whom Young recently refused to pardon; the governor indicated that if MacDonald were located, his statement might change the decision, and this started the nationwide search which found MacDonald last Friday night. A rehearing also will be sought before the California supreme court in the case of Warren K. Billings, who was recently denied a pardon by the court.

Both have been in jail for fourteen years, largely on the basis of MacDonald's testimony in the California trials that he saw them at the scene of the explosion with a satchel supposedly carrying dynamite. They were serving life sentences. MacDonald swore in an affidavit Saturday night that he

GASOLINE PRICES BACK TO NORMAL

SAN FRANCISCO, July 14.—(UP)—The waning gasoline war manifested itself only by sporadic outbreaks today.

In the San Francisco bay region, all parties concerned had apparently arrived at armistice. Both major and independent companies were generally agreed, and 20-cent signs hung from most stations. A scattered few still offered fuel at 13 cents, but it was thought they would see the light before night.

"Tank wagon" prices, subject during the past weeks to wild fluctuation, were back at 16 cents a gallon.

Shot Down By Real Estate Broker When He Steps From Witness Stand

ASSAILANT IS CAUGHT

After Killing Banker Slayer Throws Gun on Body and Waits For Arrest

LOS ANGELES, July 14.—(UP)—As a direct result of the $100,000,000 Julian Petroleum Corporation collapse, Mottley Flint, well-known Southern California financier and a brother of the late Frank Flint, former United States senator, was murdered in a courtroom here today.

Frank Keaton, Inglewood real estate dealer, arrested after he sent three bullets into Flint's body said losses sustained in the Julian crash in May, 1927, led him to the act.

The slaying took place in the courtroom of Superior Judge Frank Collier just after the banker had given testimony in a pending case.

Police arrested Frank D. Keaton, real estate broker, and charged him with the murder.

Flint was stepping from the witness stand, according to witnesses, when Keaton, in the second spectators row stood up, pointing a gun and shot Flint through the throat.

Dies Instantly

Flint died instantly.

Officers rushed to the courtroom and took Keaton into custody. Keaton offered no explanation nor any protest when he was arrested.

Judge Collier immediately took charge in the courtroom.

"Flint had just stepped down when I heard shots ring out," the jurist said. "I saw Flint fall and then this man Keaton) threw the gun on Flint's body."

After protesting that he had no intention of killing Flint and that he acted on an impulse Keaton admitted he had thought of slaying the banker for some time.

"Flint ruined me," Keaton said. "I put all my money in bank stock and it went down. I had four thousand shares.

Fire Three Bullets

"I thought of killing him some time ago but I didn't really expect to go through with it. I went to the court room and when he walked from the witness stand I thought I might as well let him have it. I stood up and shot him."

Keaton fired three bullets. One struck Flint in the throat and the

Waiter Witness In Mooney Trial Will Come to Coast at Once

SAN FRANCISCO, July 14.—(UP)—John Macdonald, waiter witness in the Mooney-Billings preparedness day trials, will tell his story of repudiation after the August primary, it was announced here today in behalf of Governor C. C. Young.

Macdonald's story, that he gave false evidence when Billings and Mooney were convicted of the 1916 bombing outrage, in which 10 persons were killed, will be at an open hearing, before Governor Young and his advisory pardon board, the governor said.

Governor Young is a candidate for reelection and in the primary to be held August 26 will contest with Buron Fitts, Los Angeles district attorney, and Mayor James Rolph jr., San Francisco, for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

It is presumed that decision to delay the Macdonald hearing until after the primary is with a view of preventing the case from becoming an issue in the present campaign.

The Mooney-Billings case has been a matter of bitter controversy in California ever since conviction of the pair. Billings, tried first, was convicted in 1916 and sentenced to life at Folsom and Mooney, convicted in 1917, was sentenced to death but the sentence later was commuted to life imprisonment at San Quentin.

Although Governor Young did not mention the case in connection with his candidacy for a second term he was quoted as saying that the affair should be "kept out of politics."

So far in the campaign there has been no reference to either Thomas J. Mooney or Warren K. Billings.

In California the gubernatorial election means assurance of election and Governor Young's two opponents, Fitts and Rolph, have not declared what they would do should

Inquest Ordered In Simmons Death

Coroner Charles D. Brown announced this afternoon that he had ordered an autopsy on the body of Carl Simmons, well known La Jolla man, who dropped dead at his home at Dowling street and Orangethorpe avenue, near La Jolla yesterday.

The body has been taken to the McAuley and Suters Funeral parlors at Fullerton.

Simmons was well known in the Placentia district, where he had lived for a number of years. He is the man who subdivided the La Jolla township, which was almost completely destroyed by fire several days ago.

Mercury Soars To 96 Degrees

Admittedly it was just a trifle warm today, but the temperature did not cause severe suffering or men and women to drop over in the street, as has occurred in some of the middle west states where deaths have been numerous.

According to the Hill and Son thermometer, the temperature reached its highest point at 11:30, when the mercury ascended the scale to 96.

Two hours later, at 1:30 o'clock, it had dropped one degree and as the afternoon advanced the weather became cooler.

BODY IS FOUND BY BROTHER IN CLOSED GARAGE

An inquest was to be held this afternoon at the Winbigler Funeral home, to determine, if possible, cause for the death of Russell Gibson, 27, city employe, whose body was found Saturday night slumped over the steering wheel of his automobile, in the garage of his home at 2115 1-2 Orange avenue, by his brother, Keith Gibson.

That death was caused from inhalation of poisonous monoxide gas fumes, generated from the exhaust pipe of his automobile, was the verdict of Santa Ana police, who were called to the place, but members of the family were not satisfied that Gibson took his own life, as they know of no reason why he should desire to end his life, they reported.

Coroner Charles D. Brown announced he would hold an inquest at 2:30 o'clock.

Police reported that both doors to the garage were closed and that the windows on Gibson's machine were closed. The engine was not running when the body was found, but they were of the opinion that it had become flooded and died on its own accord. There was still gasoline in the tank.

The entire garage was covered with carbon soot, and Gibson had been dead for a number of hours when his brother made the discovery.

Coroner Brown was of the opinion that Gibson may have died as early as Friday night, he said, arriving at this theory from the condition of the body. Nothing was found about the man's effects that would indicate that he contemplated suicide, it was reported.

Gibson was well known here. He had been an employe of the street department of the city for the past number of years and also was well known as a night baseball player. He was a member of the American Legion team in the city league, and played third base. His last game was last Wednesday night.

No funeral arrangements have been completed.

had not seen either of the men at the place where the bombing occurred.

MacDonald was pronounced fit for the long journey by Dr. John J. Morrisey, coroner for the northern Baltimore district, who examined him. Morrisey recommended a rest, however, and MacDonald will go into seclusion until time to leave here.

The text of an affidavit made by John MacDonald in reference to the Thomas J. Mooney-Warren K. Billings case is as follows:

"John MacDonald, being duly sworn, deposes and says:

"At the present time I am a citizen and resident of Baltimore, Md. I live at 2417 Maryland avenue and I am employed as telephone operator and night watchman at the Roland Park Apartments. This is a large apartment house containing 72 apartments. I have been employed at this same place for the last six years. I have worked and lived under my true name all my life.

"I am the same John MacDonald who testified in the cases of Warren K. Billings, Thomas J. Mooney, Mrs. Rena Mooney and Israel Wineberg in San Francisco, California.

'Testimony Untrue

"In February, 1921, I was employed as a waiter in the Trenton House, in Trenton, N. J. My testimony in the four trials to the effect that I identified a man who laid a suitcase alongside the building about 20 feet from the corner of Market and Steuart streets and that I afterwards saw another man come out and speak to him was untrue. I did not and could not make any such identification.

"In February, 1921, after being worried for months about being responsible for two men passing their whole lives in prison, I concluded to make a clean, truthful statement of the affair. I talked to the proprietor of the hotel where I lived, in Trenton, N. J., and I talked to other friends and associates I had in Trenton at that time and told a number of them the facts. They advised me to notify the attorneys for Mooney and Billings.

"I went first to the office of Bourke Cockran, in the city of New York, who was a very prominent lawyer there at that time and who has since died. At that office we were directed to go to the office of Frank P. L. Welch in the Woolworth building in New York. They told me at Mr. Cockran's office that Mr. Cockran was sick and unable to attend to any business.

To Tell Truth

"I went to Mr. Walsh's office and told him I wanted to tell the truth and nothing but the truth about the Mooney case. I made a statement before a notary public and swore to it, giving all of the facts in connection with the case. I explained in that affidavit that I was induced to identify these men by Fickert and Goff in San Francisco.

"I testified in my affidavit, and it was the truth, that I did not and could not identify either Mooney or Billings, an dthat both of them were exhibited to me in their cells in the police station and they were called by their names when I was asked to make the identification. I was shown Mooney by Lieutenant Goff.

"When we got into the police station, Goff walked right up to the door of Mooney's cell. I had no recollection of ever having seen the man before and could not have identified him if Goff had not turned around to me and whispered, 'This is your man, this is Mooney,' and then he said in a louder voice, 'Mooney, here is a man who wants to take a look at you.'

"Didn't Know Him"

"I did not know Mooney at the time and never remembered having seen him before. Lieutenant Goff afterward took me to the door of Billings' cell. He asked the turnkey to open the door.

"He said, 'Come here Billings.' A young man came out and he had him walk up and down the corridor.

"I did not know Billings and did not remember having seen him before in my life and of course could not identify him if Lieutenant Goff had not brought me to the cell and told me who he was.

"When I went back to the Hall of Justice I did not even then say to Fickert that I identified these men, but Fickert said to me, 'Now these are the fellows you saw and they are the —— —— —— that I am going to put away!

"Then he said, 'We'll take good care of you, we'll pay all your hotel expenses and I will see the chief about getting you a little money once in a while.'

"I have today carefully read over the affidavid which I made in 1921. In order to make sure of every detail, I read it over several times, consuming a good deal of time in reading it. I read it over in the presence of Charles Rusicka and Hilary W. Gans, my Baltimore counsel, and Frank P. Walsh.

"Every word I said in that affidavit is true and I wish to stand by it. I have asked my attorneys to attach a copy of the affidavit I made in 1921 to this affidavit in order that I would not have to go into all details at this time.

"After I made the affidavit in 1921, I went to San Francisco for the purpose of giving a truthful account of the whole affair to the officials in San Francisco.

"I talked to District Attorney Brady in San Francisco and his assistant and a number of other people, including Fremont Older, the newspaperman. I went to the District Attorney and told him I was ready to go before the grand jury, which he said was then in session. I told him that I set out the truth in my affidavit and I would testify to it any place.

"Mr. Brady advised me not to give my testimony to the grand jury. I remained in California at that time for several weeks, when I returned to Baltimore, stopping part of one day in New York. I have been in Baltimore ever since, working and living under my own name.

"I have worked at the apartment house every single night since last August, until last night, on my way to work, a police officer came up to me on Thirty-sixth street, between Roland avenue and Hickory. He showed me my picture cut out of a paper and asked me if I was John MacDonald.

"I told him I was John MacDonald, and he asked me to come to the police station.

"When I got to the police station, I telephoned to the partment house and asked to have Mr. Charles Ruzicka come to the station house. Mr. Ruzicka is a prominent lawyer of Baltimore and has an apartment in the house where I work and has known me for the last six years. After Mr. Ruzicka came to the police station, he inquired as to the cause of my arrest.

Mr. William J. Martin was present when Mr. Ruzicka got there. Mr. Martin is the manager of the apartment house where I work. Mr. Martin got to the police station first and it was Mr. Martin whom I asked to call up Mr. Ruzicka. I had never talked to Mr. Ruzicka or Mr. Martin about this case and I had never talked about the case to any person since I left San Francisco in 1921.

"Mr. Ruzicka asked me what it was all about and I told him it was in connection with the false testimony which I gave in the Mooney and Billings cases in California. I told him in the presence of Mr. Martin that I wanted to tell the truth and Mr. Ruzicka told me in the presence of Mr. Martin that he wanted me to tell the truth and I told him that I would do that regardless of any personal consequence.

"I made a short statement, which was taken down in longhand by Mr. Ruzicka and signed by me and witnessed by Mr. Martin. I am attaching to this affidavit the original statement which I made, in the handwriting of Mr. Ruzicka. Mr. Ruzicka then took the statement and had it typewritten and I read it over and it was witnessed by a number of police officers who were present.

'To Right a Wrong'

"The state attorney of Baltimore City, Mr. O'Conor, asked me why I had testified as I did and then stated it was false. I told him the only reason in the world I had for doing it was to right a wrong I had done and that is the truth.

"I told Mr. Ruzicka he could wire the governor of California or any of the officers out there and say I would be willing to appear anywhere and tell the truth in regard to the case again, to undo the wrong done by sending two innocent men to prison.

"I told Mr. Ruzicka I had been worrying terribly about my part in this case for years and I could not sleep at night and I had gone off in my weight almost to a shadow and had been anxious for years to undo the wrong which I did these men through the influence of the officials in San Francisco, as I set out in my affidavit and told Mr. Ruzicka and others here.

"I am signing my name to a printed copy of the affidavit which I swore to in 1921, so that it may be read with this affidavit in all of its details and I say that every line contained in that affidavit is true.

(Signed) "JOHN M'DONALD."

Luvina Layton Schade, of the Green Cat confectionery, went into first place in the girl's division of the big Santa Ana Register-Fox West Coast theaters popularity contest when the third counting of votes was completed and announced today. She is 60,000 votes ahead of her nearest competitor, Sue Verburg, who was leading in the middle of last week, and 73,000 votes ahead of Dorothy Loyd, who has been a close contender from the start.

In the boys' division, Mario Mercurio continued to lead the field, his advantage being stronger with each counting of the ballots. Norman Paul, who has held second position from the start, also shows a big increase ince the last votes were counted.

Robert Naylon and Ted Nemcomb also showed strength during the past few days.

The next announcement of the standing of the candidates will be made in Thursday's Register and all votes cast up to and including Wednesday night will be recorded.

Two new girl candidates were announced. They are Gail Dowling, of Tustin, and Catherine Rowland, of Orange. They entered the contest Saturday.

The contest is being staged to determine the most popular boy and girl in Orange county, who will be the recipient of gifts and the leading parts in a big feature motion picture which will be made by the Fox corporation in Santa Ana. The contest will run until August 26.

MOTLEY FLINT IS KILLED IN L.A. COURTROOM

other two hit him high in the chest.

The case in which Flint was testifying was that of David Selznick, film producer, seeking a quarter of a million dollars damages from a bank with which Flint formerly was associated.

Selznick claimed he had posted film stock as security for a loan but that the stock never had been returned to him. Flint testified he could not remember details of the quarter of a million dollar transaction.

Keaton stood about three feet from Flint's body, making no attempt to leave or to resist arrest.

Lost Bank Stock

Keaton said he was 56 and that his home was in Lnglewood. He said he was a former member of the Bible Institute.

"I just decided to do it a little while ago," Keaton said. "I've had that gun in my trunk for 35 years. I heard that Flint was to be in court and I came early and sat down in there.

"I suddenly decided to shoot him. I bought some bank stock from his old bank some time ago."

Flint was known as one of the most influential banking figures in Southern California. He recently was tried but acquitted on charges of having accepted usurious interest from the Julian Petroleum corporation.

Flint was born in Boston, Mass., in 1865 moving to San Francisco, where he received his early school education.

In 1896, Flint was appointed postmaster at Los Angeles and held that office until 1904, when he was elected president of the Metropolitan Bank and Trust company.

Later he served as executive vice president of the Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings bank and director of the Los Angeles First National bank.

He resigned his offices with the banks when the two firms consolidated under the name of Security-First National bank in April 1928.

Flint retired from public life in January, 1929, then he spent much of his time traveling about the United States and Europe. He returned here from Europe several years ago when he was indicted in the Julian case.

While he had had other dealings with Flint it really was his $4,600,000 loss in the Julian case which enraged him, officers quoted Keaton as having said.

The shooting threw the courtroom of Superior Judge Frank Collier into a turmoil. One woman fainted and two others became hysterical when Flint toppled and then fell to the floor dead.

Flint had just concluded testimony in a case before Judge Collier and was stepping from the witness stand when Keaton stood up, aimed a revolver at the banker and fired three times.

One bullet struck Flint in the jaw, a second hit him in the neck, and the third took effect high on the breast. Death was instantaneous.

DEATHS

A WORD OF COMFORT

In the final analysis it is because you know that God loves His children that you are absolutely certain that your dear one continues to live after having passed away from an earthly habitation. A God of love could not see the object of His love exterminated.

Furthermore, just because He loves, He is so unselfishly devoted to the well-being of His child that He would not preserve its life unless the days ahead were to be characterized by joy and blessedness. Therefore you know that your dear one is happy and going on from strength to strength.

RAIL REMOVAL PREREQUISITE TO AGREEMENT

The city council of Santa Ana never will consent to abandonment of the street car service between Santa Ana and Orange unless discontinuance of the rail connection also includes removal of the tracks on Main street, according to a declaration today by Frank L. Purinton, mayor.

The city councils of Santa Ana and Orange today were without official notice of the recent action of the railroad commission in granting the railway company permission to discontinue its service between the two municipalities, according to the clerks of the two cities.

The Santa Ana council meets tonight and the council at Orange tomorrow afternoon, and consideration of the abandonment program will not be taken up, unless it is done in an informal way on the basis of information of the action of the commission received some two weeks ago by the board of supervisors.

Notice to the supervisors included the information that the commission had granted the application of the Pacific Electric company for permission to discontinue the street car service on condition that approval be given by the councils of the two cities most directly concerned.

Purinton intimated that he and his colleagues on the local council would have no objection to the program if the railroad tracks were removed from Main street.

"We do not want the tracks to remain on the street and will oppose any effort made to discontinue the car service without removing the rails," the mayor said.

It is known that the railway company wants to maintain the line so that it may be used at night in the transportation of freight to and from Orange.

Announcement was made recently that the company's program is to substitute the car service with bus service between the two communities, with the bus fare reduced to six cents as against the car rate of 10 cents.

POLICE AT ORANGE JAIL RUDY GOETZ

Rudy Goetz, of Delhi, this afternoon was in the Orange jail, following his arrest this morning after a skirmish with Chief of Police B. H. Richards and Officer Pete Winslow. Goetz is charged with resisting an officer.

According to Chief Richards, Goetz resisted arrest after the officers had found a gallon jug of liquor in his car. In the struggle that followed Goetz broke the bottle, destroying the evidence, they said. The fight and arrest took place at Frank's barbecue at Orange.

CONSTRUCTION OF RIVER WEIR IS UNDER WAY

Announcement that construction has started on the weir across the Santa Ana river, direction of attention to the fact that flood control is claiming more attention than ever, stress on the necessity of a main distributing ditch and comment on the conservation problems that the association is attempting to solve, were features of the address of Francis Cuttle, president, at the annual meeting of the Water Conservation association held at the office of the association in Riverside.

Officers and directors were returned for the year, as follows: Francis Cuttle, president; D. S. Bell, Riverside, vice president; Mrs. C. J. Kettering, Riverside, secretary; R. D. Skelly of Riverside, H. H. Hlea, A. N. Saxon, W. W. Hoy, Orange county; J. C. Jones, J. W. Catick, George S. Hinkle, Riverside county, directors.

Highlights of the report by Cuttle follow:

"The diverting weir at the mouth of the upper Santa Ana river is now under construction. This weir is a part of a tentative system, on the Santa Ana river and tributaries, selected from the state engineer's report, which sys, tem, when completed, would cost in the neighborhood of $30,000,000. It is likely that the first heavy rains will bring the gravel to the top of the weir on the upper side.

"The rubble masonry in the weir ranges from 4 feet to 7 feet thick. Suitable intake works at the west end of the weir lead to a covered conduit 450 feet long, having a carrying capacity of 1000 second feet or 50,000 miners inches. This closed conduit empties into an open cement ditch 700 feet long to connect with an intake used at present to divert water direct from the river, or water can be diverted direct from the end of the closed conduit, back to the river, should it be necessary or desirable to do so.

"The most of the weir will be between $60,000 and $70,000. This is being met by the boards of supervisors of San Bernardino, Riverside and Orange counties and the Water Conservation association, each organization paying one-quarter of the cost.

"The construction of this weir is the first step in a comprehensive plan for the control of floods and the conservation of water on the Santa Ana river. While it will enable the association to save part of the water that is now being wasted into the ocean, it should be regarded as a beginning only, and a part of the comprehensive system when all of the system is completed.

"The weir itself will not desilt the water which it will divert into the spreading system. That can be done only by dams. This matter was called to the attention of the Hoover-Young commission by George S. Hinkley, W. W. Hoy and your president, who urged the necessity for the construction of dams on the Santa Ana river, as above outlined. Senator Ralph E. Swing is a member of the commission and is losing no opportunity to keep the claims of the Santa Ana river forcibly before the commission.

"Should a comprehensive program of water conservation and flood control be authorized by the next session of the legislature, the claims of the Santa Ana river, both in the upper regions, as well as near the ocean, should be included in any proposed legislation. Even if the comprehensive plan being worked out by the Hoover-Young commission is not put into effect by the next legislature, there may be another means of securing state and possibly federal aid for this necessary work.

"During the past year, ending June 30th, 1930, water supply and its maintenance and flood control are claiming the attention of the federal and state governments to a greater extent than ever before.

"Should actual construction of conservation work and flood control be delayed much longer, the results will be disastrous, not only to individuals and localities, but it will be reflected in reduction in both income and other taxes.

"It will be necessary to build a main distributing ditch from the point where the conduit, now being built under contract, would deliver the water to the intake of this association. It is likely that a nautral arroyo can be utilized to carry this water, in which case it will only be necessary to build concrete gates at each cross contour ditch to turn water into them and permit the balance to pass on down to the other contour ditches. Should there be heavy erosion or cutting on the steep grade of the aroyo selected, when the water is first turned into it, this will do no particular harm as there are plenty of large boulders to prevent too much cutting when the loose material is washed away.

"The association recently has had an aerial survey made of this area which will simplify and expedite the selection of the best route for the construction of this main distributing ditch.

"Water levels in artesian wells under observation by this association show a rise in pressure equal to 3.46 feet July 1st, 1930, above October 1st, 1929. Surface wells show a rise of 6.06 feet during the same period. The rainfall record for San Bernardino shows that it averaged about 3 inches below normal for the past three years but the year 1927 was above the average. As it takes about three years for water to travel through under ground strata from the base of the mountains to the wells under observation, it is likely that the slight rise in water levels noted is the result of the heavy rains of 1927 and the spreading of water during that season by this association.

"In this connection it is noted that 70,000 acre feet of water were lost into the ocean during the season of 1927. Had we had means of diverting and conserving this water there is little doubt that water conditions would be better in the locality under observation than they are now.

"The cash statement for the year ending June 30th, 1930, shows receipts and disbursements in excess of $16,000.00, with cash on hand of over $3,000. It will be noted that the Association has paid nearly $5000 on its part of the cost of the weir and the contract price is $59,679. The total cost including engineering and overhead will be considerably over $60,000. With the regular income of the association for the fiscal year beginning July 1st, 1930, plus cash on hand, there will be no difficulty in the association meeting its part of the cost of the weir and still have between $3000 and $4000 to expend on the proposed main supply ditch heretofore referred to."

'OUR DEBT TO THE DREAMER' SERMON TOPIC

"Our Debt to the Dreamer" was the subject of the sermon of the Rev. Walter S. Buchanan, pastor of the First Christian church, at the morning service yesterday. The pastor cited to his congregation many of the great inventors of the past who were laughed at when they advanced their "dreams," but whose efforts have resulted in the advance of civilization and the modern conveniences we enjoy today.

"Take the dreamer out of world history and who would care to read it?" the Rev. Mr. Buchanan asked. "Most of the things which made life worth living, which have emancipated man from drudgery and lifted him above commonness, we owe to our dreamers. Our great ocean liners, our marvelous tunnels, our magnificent bridges, our schools, hospitals, libraries and cosmopolitan cities with their vast facilities and comforts, are all the results of somebody's dreams.

"We hear a great deal of talk about the impracticality of dreamers, of people whose heads are among the stars, but where would civilization be today but for the dreamer? How many matter-of-fact unimaginative men, who see only through practical eyes, would it take to replace in civilization an Edison, Bell, or Marconi?

"Christ Himself was denounced as a dreamer, but His whole life was a prophecy, a dream of a coming man, a coming civilization. He saw beyond the deformed, weak, deficient man to the ideal man, the image of divinity. Christ dreamed of a day when all mankind would return unto God through Him, because He was willing to shed His blood on the cross for the redemption of mankind.

"There is nothing that hurts the heart of God so much as seeing His creatures drifting away from Him in sin. Let us as Christians become more like the great dreamers, and dream of a world that is free of sin, ruled over by Christ as the king of our souls and lives."

Masonic Temple Group Will Pass On Bids Tonight

In preparation for executing its program for construction of a new Masonic temple on the northeast corner of Fifth and Sycamore streets, the building committee of the Santa Ana Masonic Temple association, limited, will meet at the temple tonight to consider bids for erection of the structure.

Bids were opened in Long Beach Saturday at the office of Architect Austin, the competition bringing 16 offers by general contractors throughout the Southland.

It is anticipated that when the figures submitted are publicly revealed they will disclose that the keen competition in the building field resulted in offers much below the estimates made by the architect.

With a view to its colonization a government commission is exploring that part of New Guinea belonging to the Netherlands East Indies, to determine the type of agriculture to which it is best suited.

HUFF TO SERVE 5 COMMITTEES OF STATE FAIR

SACRAMENTO, July 14.—D. Eyman Huff, of Orange, today was appointed to serve on five important committees in connection with the California state fair, which will be held in Sacramento, August 30-September 7. The appointments, made by R. A. Condee, president of the exposition, place Huff on the following committees: agriculture and horticulture, livestock, junior division and vocational, dairy products and poultry. In addition, he has been named director in charge of track events during the fair.

D. Eyman Huff

Huff recently was appointed to the state fair board by Governor Young. He is one of the leading livestock men of the Pacific slope, and has exhibited at the state fair and other expositions for a number of years, winning many awards.

The state fair this year will have as its theme "Eighty Years of Progress," celebrating the 80th anniversary of California's admission into the Union.

BLOODGOOD TO RESUME SANTA ANA BUSINESS

Freeman H. Bloodgood, after three years of commuting to Los Angeles, has decided to resume the real estate business in Santa Ana.

He stated today that holding down a job in Los Angeles while living in Santa Ana so uses up the day and one's energy that practically all activities in civic and social affairs are largely curtailed.

Bloodgood came from Iowa to California 22 years ago, finishing a law course in U. S. C., but found real estate more attractive. Having been a state official for some eight years, he has had opportunity to size up the different portions of California, thus enabling him to feel confident that Santa Ana is the cream of the great Southwest.

He said, "I moved to Santa Ana in 1919. Since that time the population of Santa Ana has more than doubled. Santa Ana has about doubled in population every 10 years since 1890. I confidently predict that we shall have a city of 50,000 people by 1940. Just imagine what that means by way of employment, transfers and advance in real estate values!"

Bloodgood's work as deputy real estate commissioner during the past few years has taken him into Arizona, Nevada, Utah and all over California as inspector of farm lands and rural acreage subdivisions, and he stated that without question Orange county is the best county of its size in the Southwest, and that Santa Ana is the best county seat town in the world.

Bloodgood will be associated with Mel Trickey in real estate, insurance and real estate law, in the Abstract and Title Guarantee company building at Fifth and Main streets.

No More Piles

HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, is guaranteed to banish any form of Pile misery. It gives quick action even in old, stubborn cases. HEM-ROID succeeds because it heals and strengthens the affected parts and removes blood congestion in the lower bowel—the cause of piles. Only an internal medicine can do this, that's why salves and cutting fail. Schramm-Johnson and druggists everywhere sell HEM-ROID with guarantee that it cost you nothing if it doesn't end all Pile agony.—Adv.

VANDALS FAIL TO BALK KLAN CONCLAVE HERE

The carefully laid plans of vandals or an enemy faction went for naught in an attempt to frustrate the concluding session of the annual state Ku Klux Klan "Klorero" or convention Saturday night at the county fair grounds. That determined efforts had been made to balk the proceedings was best evidenced by the fact that wires connecting the park lighting system were mysteriously several, apparently by lurking marauders.

Illuminated by five picturesque electric crosses, the grounds, without any other lighting save that provided by an inquisitive moon and twinkling stars, resembled a weird setting worthy of the imaginative mind of a Dickens, as 10,000 klansmen, their families and curious spectators milled their way into the gloomy enclosure. Desperate, last minute efforts were made to locate the cause of the trouble and when this measure failed, automobile owners were requested to drive their machines into the park and form a semi-circle of light around the ceremonial plaza.

With this improvised lighting plant, a colorful program, elaborate in every detail, was unfolded. Visitors, who never before had witnessed such a sight, sat with muscles tensed, eyes alert, lest they miss some feature of the unforgettable extravaganza. The mammoth grandstand was virtually packed, with standing room a nonenity, when the women's pageant team of California, gayly bedecked in the symbolic robes of the organization, marched onto the field. The opening presentation offered a diverting interpretation of the "Seven Symbols of Klancraft."

To add to the beauty of the pageant, at an appointed time, an illuminated airplane, with the traditional flaming cross plainly visible, swooped out of the skies like some stronge invader from another world, flying at a low range within 50 feet of the ground. During the entire program, the aerial visitor played overhead, performing intricate stunts.

With Klan officials from every part of the state, including T. S. Moodie, of Los Angeles, imperial grand dragon, looking on, the annual outdoor naturalization or initiation of nearly 250 pledges was next presented. This part of the program was conducted by the Los Angeles Klan No. 1. Inasmuch as is was impossible to administer the rites to the entire class, a representative group of 20 was drafted for the occasion. In unison, although not audible in the grandstand, the vows of the order were depeated and allegiance sworn to the national order of Ku Klux Klan.

As a contrast, a musical program and accompanying drill was given by the Los Angeles drum and bugle corps. Popular band numbers interspersed with bits of modern jazz, constituted a pleasing departure from the usual type of concert.

The address of the evening was delivered by the Rev. Bruce Brown, of Los Angeles, pastor of Southpark Christian church. The speaker chose as his subject, "Our Friends and Our Foes," which was a complete analysis of the manner in which the klan has come to be regarded in this country.

"The Ku Klux Klan is gradually finding favor in every section of the United States. People now realize that the unfavorable publicity long accorded the organization, for the most part, was without foundation," he said.

The Rev. Mr. Brown did not confine his remarks entirely to the klan. He stressed the importance of national warfare against gangsters and their ilk and stated that the co-operation and support of the people was essential if organized crime is to be wiped out. Reverting to the prominent part the newspapers play in bringing before the public the actual facts surrounding existing conditions, the speaker declared:

"The American press occupies a responsible niche in the affairs of the people. Constant urging on the part of this medium will tend to bring about a growing knowledge and awakening to the need of rigid law enforcement."

In a forceful style, the Rev. Mr. Brown stressed the importance of intelligent voting in the forthcoming election. He concluded by saying:

"It is the duty of the people to elect to office those when who, by their natural qualifications and past records, are best fitted for the respective duties entailed. It is not enough to elect these men to office, it is imperative that the people as a whole stand behind the men of their choice." The Rev. Mr. Brown's address brought the convention to a close.

Saturday morning, the convention business was transacted in the Knights of Pythias hall, Fifth and Broadway. This formally marked the opening of the annual Klorero and all morning, incoming delegates were officially welcomed and registered. At noon, a recess was declared and a special luncheon held for visiting officials. At 2:30 p. m. a general session was called. At the conclusion of a business discussion, in which favorable detailed reports for the year were heard, an open forum on the state political campaign was held.

While the Ku Klux Klan is reputedly a non-partisan organization it was indicated that the support of the group would be accorded the Young-for-Governor platform. No direct endorsement was made at this time, the general consensus of opinion seeming to indicate that in view of the prosperous and satisfactory record of the present administration a change might work to the disadvantage of California's citizenry.

Next year's convention will be held at Visalia, Calif.

Here's the LOAF Wrapped in GINGHAM BLUE

Freshness and Goodness "SEALED-IN" A Guarantee of Satisfaction to You

AT last we've found it—a dress for WEBER'S bread that actually radiates the goodness of the loaf itself. Since the days of your grandmother and your grandmother's grandmother, blue gingham has stood for cleanliness, purity and freshness. Through the ages it has been a symbol of good, wholesome cookery. It has meant honest, old-fashioned dependability. All of this and more it means now in relation to WEBER'S bread. See the loaf on your grocer's counter—instantly your eye will be attracted by the fresh, dainty, blue gingham wrapper. And so at last WEBER'S bread dominates in outer dress just as it has always in inward flavor, freshness and quality. Easy to select, easy to say: WEBER'S IN THE BLUE GINGHAM DRESS.

PLAYGROUND NEWS

Edison School

A pep meeting was held recently to send off the representative to the city domino contest. A brief program in charge of Dona Endress was presented. The program was led by two charmingly sung numbers by the tiny two year old, Miss Phyllis Jones, followed by two readings given by Miss Darleen White, who is five years old. Those numbers were followed by cheers for Gus McCeustion, Chas. Maxwell, Etla Lounsbury and Blanche McCeustion, representatives to the domino contest. The senior girls team was then introduced. The assembly ended with a rousing yell for the Edison gang.

An assembly also was held to elect the highway safety committee and to award badges to the successful candidates. John Birt was elected captain of the safety squad, while Billy Musick, Selma Allrid and Doris Hossfield were elected his helpers.

The senior boys played a schedule indoor baseball game with Lincoln and lost by a close margin. They also played a practice game with Lathrop which they won after gaining a lead in the fifth inning. The senior girls played a game with Roosevelt and lost.

Recently a group of youngsters had by Etta Launsbury and Irene Wycoff presented us with a humorous skit prepared entirely by themselves.

The miniature golf course at the Edison grounds, which is in the making is progressing rapidly, eight holes having been completed. The boys are working out some clever ideas and are out to win the picnic promised the group of boys who succeed in building the best course in the city by next Thursday.

The attendance at the Edison playground reached a peak of 125 in attendance for the week.

The following parents have shown their interest in the playground by making a visit: Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Reid, Mrs. Gus McCuistian, Mrs. "Doc." Jones, Mrs. White, Mrs. DeGroot, Mrs. Schmidt, Mrs. Johnson, and Mrs. I. R. Schiveitzer. S. E. Hearn and daughter Edna visited the playground and inspected our miniature golf links.

Fremont School

The members of the Fremont playground elected as their safty committee the following boys: Tony Lucio, Jesus Guerrera, Manuel Cruz, Ramon Galvan.

Lowell School

We are making waste paper baskets. We make them out of cardboard and raffia. First we take cardboard and draw the design, then we color the design, and then lace the sides of the basket with raffia. Nancy Morris was the first to finish a basket. We get 25 points for making them.

ELEANOR HENRY.

The Lowell playground is getting up the girls' indoor tea.m. Colleen Block and Beryl Bates are the captains of the two sides. Every day we are going to practice from 3:30 to 4:30 p. m.

BERYL BATES.

During the first week of the playgrounds the children made curtain pulls. They had to braid the raffia, then they put beads and spools on them. You may pull curtains or electric lights with them.

LURA MAE KENT.

Spurgeon School

The system of points was explained by Miss Robertson. The rest of the week was spent by working in clay, and playing indoor or croquet. The boys are organizing a team to play some other playground.

Roosevelt School

Thursday was the banner day in attendance for Roosevelt. There was a total enrollment of 125, a day's attendance of 74, 9 adult visitors, and 11 tournament visitors.

The domino tournament was as exciting for onlookers as participants. Many held their breath as a player decided on whether to put the 5-2 player on the 5 end of the two. Some individual high plays were made, followed by zero plays until the game of chance presented more chance than game. The report of winnings was as follows:

Junior High School Girls

Name	Playground	Score	Pts.
Etta Lounsbury	Edison	210	100
Colleen Block	Lowell	170	90
Helen Markel	Lincoln	150	80

L. W. Archer took pictures of the winners for the playground scrap book. The films are furnished by the Sam Stein Stationery store. Children may receive copies of their own pictures from the store for a nominal sum.

Points gained toward the 250 necessary for certificate are as follows:

Lloyd Race, 260, silver certificate; Mae Meall, 220; Irva Watters, 185; Bruce Harnois, 135; Teddy Knowlton, 120; George Dorsey, 115; Raul Gonzoles, 110; Milton Crawford, 95; Eugene Lopez, 95; Kenneth Warren, 80; Mamie Iley, 80; James Watters, 80; Ralph Barnes, 75; Pierino Lovera, 75; Louise Crawford, 60; William Mermen, 55; Jessie Marroquin, 55; Gilbert Gonzales, 50! Priscilla Iley, 50, and Agnes Iley, 50.

The playground has been the scene of some racing by the small boys on hobby horses made by themselves with coping saws and scraps of lumber. Ralph Barnes, Teddy Knowlton and Robert Young have made the best ones so far.

Safe and sane Fourth of July playthings gave some fine results. Made of weighted paper the parachutes, spirals, torpedoes, and showers were colorful and joyous playthings and each child had his own to take home.

The miniature golf course being built under Merle Ewell's direction is progressing splendidly. Coffee cans, broken stove pipes, sewer pipes, and scrap lumber are proving good material in the hands of the boys.

Large Attendance At Second Union Church Service

SUNDAY SERMON PRESENTED BY REV. F. MINCK

ORANGE, July 14.—A large attendance marked the second of the series of union church services in this city at the First Christian church last night when the Rev. Franklin H. Minck preached a sermon which was both inspiring and interesting from the subject "Going to Church With Christ After Pentecost."

The Rev. Minck said in part: "On Monday it is a common phrase to say, 'we went to church with so and so yesterday.' In the same sense, I want to talk about "Going to Church With Christ."

Why Go To Church

As we go back to the New Testament times we find the real reason why we should go to church. Jesus went to the Jewish synagogue because he wanted to unite with others in the worship of His Father. He did this even though the service was conducted with only a partial understanding of God, yet it ministered to his spiritual life. After the death of Jesus and after Pentecost, we find his disciples still going to church with him although he was in the spirit rather than the flesh. We often find Paul in a synagogue and Acts 20:7 tells of the usual meeting on the first day of the week. In every case Paul preached, but he went to worship first and then to preach. We pastors come to church at 11 o'clock rather than waiting until time to preach because we wish to worship first. If we didn't we wouldn't be fit to preach.

Christ Becomes Real

"As we worship in church we find that Christ becomes real to us in our own experience. The Jesus of creeds is slightly important, the Jesus of history is very important as the foundation of our religion, but the Christ of experience is extremely important. Without Christ in us, we have not passed our Pentecost, and we have no Christian joy in this life nor any hope of life eternal with God.

"The runner trains for the 100 yard dash which is the test of his preparation. The Christian prepares for his tests of hard duties, long illness, sorrow, or defeat. The Christian training is found primarily in his public worship at church. The runner and the Christian who fails to train will fail when he meets his test. But the runner's preparation also makes him physically fit for every day of his life. The Christian's preparation not only prepares him for the tests of life, but also for every day of his life.

Does Not Care

"The man who stays home from church when he is able and free to go is saying to himself, the world, and God that he does not care enough about building a Christian character to go to the training school. Roosevelt said, "Yes, I know all the excuses. I know that one can worship the Creator out of doors just as well as in church. But the average man does not thus worship." Therefore let us go to church with Christ to worship His Father, our God."

MUCH ACTIVITY IN OIL FIELD AT BEACH CITY

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 14.—Standard Oil is starting a well on the Jones lease in the old field. It will be Jones Community No. 6. The Jones lease is probably the apex of the Huntington Beach old field. It has been one of the most valuable leases in the field and for its size, probably the most productive. W. I. Jones and Harry Anderson are the largest royalty owners, with Jones holding a two-thirds interest in the royalty. Wells on this lease have been flowing for seven years.

The lease is located on Garfield street near Cypress drive. The lease requirements are said to have been completed with five wells and for this reason the drilling of a sixth well is significant. It is certain Standard does not need the oil, and the kind of equipment installed will be watched with interest.

It is an established fact that Standard is making a deep test at Newport on the Irvine ranch in the east arm of the bay. Standard has the heaviest and newest equipment on this project ever installed at a California well. There is a string of eight-inch drill pipe and the well is being cored apparently all the way. According to a count of the drill pipe taken last week, the hole is now below 1000 feet in depth, probably about 1200. A 22-inch hole is being carried down thus far. This is the biggest hole ever drilled that deep in Orange county.

This well if it develops deep oil, and deep oil is developed at Huntington Beach, will give a prospective oil value to the entire area between Huntington Beach and the east arm of Newport Bay, which would include a portion, if not all of Costa Mesa. Deep sand proven profitably productive here and at Newport bay, would add an area seven miles long by a mile wide to Orange county's area.

The Barnsdall Newland-Borchard is coring below 6700 and still in oil formation, sand and shale, with the last few cores showing some excellent sand with plenty of saturation. The Barnsdall operating department does not think there issufficient sand, saturation or gas to warrant setting casing for a production test as yet, but are confident the well is going to make a producer.

The four or five wells drilling in the town lot zone are all making hole, with McCasland on the old Crail well at Twentieth and Olive, the only one deep enough to be interesting. McCasland is drilling below 5000 feet with no oil showing reported. The other drillers and redrill jobs in the West End town lot have not attained depth below 2000 feet.

Lovely Party Held For Bride-elect Of Garden Grove

ORANGE, July 14.—A lovely affair of the week was the shower and evening party given here the latter part of the week when Miss Alice Campbell and James D. White, who are to be married this evening, were the honor guests and Miss Neva Ward and Miss Wilma Ward were hostesses. The event took place at the Wade home on East Palmrya avenue. Miss Campbell is the secretary of the Appling agency, Santa Ana, and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Campbell of Garden Grove.

Present Musical Program

The evening was spent at games and a musical program was presented. An unique feature of the affair was the appearance of a tiny bride and bridegroom, Little Marietta Weethee and cunning Melva Burk. Marietta was the cunning bride and Melva Burk was the debonaire bridegroom. Miss Campbell was presented with a basket of lovely gifts for the new home which is to be established in this city at 228 South Lemon street. Tiny Burk in a charmingly original costume, was the only attendant and made the presentation.

Guests included Miss Ruby Warwick, Mr. and Mrs. John Dame, the Rev. and Mrs. S. M. Eidsath, Mrs. Vonnie Burk, and small daughters, Melva and Tiny; Leonard Waite, George Skiles, Mrs. W. R. Whittaker, Mrs. S. P. Kane, Mrs. J. M. Frieden, Miss Hazel Frieden, and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Corcoran of Orange.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Pentecost, Miss Lucy Ward, Mr. and Mrs. George Epps, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Campbell and Miss Helen Campbell of Garden Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Dame of Anaheim; George Campbell of Placentia; Clarence Campbell of Los Angeles; Lola, Marietta and Maxine Weethee, of Santa Ana; John Ward and Elmer Ward of Orange.

The bride-elect was the incentive for a prettily appointed kitchen shower given July 1 by Miss Hazel Frieden of 164 Sout hBatavia street.

Bidden in her honor were Miss Neva Ward, Mrs. Olive Eidsath, Mrs. Mina Kenworthy, Mrs. Dorothea Pentecost, Mrs. Bethel Frieden, Mrs. Ollie Dame, Mrs. Effie Dame, Mrs. Charles Townsend, Miss Helen Campbell, Mrs. Mabel Campbell, Mrs. Clarice Corcoran and Mrs. J. M. Frieden.

The ore of aluminum is cheap enough, for it is only clay. But the amount of current needed to make one ton of the metal in an electric furnace is 30,000 units, or 40 times as much as is required for making a ton of steel.

MISSIONARY OF CHINA EXPLAINS FOREIGN LIFE

ORANGE, July 14.—A vivid picture of the conditions in China which she will encounter on her return to that country next month, was painted yesterday morning by Miss Ellen Suffern, missionary to China, at the First Methodist church. Miss Suffern, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Suffern, 636 East Collins avenue, has been home on a furlough for the past year.

The speaker asked for the prayers of those at home while she is on the firing line, as a help in solving the many problems which will come to her in the Orient which at present is rife with unsettled conditions. The interest of those at home form an equipment for missionaries at the battle front, Miss Suffern declared.

Tells of Young People

As the speaker proceeded with her talk, listeners were told of the eager ranks of young people, all anxious for an education and release from conditions which persisted in that country for thousands of years. The adaptability of the young people of China, their readiness to accept new methods and the great effort which is often necessary for them to make to attend school, were told by Miss Suffern in a most interesting way.

The territories for mission work in the foreign field do not overlap—a field is given to a church and they work in that field leaving the adjourning territory to the next mission, Miss Suffern revealed.

Many Soldiers and Bandits

The country is overrun with soldiers and bandits. Property rights are uncertain. Not long ago a group of Christians found themselves without a church to meet in. They went to an adjoining hill and carried 1400 pieces of stones for the construction of a church building. The non-Christians became interested in the building and gave 200 days of labor. These 25 church members worked over a year—390 days—to construct the church just one day's journey in a sedan chair from the ocean front, the speaker said.

The native Christians meet the brunt of the conflicts, with the missionaries standing behind them for moral support, declared Miss Suffern. Fall conferences in China will be held when the four bishops, located in that country, can arrange them. There can be no definite time set as so many unexpected problems come up at all times, the missionary pointed out.

Missionaries Needed

During the coming year 127 missionaries are needed in the field with which she is familiar, Miss Suffern declared, and but only 27 are being sent out.

Miss Suffern has spoken at a number of outstanding missionary events since her arrival here last year, and on a number of occasions she has exhibited numerous articles and pieces of wearing apparel from the district where she teaches in a girls' high school.

IRVINE

Friends of Oscar Patmor, of Alhambra, will be sorry to hear that he received painful injuries, when a pump being installed fell on his feet. He will be in the hospital for several weeks with casts on them. His parents Mr. and Mrs. Walter Patmor, of Trabuca Road, visited him at the hospital this week.

Claude Parkham is driving a new sedan, purchased in Santa Ana the past week.

Rev. Schmoock To Preach For Rev. Loretz

ORANGE, July 14.—The Rev. William Schmoock, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran church, of Santa Ana, will occupy the pulpit of the Rev. Walter Loretz at the Immanuel Lutheran church of Orange during the absence of the latter.

The Rev. Mr. Loretz and family will enjoy a three weeks' vacation, which began today.

Pastor To Attend Oregon Meetings

The Rev. U. E. Harding, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, is leaving this week for Portland, Ore., where he will attend the Columbia river camp meeting. This session is an annual affair for the north Pacific districts of the Nazarene church, and the Rev. Mr. Harding has been called as one of the workers at this meeting. He will be a member of the camp staff.

During his absence the work in the Santa Ana church will be under the guidance of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Meyers. The Rev. Mr. Harding will return to Santa Ana about the first of August, as the camp, opens on the 17th, is scheduled to close on the 27th.

NEWPORT BEACH

NEWPORT BEACH, July 14.—Forty guests enjoyed the hospitality of the Newport Beach Yacht club at the second luncheon and card party of the summer season held Friday afternoon.

Dinner was served in the spacious dining room at noon, after which all assembled on the deck and contract and auction bridge were played.

Mrs. E. J. Cheesewright won high score in contract, and Mrs. Martha Smith in auction bridge.

The following hostesses were present: Mrs. Caroline Heseman, Mrs. Robert E. Rodgers, Mrs. D. F. Axelson, Mrs. James M. Webster, Mrs. Edgar J. Cheesewright, and Mrs. Walter Hubbard.

Friday night, a group of 35 members of the Southern California Yachting association held their monthly meeting and dinner at the Yacht club dining room.

GOD'S STANDARD SERMON TOPIC OF REV. LORETZ

ORANGE, July 14.—Taking as his text Luke 6, 36 to 42, the Rev. Walter Loretz, pastor of the Immanuel Lutheran church used as the theme of his sermon yesterday "God's Standard; with the same measure that ye mete withal it shall be measured to you again."

In introducing his subject, the pastor said, "The text is a mighty exhortation of Christ to be merciful. It is directed to His followers, the Christians, who have experienced and tasted the mercy of God in the Savior and, therefore, 'also should walk in newness of life,' as Jesus says in the text: 'Be ye therefore merciful, as your Father also is merciful. 'This exhortation receives even greater force when considered in the light of the standard set up by Christ in the text: 'For with the same measure that ye mete withal it shall he measured to you again.'

In developing his theme the pastor said in part: "This standard of God is based upon His immutable and incontrovertible righteousness. Many persons entertain the idea that God is not much concerned about their actions and their dealings with their fellowmen, but the Lord looketh from heaven; He beholdeth all the sons of men; He considereth all their works. He takes note of the standard wherewith we measure and deals in like manner with us. God is not a respecter of persons, He rewards those that do good, He punishes the evil-doer; and all this He does commensurate with their own deeds.

"God is not prompted to deal with man according to His standard by any secret ambition, nor along the lines of any hidden counsel. He has clearly revealed the method of operation in His holy Word, so that every one who reads and studies this Word will know at once what his words and deeds will bring unto him. The experiences of thousands of people, good and bad, pious and ungoldly, are the mute, but obvious evidence of Christ's earnest determination when He said: 'With the same measure that ye mete withal it shall be measured to you again.' And herein, as with respect to all declarations of God, be ye not deceived, 'for God is not mocked, whatsoever a man soweth that he shall also reap.'

"The knowledge of this standard of God should urge us all to sincere repentance. How often do we not lose sight of this standard; how unmerciful are we not at times in our thoughts and words of, and in our dealings with our fellowmen: Woe unto us, if God deals with us according to our transgressions and metes unto us with the same measure as we have dealt with others! Let us in this respect walk in newness of life in the future. We surely are desirous of being the recipients of the mercy of God in Jesus Christ, the Savior, let us then be merciful, even as our Father which is in heaven is merciful unto us."

PICK WRAPPERS FOR NEW BRAND OF VALENCIAS

ORANGE, July 14.—Wrappers for the Orco brand of oranges, an exclusive output of valencia oranges from Orange county, will be chosen soon from three wrappers submitted at a recent meeting of the plant managers of this vicinity at the Orange county Fruit Exchange offices.

The fruit is to be advertised as an exclusive product of this county and the wrappers are to be lettered with the motto, "Eating Quality Uniformly Good."

Present plans for marketing the fruit call for placing a display card in each box of the brand shipped. It is planned to make the card very attractive and on it will be printed the information that the fruit is a product of Orange county, Calif.

The uniformity of the grades of fruit marketed under the Sunkist brand was demonstrated in a unique way. Tests had been made from fruit from the various packing plants, the plant managers not having been informed of the procedure. The process is a sort of annual checkup on the uniform quality of this brand as packed by the various packing plants.

After a discussion by the plant managers of the oranges displayed the fruit was identified as the output of the various packing houses from which it was selected. Tests showed that little difference could be found in the fruit.

TWO PROJECTS CONSIDERED BY ORANGE PEOPLE

ORANGE, July 14.—Two important projects are to come before the Orange Community Chamber of Commerce at a meeting scheduled for Thursday afternoon, the proposed opening of South Glassell street through to Grand avenue, Santa Ana, and a plan for placing ornamental lights from the Santa Ana boulevard along West Chapman avenue to Main street.

The meeting has been called by H. D. Nichols, president of the chamber and it is expected to be one of the most important of the year.

A study of a way to finance the placing of the lights is being made, as a difficulty is presented in the fact that ranchers living on the north side of West Chapman avenue are in unincorporated territory while those on the south side are in incorporated territory. It is also desired, it is said, to finance the lighting system in such a way that the expense will not be a burden on the ranchers who are living on a strip recently annexed to Orange.

Will Attract Motorists

It is expected that the new lighting system will provide a brilliantly lighted entrance to the city, which it has been pointed out, will be needed more than ever before as the new Santa Ana boulevard is to have an ornamental lighting system. The lighted entrance to Santa Ana would naturally attract southbound traffic through that city, it is said.

The opening of South Glassell street from Fairhaven avenue to Grand street, Santa Ana, has been under consideration for a number of years. The plan has the approval of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce and of the Santa Ana city council, it is undersood, as the proposed opening would provide an eastern outlet to that city as well as a western outlet to Orange.

THE KING AND HIS SERVANT

Here is the team that nobody could defeat for the U. S. open golf championship at Interlachen, Minneapolis. Bobby Jones, right, probably is more widely known than Donovan Dale, but the latter is the happiest kid in Minneapolis at being selected to carry the golf emperor's precious sticks around Interlachen's treacherous fairways.

STARS HAVE TWO HOME GAMES

Jones Conceded U. S. Amateur Title

M'CREERY, FORMER STANFORD CAPTAIN, FIGHTS PROFESSOR ON CORNER LOT GOLF COURSE

PALO ALTO, Cal., July 14.—(INS)—Bobby Jones won the U. S. open golf title. Who won a rough and tumble "golf" match on a lilliputian course here between Prof. A. N. Goudin of the University of Montana faculty and Harold McCreery, former Stanford university football captain, was to be determined today in police court.

Prof. Goudin and Capt. McCreery filed assault and battery complaints against one another following what was reported to have been a lively encounter on the eighteenth hole of a miniature golf course here.

Ambulances removed Goudin and McCreery to a hospital, while golf course attendants removed pieces of midirons, mashies, drivers and other clubs originally intended for players to use on the course.

McCreery suffered a severe scalp wound while the professor has a sprained shoulder and numerous cuts and bruises.

Each denied starting the fight. Police objected to the brutality of corner lot golf as played in Palo Alto and halted the game as spectators cheered. Goudin is here as a Stanford summer term professor.

GALLANT FOX AFTER ALL-AGE TITLE NOW

CHICAGO, July 14.—Gallant Fox, under the direction of Jockey Earl Sande, began training today for competition in the $25,000 added Arlington part course cup in which "The Fox" will attempt Saturday to win the all-age turf championship in 1930.

It will be the first time that Gallant Fox has run against older horses and a victory would add materially to the three-year-old honors he has won this season. Among the older opponents will be Blue Larkspur, champion three-year-old last year; Misstep, The Nut, and Toro.

Gallant Knight and Ned O, which finished second and third to Gallant Fox on the $70,000 Arlington classic last Saturday, will be among the three-year-old opponents.

Willie minds 'em very well indeed. . . . California, Australia, Massachusetts, New York, Texas, Canada, Kansas and Colorado have had heavyweight champions, but Georgia hasn't clicked as yet. . . . Strib has knocked out 122 bozoes . . . and about 100 of those were gents propped up in the sticks . . . a fan, somewhat the worse for his needled beer, came out in front of the dugout at Sportsmen's Park, St. Louis, the other day, and announced he intended to bat for "Goose" Goslin.

LET'S HAVE A CONTEST!

Boxing commissions, as a rule, are fairly dumb, but they have no exclusive monopoly on the privilege of being unintelligent. In any sort of stupidity contest, the masterminders of the lawn tennis business would run them a pretty race for first prize.

The other day I was talking with a magazine editor who had arranged for a series of articles by a woman members of the United States tennis team at Wimbledon. He had just received a cablegram from the player, stating that "a new ruling had been made stating that no member of an official team may write or give interviews while a member of that team." The penalty for breach of the ruling, the star wrote, would be removal from the team.

This probably is the last word in something or other, but we can't determine just what it is. But that isn't all.

WELL, THEN, HOW'S THIS?

This same player previously had written an article for the magazine, giving her impressions of Helen Wills Moody. In the caption over the article, the editor had referred to the rank of the writer, her official ranking by the United States Lawn Tennis association. But it seems that wouldn't do. Editors are not supposed to inform their readers in headlines the ranking of the writer, the tennis master-minds solemnly averred.

And if that isn't the last word in something or other, maybe some boxing commission will oblige with some quaint asininity. A contest between the bosses of boobism would be a hilarous mid-summer diversion.

GREAT ATLANTA GOLFER IS IN CLASS BY SELF

By DAVIS J. WALSH
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 14.—In the cold, sane light of a new day, some 30 hours after the denouement surrounding the close of the national open championship, there would seem to be nothing to it this morning but to admit that golf is likely to know no lasting competitive equality for at least five years, unless Bobby Jones retires out of sheer boredom.

Golf was intended to make all men humble; but all it apparently has succeeded in doing is to make one man exalted.

At this belated hour Jones, the perennial champion, had left town and the scene of his greatest triumphs Saturday. But this was about all he did leave. He took everything and everybody in his second consecutive open championship with his 287 for 72 holes at Interlachen and the feeling now is that he will continue to do much the same until the game knows him no more.

68 Made Victory Possible

The victory, made possible by a stunning 68 in the third round Saturday morning while most and, in fact, nearly all of the professionals were cracking wide apart, simply added another pearl to the competitive necklace he is assembling this year.

He won the British amateur at St. Andrews. He won the British open at Haylake. Then he came back here and won the American open.

So the tendency is to concede him the fourth championship of the year, the national open at Merion in September and I can see nothing illogical about the concession in question. In fact, if you don't concede it he is liable to go out and take it anyhow. So why be headstrong in the face of the inevitable?

Jones wants the four championships because the performance would savor of conquesting the impossible and he has been doing this so long that it has become something of a fixed habit.

He Looks Like Winner

Anyhow, barring the unforeseen, he probably will get what he wants this time since he now is greater than ever, while it is admitted that those who could take issue with him in amateur golf are becoming fewer and funnier, even as it is with the professionals.

It is more than significant of Jones' monopoly here that only three amateurs—Jamieson in the 1926 British event, George Von Elm in the American final of the same year and Johnny Goodman last September—have been good enough or lucky even, as the case may be, to beat Jones.

The amateur field, at that, is stronger than ever today. It simply isn't strong enough to compete successfully against the supernatural Harrison Johnston, the current champion, is one of the few who has a real chance against Jones any time he starts. But this chance always must be predicated on the hope that Jones will not be at the pinnacle as he enters any given match and so will be merely a great golfer, instead of an unbeatable one.

It is this that also will give Tolley, Von Elm, Moe, Willing, Sweetser, Voigt, McCarthy, Perkins, Goodman and others that 1 to 2 chance against Jones at Merion. If it isn't so, I'm afraid this chance might become more like 1 to 10.

ATLANTA TAKES HOLIDAY TO WELCOME BOBBY HOME

ATLANTA, July 14.—A holiday was observed here today in honor of Bobby Jones' return from his victorious golf campaign.

Wheels of government, industry and commerce ground to a stop to permit thousands to participate in a general public tribute, probably unexcelled in the history of Dixie.

A parade of 20 sections—comprising hundreds on hundreds of Jones fans—awaited the marshall's signal to sweep through Atlanta's streets at noon.

Hundreds of factory whistles, horns, sirens, were oiled up to generate a general municipal bedlam of 10 minutes duration at the start of the parade.

An hour before the train speeding Bobby homeward from Interlachen reaches Atlanta, a fleet of airplanes will fly northward to form an aerial escort into town.

At a point several miles out Jones will transfer into an automobile and proceed to the head of the waiting parade, then proceed in triumph to city hall for an official welcome from Mayor I. N. Ragsdale.

Official nature of the welcome was supplied by act of city council making today a municipal holiday.

MATCH DADO, WOLGAST

LOS ANGELES, July 14.—Midget Al Wolgast, world flyweight champion, has been signed for a non-title bout here July 29 with Speedy Dado, Filipino boxer, Promoter Jack Doyle announced today. Dado will enter the ring overweight, leaving the title out of danger.

CELEBRITIES WED

The game stood at two-love when a Paris photographer snapped this photo of Rene Lacoste, French tennis star who paid successful court to Mlle. Simone de la Chaume, woman golf champion. You see them here on the matrimonial fairway leading from Saint Clothilde church.

PHILADELPHIA REGAINS LEAD IN FLAG RACE

NEW YORK, July 14.—The world champion Philadelphia Athletics were back at the head of the pack in the American League race today, holding a .005 point advantage over Washington in the percentages.

Connie Mack's club took the lead when they annexed their second straight game from the St. Louis Browns, 12-1, yesterday, collecting 17 hits off Coffman and Holshaser.

Detroit made Philadelphia's entry into first place possible by defeating Washington, 5 to 4. Vic Sorrell's single in the eighth inning drove home Mark Koenig with the deciding run.

Brooklyn enjoyed a 21-/2 game lead over the Chicago Cubs in the National league today, despite the fact that the Robins lost a heartrending game to Pittsburgh, 1-0. "Jupmbo" Elliott held the Pirates to four hits. The Robins made nine hits off Larry French, Pirates' southpaw, but could not score.

The Chicago Cubs received a severe setback at the hands of the Boston Braves, losing a double header, 2-1 and 3-0. Harry Seibold blanked the Cubs until the ninth inning of the first game.

In the second game, the Cubs were leading, 4 to 3, in their half of the ninth. The Braves came to bat with only five minutes to play before 6 p. m. after which time baseball is forbidden in Boston. The game was called before the inning ended and the score reverted to the eighth inning, when the Braves were leading.

FIRST HALF OF P. C. L. IS COMPLETED

SAN FRANCISCO, July 14.—The first half of the season of the Pacific Coast league was over today with Los Angeles holder of first place.

Hollywood was in second position though there still remains a possibility of third-place Sacramento sharing that honor with the Sheiks, one postponed game remaining unplayed. San Francisco and Oakland were tied for fourth.

MORGAN, HARE WIN SKEET CLUB SHOOTS

It has been taking 24 and even 25 to win recent shoots at the Santa Ana Skeet club but there was a slight letdown yesterday and Mel Morgan, with 21 breaks, coasted home ahead of the field.

Herb Carter, Allen Mandy, and Carl Kumpe, with 20, were next to the pacemaker. Other scores: Theo. Reuter, 19; W. A. Smith, 18; B. W. Anders, 15; Les Hare, 15; Vance Fixsen, 14; Herb Heanes, 14; F. M. Hudson, 14.

Les Hare, state fish and game deputy, won at blue rocks with a score of 24. Other scores: B. W. Anders, 23; Herb Meanes, 22; Carl Kumpe, 20, and F. M. Hudson, 12.

MACIAS, ALLEN HEAD THURSDAY RING PROGRAM

Jack (Kid) Allen, welterweight champion of Cuba, will make his initial appearance in Southern California at the Orange County Athletics club here next Thursday night.

Preparatory to matches at the Olympic and Hollywood, Allen will meet at Delhi "Wild Man" Macias, eccentric but capable Los Alamitos Mexican, who held Allen to a draw at Las Vegas, Nev., less than a month ago.

Promoter H. T. Foust will send them in again at 150 pounds and for a scheduled distance of 10 rounds.

The Macias-Allen shindy in Nevada was described as a wild slugging orgy in which both men suffered considerable punishment.

Allen has met a number of Southern California's best welters—Joe Schlocker, Alphonse Gonzales, Clyde Hull and Tommy White—but all of his American fighting has been done in El Paso and Mexico City where he is a great card. He would not be adverse to fighting Mushy Callahan and boys of their kind during his California invasion.

Foust has another treat in store for his clients this week in the return to action of Tony Moreno, popular Placentia bantamweight who has been away from the Delhi auditorium for a number of months.

Traveling six rounds, Moreno is scheduled to meet Jess Gabucco in the semi. Gabucco, a Filipino, is the fighter who knocked out Moreno in less than a round at Hollywood about a year ago. The defeat set Moreno back in his natural development, and nearly caused him to forsake the ring altogether.

Mickey Thomas and Mickey Koshell, welters, head the preliminaries. They are booked for six rounds. Thomas is from Seal Beach. Koshell appeared in a main event here a few months ago.

The four's are Cliff Burrier vs. Frankie Hirsch, and "Bud" Austin vs. Benny Stinson.

TEST GOTHAM FOUL RULE ON THURSDAY

NEW YORK, July 14.—The first test of the New York athletic commission's new foul rule will take place Thursday night at Yankee stadium in the 15-round lightweight championship bout between Sammy Mandel, 135-pound titleholder, and Al Singer, New York challenger.

Under the new rule no contest can end foul from low punches. If either Singer or Mandell goes down from a blow below the belt, he must get up or be counted out. The penalty for delivering a low blow is the loss of the round, provided the other man continues.

Both Mandell and Singer have signed contracts that their bout shall not end in a foul, and both have agreed to wear soul-proof protectors.

Tilden Wins Two Dutch Net Titles

NOORDWICK, Netherlands, July 14.—William T. Tilden, American and Wimbledon champion, added the Dutch tennis championship to his list by defeating Roderich Menzel, Czecho-Slovakia ,yesterday, in the singles final, 8-6, 6-8, 6-3, 6-4.

Paired with Dr. Daniel Prenn of Germany, Tilden also won the doubles by beating the Dutch team of Hans Timmer and A. Diemer Kool, 6-1, 6-2, 6-5.

Women Golfers In Tourney Thursday

Santa Ana Country club women golfers will participate in a "white elephant" tournament Thursday, beginning at 9:30 a. m. Each entrant will be expected to bring a prize.

The tournament will be held in conjunction with the regular monthly cup competition. There will be a luncheon and business meeting at 1:30.

CITY LEAGUE'S 'NEW SEASON' OPENS TONIGHT

Spotless and clean after a thorough whitewashing of all their past transgressions, 10 night baseball teams sidle up to the starting post this week for the second and final half of the Santa Ana City league's split schedule.

They actually begin the "new season" in the Bowl tonight—without the championship of the first half having been definitely determined.

The Orange County Builders' exchange is still a mathematical possibility to win the first race. Franklin Nickey's Builders get their big chance Thursday when they go against the Printers in a first half "holdover" game. If the Builders win, they will go into a tie for the title and some method will be devised to play it off. If the Printers triumph, they will cinch the flag they are defending this year.

This week's schedule follows:

Monday—Dennis Printers vs. Pacific Telephone company, 6:45 p. m.; Builders' exchange vs. Peek's market, 8:15 p. m.

Wednesday — Richfield Oil vs. Auto Club of Orange county, 6:45 p. m.; American Legion vs. Courthouse, 8:15 p. m.

Thursday — Excelsior creamery vs. Eastern Oil, 6:45 p. m.; Builders' exchange vs. Dennis Printers, 8:15 p. m. (playoff game.)

Aside from the Dennis Printers, who are conceded an edge in class, the whole league is rated virtually even, so a tight fight is anticipated through the entire second half.

Even the Printers are no cinch to coast in to Pennantville, many of the managers and players believing the Dennis entry will have plenty of trouble duplicating its first half success, since many of the teams will be considerably strengthened for the last lap. The consensus is that the chase is wide open, and that a "dark horse" has a good chance of sneaking home first.

ANAPAUMAS DEFEAT L. A. JAPANESE, 4-3

Anapauma Rancho ran its winning streak to four games in a row by vanquishing the Grand Central market of Los Angeles, a baseball team of Japanese, at the Orange County Fair grounds yesterday.

The score was close, 4 to 3.

Al Encinas and Matsuura hooked up in one of the season's choicest pitcher's battles, neither side being able to score after the fourth inning in which the Anapaumas shoved home their tying and winning runs. Encinas struck out nine and helped win his own game with two hits. The score:

U. S. Soccer Team Beats Belgium, 3-0

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, July 14.—The United States soccer team stood out today as a formidable contender for the world's soccer football championship as a result of a surprising 3 to 0 victory over Belgium in its first round match Sunday. In the other match France won from Mexico, 4 to 1. Thirteen nations are competing.

WHAT A MAN!

The numerals "13" are avoided by most people but not by this publicity-loving character who likes photographers as much as any one in the world. The broad shoulders and sturdy legs belong to Art (The Great) Shires, new first baseman the Washington Senators obtained from the White Sox in a recent trade.

U. S., ITALY IN DAVIS CUP NET CLASH FRIDAY

GENOA, Italy, July 14.—Italy and the United States will meet in the inter-zone final of Davis cup competition Friday, Saturday and Sunday to determine France's opponent in the challenge round at Auteil July 25, 26 and 27.

Italy captured the European zone title by eliminating Japan in the final, three matches to two. Italy won two singles matches and the doubles to Japan's two singles victories.

In the two final matches Sunday, Baron H. L. DeMorpurgo, Italy's No. 1 player, won the deciding victory over Hoshiro Ohta, 6-0, 6-2, 6-1, after Takeichi Harada had evened the score at two matches each by defeating Giorgio de Stefani, 6-2, 7-5, 7-5.

Italy had a comparatively easy path to the European zone final, drawing a bye in the first round; defeating Austria, 3-2, in the second; defeating Australia, 3-2, in the third round, and then upsetting Japan.

The meeting of Italy and the United States will be the second time in the last three years these two nations have won the title in their zones.

LONG BEACH TO SHOW TUESDAY, OLIVE FRIDAY

When Sherman made his ejaculation about war he must have meant the night baseball kind. Certainly there is not much fun in the type of going the Santa Ana Stars have been through lately and, which is more to the point, will have this week.

After they got through at La Habra and Whittier, earning an even break in games against two of the toughest teams in the National Night league, Manager Herb Salveson's disciples thought they were entitled to a "breather" or two.

Instead the Stars return to the Bowl this week for two assignments that are sure to be spirited, and desperately contested.

Long Beach, champion of the league last year and now a runner-up to Santa Ana for the second half of this year's race, invades the local orchard tomorrow night.

Olive Here Friday

Olive, always a Santa Ana stumbling block, will make its last start of the summer here Friday.

Victories in both games would leave the Stars in a comfortable position to begin the stretch drive for the championship .

Overwhelmed by Santa Ana in both earlier games this semester, Long Beach promises sterner competition tomorrow despite the fact that the Acorns may have to come here handicapped by the absence of Pitcher Deene Downer, a sensation from the Long Beach City league who is on his vacation; Infielder Al Davis, also vacationing, and Vic Wilson, regular outfielder, who is out of the lineup indefinitely with a severely wrenched knee.

The Acorns are optimistic, however, because Rod Ballard, husky outfielder from Oregon State college, will be in their outfield once again and little Bobby Dalton, their sombre-faced moundsman, will be on deck for his first fling at Santa Ana's swatsmiths.

Ballard is just out of quarantine, his little sister having for a time been threatened with infantile paralysis. Dalton only recently joined the Acorn pitching staff. He is badly needed, too, because Lloyd Lichtnewalter moved to Riverside the other day and will do his slinging hereafter for the inland outfit.

Acorns In Second Place

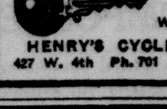

Long Beach has won five games in succession and is firmly entrenched in second place. It can get a tie for the leadership with Santa Ana by bumping over the Stars.

Manager Salveson has intimated that he may use Ray Price on the knoll tomorrow, saving Cornelius for Olive. This is not a definite announcement because Salveson may change his mind between now and game-time. Price hurled good ball against the Acorns the last time he faced them, an error costing him a shutout.

The Stars are in no way despondent over their 4-3 defeat at Whittier last Friday, this being their first reversal of the second half. They feel they should have won with their share of the breaks but already they have forgotten about it and are looking ahead to the important home tussles.

Other games tomorrow are Whittier at Orange; Huntington Beach at Olive; Fullerton at Anaheim and La Habra at Garden Grove.

YACHTING NEWS

BY S. H. LUCAS

The first of the July series for star boats was sailed Saturday over the diamond course in a light breeze, and Tom Robin took first, Sirius, second, and Tempe IV, third.

The yachts were sent away towards the Corona del Mar marker but just as the mark was reached after the slide down, the fitful breeze subsided and the yachts were hung in irons for almost an hour. The three leading boats drifted in to the shore, where just outside the line of breakers, a catspaw was encountered that enabled them to work down along the coast, and finally secure a slant out to the weather mark.

From there on it was just a procession, the first three finishing three quarters of an hour ahead of the balance of the fleet. The rear division made up over 20 minutes on the last part of the race, owing to the freshening breeze.

Sunday's Races

The second of the elimination series was sailed yesterday off Balboa and Hubbard, in Tempe IV, made it two in a row. Jack Keith nosed in for place, and Webster got the show.

The boats were sent away down the coast toward Newport, thence out to sea around the club marker and home to the Balboa pier, twice around. The wind was from the south and the fog lifted just in time for the race to be sailed, as a 15 minute postponement had been called on account of no visibility.

The start was made with the wind over the quarter, and Webster elected to start from the leeward end of the line, thus making the ideal start under the conditions existing. Keith broke over first about the center of the starting line, and got away without any interference, but owing to Webster's better position, had to take second at the mark, being beaten by Webster some 20 seconds. Hubbard got into a flat spot and Webster led at the end of the first round by 26 seconds, while Hubbard in second position, was 54 seconds ahead of Keith, who was followed by Bartholmae 10 seconds later.

On the second round, Webster held his lead until the first bouy was rounded, after which he picked out the same flat spot that Hubbard had found on the previous lap and gracefully dropped back to third place, which he held to the finish. Keith sailed the second round one second faster than Hubbard and deserves the congratulations that he is receiving for his consistent work.

The total points scores on these two races show Hubbard leading with a perfect 32 and Keith and Webster tied for second with 28 each. Murphy shows only 13, but had it not been for his unfortunate foul probably would have been fighting it out with Lyons for fourth.

fight he went to the Delhi post office where he surrendered to Mrs. F. H. Johnston, the post mistress. She called officers.

Both men lived at Delhi. Officers were today investigating rumors to the effect that marijuana may have played a part in the murder, they having learned that within a few minutes of the killing the two men were seen walking down the street together, arm in arm.

A motive for the fight also was being sought by officers today. Police were looking for a woman angle, but were frank to state that they had learned nothing.

A number of empty bottles and liquor equipment were said to have been found in Gonzales' home, near the place where the murder was committed.

Aside from admitting that he killed Valenzuella, Gonzales had nothing to say about the fight.

Gonzales is not well liked at Delhi, according to Officer Perry, which explained, he said, why an angry crowd gathered at the scene of the murder, making threatening remarks.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 3:30 p. m. from the McAuley and Suters parlors in Fullerton and interment will be in Loma Vista cemetery. The Rev. R. M. Dutton, of Placentia, will be in charge of the rites.

YOUNG TO HEAR M'DONALD TALE AFTER PRIMARY

the pardon application of the pair come before them.

In denying Mooney's pardon application, which followed a supreme court refusal to recommend a pardon for Billings, Governor Young suggested that MacDonald be located and returned to California so that his repudiation of his trial testimony could be thoroughly investigated.

Today, as evidence of sincerity in providing that "loop-hole" for Mooney and Billings, Governor Young wired Baltimore that he personally was ready to pay all costs of bringing MacDonald to California and his return fare to Baltimore.

In view of Governor Young's interest in the MacDonald phase of the case, it is thought unlikely that any attempt will ever be made to prosecute MacDonald for perjury.

It is probable that MacDonald will appear before the supreme court as well as before Governor Young and the pardon board because the court must act on the Billings application before it even reaches the governor.

California law provides that the supreme court decommend a pardon for twice convicted men, such as Billings, and that the recommendation be favorable before the governor may grant a pardon.

The three governors belonged to two factions of Republicanism in California, Stephens and Young are generally classed with the Liberal Johnson faction while Richardson, who defeated Stephens and who was defeated by Young four years later, is a leader of the Anti-Johnson group.

While other governors acted but once, and unfavorably, on the pardon applications, it now appears likely that Governor Young will act twice. His decision the other way was unfavorable.

onel all along that the Yankees needed pitchers. Jake has taken an option on pitchers Howard Crakhead and Pet Daglia of the Oakland team. The option expires in September, and if it is exercised, another 100 grand will have winged its way to the coast for promising baseball talent.

The colonel paid $75,000 for Lazzeri, and the street corners aren't crowded with people bearing megaphones shouting that Jake was gyped. The colonel paid $50,000 to the Seals for Pitcher Vernon Gomez last year. Lazzeri, Lary, Reese and Mery Hoag, the new outfielder, cost the colonel in the neighborhood of $275,000. If he puts out another $100,000 for Craghead and Daglia, his purchases on the coast alone would amount to $275,000. It looks as though it might be cheaper to buy a franchise in the league.

If the colonel fails to buy Craghead and Daglia, it is said that Billy Evans is ready to step in with a juicy bid for the pair on behalf of the Cleveland Indians.

This statement shows that during the first eleven days in July savings with this institution increased more than three million dollars.

But of more importance, this statement shows the reasons back of this growth, a maintenance of the factors of strength and liquidity which have earned us the confidence of our 70 thousand old customers and nearly four thousand new savers who have brought their funds here since July 1.

We serve these customers by a rigid maintenance and continuous reinforcement of the measures of protection which have given Pacific States Savings its flawless record for 41 years.

We serve California by placing at the disposal of the state's property owners our large loanable funds at the notably economical rate of 7% simple interest on the declining balance. We solicit the loan applications of owners of residential and income real estate meeting our qualifications.

OFFICIAL SAYS KLAN SUPPORTS CONSTITUTION

Emphatically stating that the Ku Klux Klan is in full sympathy with the constitution of the United States and is therefore actively interested in promoting the welfare of the country, T. S. Moodie of Los Angeles, Grand Dragon of the state Ku Klux Klan, today denounced the criticisms that have been made on the organization in past years.

"We are just the same as any other organization whose foremost principles and standards are for the betterment of their country. We set aside personal interests to accomplish this end. The Klan has long been subjected to the prejudice of certain parties who have hoped to benefit themselves with vile attempts to make the Klan appear ridiculous in the eyes of the average layman.

"It was this direct action that made us forego the traditional mask in 1928. Ever since, our meetings have been open to the public, and I feel safe in saying that the Klan has done as much to promote national prosperity as any other individual organization."

Moodie also stated that the Klan was a protestant-Christian organization with the cross as its sacred emblem. He admitted that there have been rascals in the Klan but that every effort has been made to rid the organization of this type. He also pointed out that every order has undesirables and that the true caliber of any organization is only expressed in the attitude of the majority.

In reverting to national politics Moodie said "The Ku Klux Klan is in favor of rigid immigration laws. The country is fast becoming overrun with a foreign element which is doing more to jeopardize than benefit the nation's future. We also are in hearty accord with the Kapper-Robison bill which provides for a secretary of education in complete charge of national education with jurisdiction much the same as our present day secretaries of treasury, state, war, navy, and other departmental heads."

Moodie was born in Texas in 1902. He attended public school and college in Austin. He removed to Los Angeles with his family in 1922 and it was there that he became interested in the activities of the new Klan. Moodie was elected Grand Dragon and has held that post consecutively for the past four years.

STRESSES SIN OF REFUSAL TO ACCEPT CHRIST

In a sermon depicting the depth of the sin of crucifying Christ upon the summit of Calvary, the Rev. R. W. Harlow, pastor of the First United Brethern church yesterday morning pointed out to his congregation the even deeper sin of men and women in the world today who live in enlightened America, knowing of Christ, yet refusing to accept or believe. The subject of the sermon was "A Sin Worse than Crucifying Christ."

"Calvary with its noon-day blackness, Calvary with its tragedy, with its lynching and blood spilling, is, ordinarily speaking, without a parallel," the pastor began. "Shadows from the cross went as far back as the days of Adam—back to the days of his son, Abel.

"Down through the years, seer and prophet told that sad story of the coming cross. They told in black pictures what the world would do for Jesus—how He would be led as a lamb to the slaughter, and like a sheep dumb before his shearers, so He opened not His mouth. They told of His trials, they told of the lying witnesses, they told of everything about which we read in the New Testament. The heart of the world was chilled over the story of the coming crucifixion.

"And the New Testament account of it, gives one of the blackest stories ever told. His familiar friend, one who had eaten His bread, allowed Satan to get the advantage of him and this one-time familiar friend lifted up his heel against Him and sold him for the price of two harlots. Every one of His apostles forsook Him and fled when Calvary was in sight. The sun refused to shine, and darkness for three long hours took charge of the scene of the cross. Oh what an hour! There is no language that can portray or describe the horrors of the crucifixion of Jesus Christ. All the tragedies and stories of Calvary will not be revealed until we hear it from Christ himself in the sweet by and by.

"But I say unto you in all of the calmness of life; bad as Calvary was, and as bad and black as that sin of crucifixion, the crucifying of the price of peace, the Son of God, the world's best friend and only Savior, I would rather have been the man who sold Him for $15.00 as Judas did, be the man that denied Him three different times, be the man who made the crown of thorns and pressed it hard upon His innocent brow, be the man that smote Him on the face, be the man that drove nails in His hands and in His feet, and the man who pierced His side, rather than the man or woman who lives in enlightened America, who lives in the blazing noon-day sunlight of the gospel of the Son of God and fails to accept and believe.

"On the cross Jesus said, "Father forgive them, for they know not what they do." Peter said, "I know that through ignorance ye did it." There was not one of them that would have crucified Him if they had known that He was the Christ, but we know today that He is the Christ. Hence, we have the greater sin upon us today.

MAKING WINGS OF HANDICAPS IS SERMON TOPIC ON SUNDAY FOR REV. HARRY EVAN OWINGS

Speaking concerning the achievements that have been made by persons who were handicapped in life and calling attention to the inspiration that is found therein, the Rev. Harry Evan Owings, pastor of the First Baptist church, talked to his congregation yesterday morning on the subject, "Making Wings of Our Handicaps."

"One is led to marvel at those heroic souls who not only meet the troubles and afflictions that life brings them with grace, but even use them as a means of climbing to higher and fuller life," he began. "For them, handicaps do not become weights, but rather wings. Paul had a 'thorn in the flesh' which he wanted very much to have removed, but when it remained he learned that God's power could be used to make perfect his weakness.

"Leigh Hunt, John Keats, Sidney Lanier, Harold Bell Wright, Roger Babson, are names that the world knows for their achievement, even though as Dr. Arthur Myers tells us in his 'Fighters of Fate' they had the great handicap of the white plague to deal with. We even read of Admiral Richard Byrd that he was incapacitated for naval service by reason of a fractured leg sustained at the Naval Academy and discharged. But after some years he found the chance to enter the air service with the words, 'A man does not fly with his feet.'

"Somehow the very handicaps acting as a most severe test of the 'stuff' men are made of seems to bring to birth fortitude and courage, larger sympathy and a more stubborn resoluteness. And they set themselves to be useful as a result. Such people seem to face their handicaps with grimness, calling them by their proper name, then drawn upon teh divine resources to adopt a courageous attitude toward life, and with a 'fighting spirit' begotten of their misfortunes, set themselves to work out, even with or through their handicaps, some worthy purpose that will make their lives useful, counting for God and humanity.

"All men have their handicaps of one kind or another. But what an inspiration it is to those who are 'the more favored' to devote their powers to useful ends when they find their less fortunate fellows making wings of most serious handicaps."

LIGHTHOUSE IS SERMON TOPIC OF EVANGELIST

A large crowd heard Evangelist Alice Wislon Parham deliver her illustrated sermon "The Lighthouse," at the Four Square Gospel church last evening. A lighthouse was on the platform, surrounded with a beautiful sea scene. The text used was found in John 1.12, "I Am the Light of the World."

"The Lighthouse represents Jesus," said the evangelist; "the sea represents the masses of people and the little boat sailing represents the individual life. From this lighthouse radiate blessings unnumbered. The first important blessing that comes from Him who is The Light is redemption through His shed blood. There is no doctrine that seems to be so hard to understand, as the doctrine of redemption, yet it is taught so clearly in God's Word. We cannot clearly understand it until we realize its necessity.

"If man could have lifted himself from sin to heaven, there would have been no need of a saviour to redeem from sin. The definition of sin are many and varied. Society calls sin indiscretion, the lawyer calls it crime, the scholar calls it ignorance, but God calls sin transgression of His law.

"The individual who transgresses laws needs to be redeemed and regenerated. So Christ has come into the world that He might become your light.

"The second light gleaming from the lighthouse brings us the blessing of the Holy Spirit which gives us power to witness, and gives us not a dead, formal, lifeless, powerless apologetic Gospel, but a living, flaming moving, powerful Gospel.

"The third light from the lighthouse reveals to us the truth in God's word about Divine healing.

"As we watch the little boat, we see it brought safely to shore through all the storms, because Christ has become its light and Pilot and the Captain of salvation."

Rev. Rothrock To Direct Education At Camp La Verne

The Rev. Edgar Rothrock, pastor of the Church of the Brethren, will be director of religious education at Camp La Verne, Barton Flats. The camp sessions begin today and continue until July 30.

The Rev. Mr. Rothrock founded Camp La Verne six years ago and has been active in camp work for 15 years. He rates the work done in supervised camps for boys and girls as superior to any other agency in the development of Christian character. Boys and girls from the local church will attend the camp.

The pulpit at Santa Ana will be filled during his absence by Dr. J. P. Dickey on July 20 and Dr. E. M. Studebaker on July 27. Dr. Studebaker is president of La Verne college.

Sunday School To Postpone Sessions

Announcement was made at the Church of the Nazarene yesterday that, in accordance with action of the church board, the junior, primary and beginners' departments of the Sunday school would be closed until September 1. The Sunday school board also has decided to postpone, until some later date, the annual school picnic. These steps were taken as co-operative measures with the county health office in an effort to avoid spread of infantile paralysis.

FIRST EPISTLE TO TIMOTHY IS SERMON BASIS

Choosing as his sermon subject "Sound Doctrine" the Rev. J. W. Saunders, evangelist at the Southside Church of Christ, talked to his congregation yesterday morning concerning matters discussed in the first epistle to Timothy.

"The term doctrine, as used in the first epistle to Timothy means correct teaching," the evangelist declared. "Paul had left the young evangelist at Ephesus to correct the erroneous teaching of some who had been wrangling over disputed questions arising out of their misunderstanding of the design of the law. Timothy, therefore, was to give himself to good or sound doctrine. Consider some of the things he was to teach.

"The salvation of sinners was the main object of Paul's life. Timothy was reminded of this so that he also might teach it. If we take the idea of sin, and salvation from sin, out of the Christian teaching, Christianity is but a farce and a waste of time and energy.

"The doctrine of prayer also occupied the apostle's mind, and he reminds the young preacher that we would that prayers supplications, intercessions be made for all men. Too much emphasis cannot be placed on the doctrine of the prayer life.

"The apostle also gave Timothy a glimpse into the future, describing for him the conditions of the last days. If we see a tendency to indifference we should not be discouraged. The pen of inspiration recorded the fact that many would be led into error, and error is the cause of indifference. Are we indifferent? Are we in error? Is our doctrine or teaching sound? Let us answer these questions honestly."

YOUNG PEOPLE IN CHURCH PROGRAM

A group of young people, led by the Rev. Ernest Vauman, former missionary to China, gave a program at the Church of the Brethren last evening.

The program consisted of talks, vocal and instrumental selections and a report of the California Christian Endeavor convention recently held in Sacramento.

Refreshments were served in the basement to the visiting group after the program. Misses Ada Teter, Pearl Herrick and Florine Dismukes constituted the committee in charge.

PASTOR TELLS NEED OF HEART FELT RELIGION

The Rev. U. E. Harding, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, spoke Sunday evening on "Heart Felt Religion," taking for his text Psalmes 57:7. The pastor said in part:

"There is no need to bend the hands on your watch or change the dial to make it keep correct time, the trouble is within. Perhaps the reason many of the sermons today are directed at the head, rather than the heart, is because the minister is seeking the softer place.

"The old-fashioned doctrine of conversion, a change of heart, or heart felt religion in many places has been cast to the scrap heap. But the Bible remains unchanged. Jesus said 'out of the heart proceed evil' and again, 'blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God.' James says 'make the fountain pure and the stream will be pure.' Then again that old Book from which my mother taught me says 'with a heart man believeth and with the mouth confession is made.'

"If man is not a depraved creature why all these laws and amendments and enforcements of same that we talk so much about? Sin is not a disease of the head but of the heart. You can join all the churches in christendom, be baptized in every mode and fashion, but unless your heart has been changed by the operation of the Holy Spirit your desires will be the same.

"If your eyes seek the obscene, if your feet carry you to the dance, and if your ears are attentive to the vile, the trouble is not with the different members of your body, but it comes from the heart. Remove the cause.

"David said his heart was fixed. I have seen folks get their heads fixed up by good resolutions but soon go wrong again. Christ can fix the heart, you can't do this for yourself. I tell you your nature must be changed. I don't have to tie myself to a bed post to keep away from bad shows, or my feet from the dance. Neither do I force myself to stay at home while my heart is there, for this Book says 'where a man's treasure is, there will his heart be also'."

PLANE SAFETY DATE

PHOENIX, Ariz., July 14.—There were 40 automobile fatalities in Arizona during the first three months of 1930, and but 30 plane fatalities in the last five years, according to a recent survey. During the first three months of 1930 there were no plane fatalities and no major accident to any plane, with more planes flying than ever before in the history of the state.

DISTRICT CONVENTION FOR CHURCH OF BRETHREN WILL BE HELD HERE NEXT AUGUST

Delegates from Southern California and Arizona will assemble in Santa Ana next month for the annual district conclave of the Church of the Brethren. The Santa Ana church, located at the corner of South Ross and Camile streets, will be host to the convention, which is scheduled for August 22-29. The Rev. Edgar Rothrock is pastor of the Santa Ana church.

Several hundred pastors and laymen are expected in attendance at the conference and plans are being laid by members of the Santa Ana church for their entertainment during the week. The committee gathering is composed of Roy in charge of making plans for the Teter, J. M. Wyne, I. N. Santee and Walter Dunlap.

Noted speakers from the church headquarters in the east will be present to take part in the conference, and the varied interests of the church, including the aid society, Sunday school, Christian Endeavor, ministerial association, La Verne college, Camp La Verne and Christian education, will be discussed and furthered at the sessions of the annual meeting.

The Rev. Mr. Rothrock is chairman of the program committee and will act as convention chairman. He will be assisted by the Rev. A. O. Brubaker, of Pomona, and the Rev. H. B. Heisey, of Los Angeles.

Christian Science

Communion services were held Sunday in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass. The subject of the Lesson-Sermon was "Sacrament."

One of the scriptural citations included the following verses from John: "As soon then as they were come to land, they saw a fire of coals there, and fish laid thereon, and bread . . . Jesus saith unto them, Come and dine. And none of the disciples durst ask him, Who are thou? knowing that it was the Lord. Jesus then cometh, and taketh bread, and giveth them, and fish likewise. This is now the third time that Jesus shewed himself to his disciples, after that he was risen from the dead."

A correlative passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, stated: "This spiritual meeting with our Lord in the dawn of a new light is the morning meal which Christian Scientists commemorate. They bow before Christ, Truth, to receive more of his reappearing and silently to commune with the divince principle, love."

MAN OF POWER DISCUSSED BY LOCAL PASTOR

"Israel—A Man of Power" was the subject discussed by the Rev. Edgar Rothrock, pastor of the Church of the Brethren, in a sermon Sunday morning. He said in part:

"It takes a long time to make a man. Jacob had much to overcome before the angel changed his name to Israel and said, 'Thou hast striven with God and men and hast prevailed.'

"Provident men accomplish more than those who, like Esau, consume all they make. Jacob gathered around him much property which helped to make him and his family of twelve sons a power in their country. With a present he appeased the wrath of his brother, Esau. He excelled his brother in leadership and thus became the father of a nation.

"In his wrestling with the angel he revealed the secret of his success—power in prayer. Early on his journey from home, he discovered that his father's God was everywhere. He walked and talked with Him."

Recent Bride Shared Party Honors With Bride-to-Be

A bride in retrospect and a bride in prospect,—such were the two delightful features stressed Saturday afternoon when Miss Marian Smith entertained in the cool gardens of her home on Prospect avenue, Tustin, at a gift shower complimenting Mrs. Hubert Riggan, formerly Miss Leta Harwell, a bride of June.

For while Mrs. Riggan was the honoree at the shower, the party also served as an announcement for Miss Louise Lange's betrothal to Donald Sheldon of Washington. This delightful news was revealed at the tea hour when place cards of conventional design, bore the announcement.

Meanwhile the guests had enjoyed a gay afternoon of hearts in which Mrs. Riggan scored high and Miss Margaret Rust, second, each receiving an attractive reward. The shower motif for Mrs. Riggan, was of charming green crystal, and she received countless pieces to complete her set.

The green motif was emphasized at the tea hour when card table covers were replaced with pretty linens, and a delectable refreshment course served, with green favors for each guest. The scene was an animated and lovely one, with the guests in their summery frocks in pastel tints and the background of garden flowers. Mrs. Riggan honoree, wore her exquisite wedding gown.

Those present in addition to the hostess, Miss Marian Smith were the Misses Louise Lange, Josephine Roy, Cinderella Phiney, Charlena Swartz, Margaret Rust, and Mesdames Foster Prather, Frank Bacon, Leland Finley, James McCalla, James Thompson, George Stevens, Russell Manderchseid, George Harris, Clyde Daugherty, Lauraine Bowe, of Pomona, and the guest of honor, Mrs. Hubert Riggan.

Young Couple Wedded In M. E. Chapel

At a simple service read in the Methodist parsonage, with the Rev. George Warmer officiating, Miss Lurline Chambers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Chambers of La Habra, last week became the bride of Norman Willis of Ventura, son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Willis, of Tulare.

Miss Chambers chose a white georgette frock with picture hat for the occasion, and carried lilies of the valley and rosebuds. She was attended by Miss Helen Ward, also in white georgette, and carrying an arm bouquet, while Gordon Cady of Santa Paula served Mr. Willis as best man.

Following the wedding service the bridal party, with a few close friends, motored to the R. D. Banhart home in Ventura for a wedding dinner and reception. The young people will make their home in that city for the present.

Charming Rites Unite Miss Armstrong and Mr. Adams

Before an improvised altar banked with a profusion of pink sweet peas, Miss Maxaline Armstrong, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Armstrong, of 440 South Sycamore street, on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, became the bride of John Benton Adams, son of Mrs. Alice Adams, of Stevansville, Texas. The simple but impressive ceremony took place in the home of the bride, where baskets of shell pink gladioluses, intermingled with blue delphinium, completed the charming decorative effect.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Geneva Holmes sang "At Dawning," and "Oh Promise Me," accompanied at the piano by Miss Lois Lamb, who also played Lohengrin's Wedding march, to which the bride entered, on the arm of her father. Miss Armstrong was attired in filmy peach chiffon and wore a wreath of orange blossoms in her dark hair. Her bouquet was of creamy roses combined with lilies of the valley and maiden hair fern, with a shower of lilies of the valley, while her only ornament was a strand of sparkling crystals, a gift of the groom.

She was attended by Mrs. Arthur Murdy of Midway City, as matron of honor. Mrs. Murdy was a recent bride, and wore her ivory wedding gown, fashioned along princess lines, and carried pink surprise lilies. Arthur Murdy acted as best man. The ceremony was read by the Rev. J. W. Saunders, pastor of the Southside Church of Christ.

Following the ceremony, the young couple left for a brief honeymoon at Catalina. For her going away costume, the new Mrs. Adams wore an apple green traveling ensemble, with biege accessories.

The bride is a graduate of the local high school, and attended one year in Santa Ana junior college. She later attended the University of California at Los Angeles, where she received her teachers' certificate. For the past several years, she has been teaching in Santa Ana schools, and will continue teaching this fall, this time in Westminster.

The groom is a graduate of Stevansville, Texas, schools, and is now employed with the Southern Counties Gas company. They will make their home in Midway City.

W. C. T. U. Workers to Convene at Palisades

An opportunity of bringing before the public a group of prmoinent and timely speakers, any one of whom would be sufficient to hold the interest of an audience, has been seized by the W. C. T. U committee, and on Wednesday of this week, Hon. C. C. Young, and Buron Fitts, heading the list, will be presented as features of W. C. T. U. day, to be in progress at the Pacific Palisades.

Plans for the success of the celebration have been worked out in detail, according to reports of officers of the organization, and they believe that the program will be especially worthwhile. They urge that a large number of people attend, free of charge, the only stipulation being that every one bring his own picnic lunch. Lending variety to the campaign speeches to be given by Gov. Young and Buron Fitts, district attorney of Los Angeles county, and candidate for governor, will be the talk by John T. Miller, a world lecturer and author of note. Expected to be equally as interesting, and unusually informative, is the discussion to be given by Mrs. Mott Keisler, vice president of the W. C. T. U. in India.

As a special feature of the day's entertainment, there will be a college oratorical contest, and although the entrants have not as yet been announced, it is expected that this number will be one of the most interesting of the day's program.

Reputed as eight of the best professional men singers on the Pacific coast, are the Famous Meistersingers, who will provide the musical numbers of the program.

W. C. T. U. day, Wednesday, comes in the midst of a two day state board meeting, which convenes on Tuesday, and will be continued on Thursday. Attending this group from Santa Ana, will be Mrs. T. L. Warren, 814 North Parton street. She will remain at the Palisades all of this week, and will be joined on Wednesday by a number of local W. C. T. U. workers.

Miss Mignon Oldfield Is Charming Bride Of Dr. Waters

Occasioning much surprise to their friends, who had not been informed of their exact wedding date, Miss Mignon E. Oldfield, one of the community's most charming girls, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Royal A. Oldfield of Garden Grove, and Dr. Donald R. E. Waters, son of Mrs. Ida B. Waters of this city, were quietly wedded this morning at 11 o'clock, and are now on their way to a honeymoon outing to be spent in the San Diego mountains.

The Waters home at 1127 West Seventeenth street was chosen as setting for the event, and a profusion of feathery green tamarisk boughs were used with shell pink gladiolus blossoms to stimulate an altar at the wide fireplace. There, in flickering candle-light, the Rev. W. G. Nicholson of Cambridge, Mass., acting pastor of the First Congregational church, stood to await the young people, entering to the strains of Lohengrin.

Miss Oldfield was gowned in white French organdy, sheer and dainty, and carried white roses mingled with gardenias and lilies of the valley. There were no attendants, and guests were confined to members of the family circle.

Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Oldfield entertained at breakfast at St. Ann's Inn, with the new Dr. and Mrs. Waters as honored guests. Covers were placed for the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Oldfield, Dr. and Mrs. Waters, Mrs. Ida B. Waters, Dr. Pearl S. Waters of San Bernardino, an aunt of the groom; Mrs. M. H. Lewis of Pasadena; Mrs. Grace M. Shafer of Los Angeles, and Miss Mary I. Scott of Fallbrook.

The table which had been arranged by Mrs. Robert Bisby, was a charming study showing a miniature wedding party whose tiny bride and groom stood at an altar directly in front of the actual bride and groom. The party was complete with flower girl and eight attendants, and seemed to proceed down an aisle outlined with silver festoons, candles and smilax. Tall candles, a large silver slipper filled with pink blossoms, and tiny silver slipper nut cups were other charming decorative details.

Since the announcement of the engagement of Miss Oldfield and Dr. Waters, in the early spring, there have been many charming courtesies extended the bride-elect in the way of showers and parties. Both young people are popular in a wide circle of friends. Dr. Waters has been here for the past two years, and is associated with Dr. Roy Horton. He is a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, later finishing his professional training at Los Angeles School of Optometry.

His bride graduated from Anaheim union high school and Santa Ana junior college, later attending U. C. L. A. where she received her teaching certificate. She has taught for the past two years in the Bolsa school.

Days of the Dons Are Revived at Colorful Barbecue Dinner

Reminiscent of the "Days of the Dons," that most colorful period in California's history, was the enjoyable gathering yesterday at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. George Jeffrey of Irvine, when members of the immediate family circle were present to share in the hospitality extended by Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey.

The patio and gardens offered setting for the pleasant affair which was especially unique in the fact that every member of the immediate family was present. During the afternoon and evening hours, special charm was given by the lilting Spanish and Mexican music played by a string quartet stationed on one of the balconies overlooking the patio. Spanish dancing too contributed color and recalled the joys of life on the big haciendas of early days. Miss Katha Costello was the danseuse who executed a series of intricate numbers.

Strangely linking the historic days which the festivity recalled, with the present era of "air consciousness," were the thrills provided when Robert Jeffrey, brother of the host, and his friend, Ralph Mitchell, flew over the ranch during the afternoon in their own 'planes, and thrilled the onlookers with their stunt and formation flying.

As evening drew on, the group took its way to the putting green near the big barbecue gates where a typical barbecue feast was in readiness. The remainder of the evening was enjoyed in the moonlight-flooded patio, with the Spanish music adding its seductive charm. Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey and their son, William Jeffrey, greeted as their guests, Mrs. Mary Jeffrey, mother of the host; Andrew Turnbull and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jeffrey, all of this city; Mr. and Mrs. Beryle Wilson of Van Nuys; Mr. and Mrs. Alex Jeffrey with their son and daughter, Alex jr and Miss Melda Jeffrey, and William Jeffrey and daughters, the Misses Mildred and Wilhelmina Jeffrey, all of Reseda; Dr. Al. Farmer, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Jahns and son, Billy, Mr. and Mrs. James Jones, Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jahns of Irvine.

Capistrano Institute Sends Delegates to State Convention

This is an important week to members of Capistrano Young Ladies Institute, for it brings the thirtieth state convention of the Y. L. I. with Alameda as the convention city, and Capistrano Institute's president, Mrs. R. H. Sandon, and her sister officers have made active plans for participating in the event.

Several hundred delegates are expected to attend the sessions which will open tomorrow and continue four days, closing with Friday night's final feature. Beautiful Hotel Alameda, located in the central part of the city, will be convention headquarters, and also will be chosen by the greater number of delegates, as their stopping place.

Mrs. Urban J. Engelman, grand director, will attend all the sessions in her capacity as a state officer, while Capistrano delegates will include Miss Katherine Markel, first vice president, and Mrs. Veronica Stewart, recording secretary, who is the president's alternate. The three are leaving tonight from Los Angeles with a southern delegation.

Mrs. Sandon and Miss Lillian Fitzpatrick will fly to Alameda on Thursday, arriving in time for outstanding events of that day's program, and remaining until the closing session Friday night. Then they will go to San Francisco for a week-end visit with friends before returning to Santa Ana.

Charlotte Heritage of Alameda, convention chairman, has stated that delegates are expected from Oregon, Washington and Honolulu chapters as well as from every chapter in California. For their interest and entertainment, the business session will be augmented by such features as an opening reception, and on July 16 a requiem high mass at 8:30 a. m.; a banquet at 7 a. m. followed by the "high jinx" program at 9 o'clock; an afternoon tour of the East bay on July 17, with the grand ball that night, and on the final evening, the formal installation of Miss Catherine Kelly of Los Angeles, as grand president.

This is the first time in many years that the state organization has elected a president from the Southland, and the event is to be celebrated upon Miss Kelly's return, by all the Southern California institutes. A gala occasion will be the banquet in her honor, to be given at the famous Jonathan club in Los Angeles, on August 2, with countless members of Capistrano chapter to be present. They will be accompanied by three special guests from this city, William Jerome, president of the Chamber of Commerce, Sheriff Sam Jernigan, and Father F. A. Wekenman of St. Joseph's church.

Immediately after her return from the convention and her northern visit, Mrs. Sandon, as president of the local chapter, will welcome the members to a covered dish dinner and card party to be held in her home, 903 Garfield street, Tuesday night, July 22, with dinner at 6 o'clock.

Wedding Vows Taken In Chapel of First M. E. Church

The First Methodist chapel with its quiet intimacy was again the setting for a wedding Saturday evening, which proved to be one of the most beautiful of the summer, when Miss Celestine White, of Tustin, was united to Raymond Kent Horvey, of Pasadena. The chapel was lighted with gleaming tapers which cast their soft glow over the pretty scene. The altar was banked with potted palms, and a screen of coral pink sweet peas, while at either side was placed a huge basket of pink and blue delphinium.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Ruth Ann Byerkey of Los Angeles, soprano, and sororiety sister of the bride, sang "I Love You Truly," and "Oh, Promise Me," accompanied by Miss Eva Ramsey at the piano. Miss Ramsey also gave a beautiful rendition of Lohengrin's Wedding March, to which the bridal party entered.

The bride entered on the arm of her father, William Horace White, and was attired in a lovely gown of white satin, modeled in princess lines. Her cap was of Irish point lace, from which a filmy veil fell over her shoulders, caught in place with orange blossoms. Her necklace was of ivory pearls, while she carried a sheaf of orchids, bride roses, and lilies of the valley.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Merritt A. White, was demure in peach organdie, fashioned in the prevailing mode, and carried a bouquet of coral tinted roses.

The groom was attended by Gardener King, as best man, while ushers were brothers of the bride, Merritt A. White, and Thoburn White.

The ceremony was read by Dr. George A. Warmer, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, who was assisted by Dr. Harry W. White, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church in Burbank and an uncle of the bride.

Mrs. William Horace White, mother of the bride, was attired in eggshell chiffon, with blue accessories, and wore a corsage of blue gardenias, while Mrs. John Milton Horvey, mother of the groom, wore an ensemble of blue.

Immediately following the ceremony, the young couple left by automobile for a week's honeymoon in northern California. For her traveling costume, the new Mrs. Horvey wore an olive green ensemble, with eggshell accessories. On their return they will locate in Glendale.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Horace White of Holt avenue, Tustin, and is a graduate of Tustin union high school. She graduated this year from the University of Southern California, where she was a member of the Kappa Delta sorority.

The groom was a member of the 1929 graduating class of the University of Southern California, and was a member of the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity. He is now engaged in business as one of the young architects of Los Angeles, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Milton Horvey, of Pasadena.

Untying Nerve Knots

Coping with the strenuous activities of Flaming Youth has added many a gray hair to the heads of fond parents. Mothers especially have a peculiar sense of intuition where their children are concerned ....Bob or Betty may be out for the evening....Mother goes peacefully to bed and to sleep knowing her child will be home at a certain hour....the hour slides 'round, the child is not there, and Mother is wide awake, turning, twisting, trying to find a logical reason for the delay, tieing herself into knots with worry....and then, the door quietly opens and the truant tiptoes a quiet way upstairs, and so to bed.

But the mother does not so easily go back to sleep—grown-up nerves are "that way," y'know. Next day she is listless and tired, feeling as though she had not slept for weeks. She is feeling the nerve tension of the previous night and unless she knows my simple little trick of relaxation she will continue to feel the same way until nature by slow steps unties the knots in her nerves.

Please note that I said "until nature UNTIES THE KNOTS in her nerves." That is exactly what you can do deliberately and at the moment, so that you can go back to restful sleep in a very few minutes. Place yourself in an easy position in bed, preferably on your back, arms at sides and as relaxed as possible.

Now, just imagine that there is a hard knot at the top of your head, another at the back of the neck, one at the throat, one in the chest, the two arms, the hips and abdomen, the two thighs and two especially knotted ones at your toes' ends. Imagine that you are going the rounds and that all you have to do is to pull one end of the string and out comes the knot.

Start with the one on top of your head and follow the knots right down to your toes....you get the most perfect and blessed sense of release and rest and before you know it you are peacefully asleep.

TODAY'S RECIPE
PECAN PIE

2 eggs—separated
1 cup sugar
1-2 tablespoon butter
1 teaspon allspice
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1-2 teaspon ground cloves
2 teaspoons vinegar
Good pinch of salt
1-2 cup chopped raisins
1-2 cup chopped pecans
Pastry for one crust

Melt the butter and add to the egg yolks. Beat very smooth with the sugar. Add the various spices, salt, raisins and chopped pecan meats, and last of all, whip the stiffly beaten whites into the mixture, pour into the pastry-lined plate and bake in a very hot oven for 10 minutes (to bake the crust and keep the filling from soaking), then reduce the heat and bake for about 25 minutes longer.

Cut into six sections this pie has a calorie value per section of 370 energy-making food units. I offer this recipe at this time to use with the vegetable plate dinner of summer vegetables. There came a time in the life of every family when too many fresh fruit desserts pall and a toothsome pie is looked upon with favor. You will find this one particularly good. Try it soon.

'WESTERN FRONT' FILM OPENS HERE

A pageant of terrible splendor . . . a drama of deep human emotions . . . a terrific indictment of modern war . . . that is "All Quiet On The Western Front," Universal's superb super-production of Erich Maria Remarque's famous war book, which comes to the screen of the Fox West Coast theater today.

"All Quiet n The Western Front" is a magnificent picturization of the fate of youth in war. Its hero, young Paul Baumer, is a German, but he stands for the youth of all nations.

The picture portrays the effects of war upon young Baumer and his companions. It is the poignant story of youth that has been denied its chance at life . . . of youth hurled into a ceaseless hell of body and soul before it has begun to live.

There are many scenes which will remain permanently etched upon the memory of the beholder . . . scenes terrific in their tragery . . . scenes sublime in their heroism . . . scenes touching in their simple pathos.

Lewis Ayres, in the central role, Louis Wolheim and John Wray give performances that have never been surpassed on the motion-picture screen. Others in the large cast who stand prominently forth are Slim Summerville, Russell Gleason, William Bakewell, Scott Kolk, Walter Browne, Rogers, Ben Alexander, Owen Davis Jr., and Zazu Pitts.

Lewis Milestone has done a magnificent work as director. The broad sweep of war is never allowed to obscure the human beings whose fate is the foremost consideration in the picture.

BOLSA

Lafe Ross has sold his residence and acre of land located on Wright street, just north of Bolsa boulevard, to a Long Beach man whose name was not learned. Mr. Ross will have possession until the first of August and it is his plan to erect a home in this vicinity to which he and his family will move upon leaving here. The family has lived at the place just disposed of for a number of years.

Mrs. Glade Fuller was operated upon Friday morning at the Santa Ana Valley hospital where she will remain at least two weeks. Mrs. Fuller sr., mother of Glade Fuller, is staying in their home during Mrs. Fuller's absence.

PERFECT COLOR IN DRAMA AT WALKER

Too great a variety of colorings has been the chief fault in practically every color picture made in the past, is the criticism artists have made of moving pictures photographed in colors. Director Albert Rogell, appreciating the importance of colors properly blended, decided to work on this theory in making the Tiffany all-talking, all-Technicolor production, "Mamba." The result is that this young director has been showered with compliments for the natural coloring obtained.

All the coloring in "Mamba" was kept absolutely natural, so that an audience would be practically unconscious of the fact that it was seeing a picture in Technicolor.

"If one looks at a distant landscape," says Rogell, "his impression is one of beauty and a perfect blending of all colors.

Another quality noticeable in "Mamba" is a third dimension—a depth and perspective that is all that is needed to make moving pictures perfect.

"Mamba," a story of love, hate and vengeance enacted against the background of an African jungle and produced on a large and spectacular scale by Tiffany, is the attraction at Walker's State.

GARBO 'ROMANCE' AT FOX BROADWAY

"Romance," starring Greta Garbo, in a new type of picture for her, opens a four-day run at the Fox Broadway theater today.

Strictly a woman's play, "Romance" will team at the heart-strings of every woman in Santa Ana and there will be few who will not love the new Garbo that is seen in the leading part, in a part the like of which she has never played before.

The plot of the story concerns a great woman opera singer who gives up love because she loved too deeply and of a man who was advised to refuse to give his love to an actress and who wanted to "play" with her instead, and did.

"Romance" is romance from start to finish. It is a picture of today with yesterday's settings and was was the vehicle that Doris Keane used years ago on the stage.

Critics who have seen it declare it to be the biggest thing that Garbo ever has done on the screen. Its plot is human, soul stirring and emotional and it will bring many a tear to the eye and many pangs to any audience that views it.

"Romance" is showing in Santa Ana even before Los Angeles. The picture has just been released and Santa Ana fans of Garbo are betting the first chance to see her in the type of a demure actress.

A Fox Movietone news heel together with an all talking comedy also are shown.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

Said Clowny, "Gee, Ill bet that I could spin that yarn. I'll gladly try, if I'm allowed to do it." Then the spinning woman smiled and answered, "You would have much fun but likely you'd spoil all I've done. I hate to disappoint you, but it's no job for a child."

"She's right," the Travel Man broke in. "You wouldn't know where to begin. 'Tis best to stand and watch her. She's been trained to do it right." So, 'bout an hour they made their stay and then they went upon their way. The Tinies waved good-bye just ere they traveled out of sight.

The Travel Man then said, "Right now I think I'll get some rest somehow. I see a place where we can sit out in the cooling breeze." Then Scouty answered, "I'm tired, too. I'll gladly do the same as you. I know that I'll appreciate just loafing 'round at ease."

Not very far away they found a big flat stone upon the ground. They all sat down to watch the Persian people walking by. The men's gowns were a sight to see, all loose and flowing as could be. Said Coppy, "What queer clothes they wear. I've often wondered why."

The Travel Man explained that they were living in their own sweet way. "Their clothes seem queer to us," said he. "But they are the Persian style. Now, when some Persian looks at you, no doubt your clothes look funny, too. In fact when we have passed some folks, I know we've made them smile."

The next place that they went was grand—a very spacious copper stand, where some old man sold copper wares to folks who came his way. Amidst the things he sat alone. It seemed like being on a throne. Said Carpy, "Gee, he must be tired, if he sits there all day."

(The Tinymites visit another Persian home in the next story.)

RULES

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't: TEE, TIE, PIE, PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.
2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.
3. The order of the letters cannot be changed.

HARD to BOIL—It shouldn't take you any longer than five minutes to HARD BOIL this par five hole.

Tomorrow—Solution of today's puzzle.

Here is our solution of Saturday's puzzle: BULL, DULL, DOLL, DOLE, DOGE, DOGS.

Newport Harbor Lauded For Tournament Of Lights

MOTOR TRANSIT USES P.E. DEPOT IN FULLERTON

FULLERTON, July 14.—Starting tomorrow, Motor Transit stages will operate from the Pacific Electric depot on East Commonwealth avenue, it was announced here today by Max H. Green, general traffic manager, who was in Fullerton today with J. P. Pettinger of the advertising department, making arrangements for the change.

Office equipment of the Motor Transit is being moved to the new quarters this afternoon from the present location on West Commonwealth avenue. The full ticket and express agency force will be located at the new address, it was said, in addition to the regular Pacific Electric force. Motor Transit, Pacific Electric and Southern Pacific freight service will be available. The joining of the two stations comes as a result of the consolidation of the stage line with the Pacific Electric.

Apply For Service

Joint application of the Pacific Greyhound stages and the Motor Transit, whereby the latter would take over the Los Angeles to Corona service through Fullerton, to be operated in connection and as a part of the Yorba Linda and Placentia service, is now before the railroad commission, Green said. In connection with the Placentia and Yorba Linda service, Green declared that ideas of patrons on possible changes or improvements would be welcomed. The new line through to Corona would connect with lines to Riverside, San Bernardino and Redlands and with the inland route to San Diego from Corona.

No changes in depot arrangements at the Pacific Electric are contemplated at the present time, Green declared, although later alterations may be made to improve accommodations. A new driveway has been arranged around the depot and the stages will turn east on Commonwealth avenue from Spadra road, circling the station and going out the same way.

NEWPORT BEACH TO PETITION FOR GAS TAXES

NEWPORT BEACH, July 14.—Residents of Newport Beach today were reported to be signing in large numbers petitions asking that the Orange county board of supervisors "bring about a proper and equitable distribution of funds so that the city of Newport Beach may receive the consideration we feel is due" in regard to gasoline taxes.

The petition is one of several which it is said will be circulated or are being circulated in other cities of the county asking for similar apportionment of the gas tax. Those circulating the petition state that 70 per cent of the gasoline tax in the state is collected within incorporated cities, but less than 30 per cent expended within them.

Pays Out $19,000

This city, the petition says, pays annually about $19,000 in the form of gasoline tax into the state motor vehicle fund. Of this amount approximately $12,800 is used by the state highway commission on the state trunk line routes throughout the state and some $6300 is apportioned to Orange county to be used under the jurisdiction of the supervisors.

It also points out that this city "has, at the sole expense of its citizens incurred a heavy burden of taxation for the construction and maintenance of its city streets" and "has never received any portion whatsoever of the beforementioned motor vehicle tax fund" and asks that some of the money be used for streets in this city which carry "more than ordinary local traffic."

Huntington Beach is another coast city which is demanding some state or county money for roads; namely, for completing the widening of the coast highway. They point out that years ago they paid for widening that highway through part of the city, and that it was and is used for more than local traffic and that the part now required to be widened is also for more than local use.

56 BOYS LEAVE TUESDAY FOR CAMP OSCEOLA

FULLERTON, July 14.—Leaving for a two-weeks outing, 56 boys of high school age with eight leaders will go Tuesday to Camp Osceola in the San Bernardino mountains, conducted by the North Orange county Y. M. C. A. under direction of Secretary Archie Raitt.

The trip will be made by special Motor Transit stages from Fullerton. They will return home July 29. On that date a second group of younger boys, now including a party of 40 with leaders in addition, are to go into Osceola for two weeks. Dr. E. H. Brunemeier, of Placentia, will be in camp for the entire time, it was said.

Fear of infantile paralysis has caused a somewhat lower registration for the camp this year than last, according to Raitt, who pointed out today that the healthful outdoor exercise and strict camp supervision and sanitation, according to medical authorities, makes such an outing place the healthiest and safest place for youngsters during the period infantile paralysis cases have been appearing.

ANNUAL AFFAIR IMPROVED BY AIR FEATURES

NEWPORT BEACH, July 14. — Presenting the most brilliant and beautiful and most successful Tournament of Lights in the history of Newport Harbor, General Chairman H. L. Sherman of the chamber of commerce committee and his aides were receiving congratulations today for the novel spectacle Saturday evening which lured thousands of Southern California residents to the shores of the bay.

Not only was the equatic parade more magnificent in itself than previous ones; but the air features added this year put "The Lights" in a new class of annual events. Another tremendous crowd, variously estimated at from 60,000 to 80,000, lined the streets and shores and hills and buildings all around the bay to view the splendid lighted parade.

Powerful Searchlights

With army and other powerful searchlights piercing the moon-lit sky and playing on the Goodyear dirigible and the Richfield Neonsign plane, the big illuminated parade passed before the eyes of the thousands of delighted residents and visitors, while music was wafted over the placid waters of the bay on an ideal summer evening making the sight one which thrilled everybody within seeing or hearing distance.

The traffic was handled better than last year and the jam on all parts of the peninsula was not so great, although it was estimated that the number who saw the parade was even greater than 1929. Yesterday's crowd was also the greatest Sunday crowd at the county harbor this year.

Newport Float Delayed

The parade started almost on time, and traversed the route as scheduled, except that the towboat of the City of Newport Beach float, a splendid entry which was bringing up the rear, had trouble and this float was late in passing the turn from Balboa Island to the peninsula and finally wound up at the foot of Palm street.

Lido Isle Winner

The Lido Isle float, first prize winner in the commercial division of the parade, had a drum and bugle corps. Outside of this, the musical part of the program was given by radio. Music from Everett Hoagland's Troubadours was broadcast by Station KGER, Long Beach, from the Rendezvous ballroom, Balboa to three sets on floats in the parade and was heard distinctly.

The judges, all from the Laguna Beach art colony, were as follows: William A. Griffith, W. W. Riddell, Frank Cuprien, Ross Shattuck, Miss Julie Raymond and Miss Virginia Woolley.

Haver and Beek Win

Ralph Haver won the sweepstakes in the three classes of small entries, rowboats, canoes and sailboats under 20 feet, while Commodore J. A. Beek, who managed the tournament for many years before this year and whose boat led the parade Saturday night, captured the sweepstakes in the three larger classes.

The Newport Beach Exchange club won first in the organization floats class, the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce in the division of civic floats and Commodore John C. Piver of San Francisco in the boats at anchor class. The full prize list follows, in each case in the order named:

Prize Winners

Canoes—A. J. Rutter, Janet White and Margaret Bennett.

Give Honorable Mention

Honorable mention was given to several others, including the float of the city of Newport Beach and an entry of the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce. The Newport Beach float was not entered in competition, as announced before the parade, while owing to generator trouble the Anaheim float was unable to get in the parade, though it was at anchor.

Six persons were injured in one automobile accident at Euclid and Chapman avenues, two miles west of the Orange County hospital at 11 o'clock last night. They were taken to the hospital, where it was said that all would recover.

The accident occurred when an automobile driven by J. H. Toirier, of Corona, collided with a machine driven by Harold Hindman, of Anaheim.

Toirier received cuts about the head and left eye, George Seymour, riding with Toirier, was cut and bruised about the head seriously. Mrs. Seymour had a deep scalp wound and cuts and bruises. Willie Gagner suffered cuts and abrasions about the head and Mrs. Clara Gagner was cut and bruised. In the other machine, Mrs. Harold Hindman was seriously cut and bruised, it was reported.

With the exception of Mr. and Mrs. Gagner, the party in the Toirier machine were all from Corona. Mr. and Mrs. Gagner reside in Arlington.

Joseph Knight, of San Diego, was seriously cut and bruised about the head at 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning when the automobile in which he was riding with L. G. Clemens, of San Diego, collided with a machine driven by Howard S. Magnuson, of Garden Grove.

The accident occurred on the Newport Beach highway, several miles south of the Eddie Martin airport, it was reported.

Knight was taken to the Orange county hospital, where it was said today that his condition was satisfactory.

Antoinette Gatti, 52, of 6417 West boulevard, Inglewood, was slightly injured at Seventeenth and Main streets at 7:45 o'clock last night, when the automobile in which she was riding with her husband, M. Gatti, collided with a car driven by H. J. Cochems, of 1124 West Seventeenth street, according to a police report. The woman was given first aid treatment and allowed to go to her home.

PARALYSIS CASES ARE WANING HERE

With only five existing cases of infantile paralysis in Orange county, the threatened epidemic is apparently well in hand, it was indicated this morning by the county health office. Altogether, a total of 27 cases have been reported since the disease first made its appearance in this district. With the exception of those now under quarantine, the rest of the patients have fully recovered, it is said.

"The conditions prevailing in Los Angeles, where an extensive war is being waged on the spread of infection, have in no manner invaded this section, although every precaution should be taken to prevent such a possibility," said Dr. H. K. Sutherland, county health officer.

In 1928 there were 180,000 full-blooded Indians in the United States.

NEW YORK BONDS

NEW YORK, July 14.—(UP)—A 3 point advance in Certain-Teed 5½s to a new high for the movement at 45 featured an otherwise dull and irregular bond market in early trading today. After closing at 42 Saturday, the Certain-Teed 5½s rose 3 points on a sale of $9,000.

Strength in the Certain-Teed bonds was partly in belated recognition of the annual statement of the company which stated that the firm had increased the organization of the compan y otwhat was believed was a sound basis. In response ot the improvement in industrial issues led by Certain-Teed securities, Philadelphia obligations, Silesia 7s gained more than a point, while Australia 6s sold off 1½ points. Utility issues were fractionally higher, gains of ¼ and ½ points being recorded in American Telphone and Telegraph 5s and International Telephone and Telegraph 4½s respectively.

In the railroad section, Atchsion 4½s were features, firming up more than a point under heavy demand. Lesser gains were registered in such issues as New York Central 5½s, Seaboard All Florida 6s, Seaboard 6s nad Missouri Pacific 4s.

Trading in United States government securities picked up around noon, prices moving irregularly in a narrow range. Oils wer edull, Phillips Petroleum 5½s being the exception, selling for ½ point.

CHICAGO BD. OF TRADE

CHICAGO, July 14.—(UP)—Persistent selling by houses with southwest connections sent wheat prices off sharply in the latter part of the session after strong cables had given the market strength early. A late break to new low levels for September and December bruoght a good rally and wheat closed in the major fractions higher on the Board of Trade. Corn had a strnog undertone failing ot break with wheat and helping to sustain a small advance in oat prices.

At the close wheat was ¾ to ⅞c higher, corn was 1¾ to 2c higher and oats were ¼c lower to ½c higher. Provisions were about steady.

NEW YORK CURB

NEW YORK, July 14.—(UP)—The curb market started the week today with a spirited advance in all sections of the list. Operators for the advance derived stimulus from a pick-up in activity that accompanied the advance and scattered selling that depressed a few individual issues failed to shake bullish confidence.

Driver Harris was an outstanding feature of strength, spurting more than 7 points on brisk demand. National Rubber machinery gained almost 2 points, while a jump of nearly 6 opints took place in Newmont Mining.

With the exception of American Light and Traction, which receded a little over a point, the leading public utility stocks were well taken at rising levels and gains ranging from fractions to a point took place in American and Foreign Power warrants, American Superpower, Cities Service, Electric Bond and Share, Electric Power Asociates nad Niagara Hudson Power.

REPUDIATES EVIDENCE

John McDonald, the man upon whose testimony Thomas J. Mooney and Warren K. Billings were convicted and are spending life sentences in San Quentin and Folsom respectively, is coming back to California to correct his testimony.

We have been unable to see how any one could read the amazing revelations in respect to the Mooney-Billings cases and have serious doubt of Mooney's innocence. Up until the time the supreme court and the special investigating commission made their reports upon these two cases, our conviction was firm that certainly Mooney was an innocent man, and that he was suffering imprisonment when he should be free.

The jury which convicted Mooney, and the judge who sentenced him, have all expressed confidence in his innocence since the exposure of Oxman, and the declarations of McDonald. The review of the case in respect to McDonald by the supreme court, pointing out that he had refused to be placed under oath, and the refusal of Billings to take legal action permitting the supreme court de novo to investigate the matter, raised much doubt in our mind which we felt justified the special investigating committee and the governor in the position which they assumed.

Now McDonald, arrested in Baltimore, declares that the reason he was not willing to testify was because they would not grant him immunity, but now he is willing to take the consequences, and will come back and tell the truth regardless of what happens to him. He is a crippled old man. He declares that as far are Mooney was concerned, he never saw him where he had previously testified he had seen him, he says Mooney was pointed out to him; he says that money was paid him for his testimony and all of his expenses were paid. We are not greatly surprised at this result. Certainly the incarceration of innocent men in jail for a decade and a half by his false testimony must have weighed upon the mind and conscience of McDonald. It seems to us it would be a distinct relief to him to come back and to the extent possible make restitution. Imprisonment for perjury would be a joy compared with living in freedom with innocent men in jail due to one's act.

The lamentable part of it all is that these terrible years, the heart of the lives of the men, can never be returned to them. It is unfortunate that the matter could not have been searched more thoroughly and the conclusions reached earlier.

Michael, ex-boy king of Rumania, will soon join the army as a corporal. To be sure, he has lost some authority, but prospects are good he'll be made a top sergeant some day.

A COMMUNIST SEEKING A JOB

The Communist candidate for mayor of Baltimore is a negro laborer out of a job. That is somewhat of a combination. He has about as much chance of getting the job for which he is a candidate as a certain newspaper man of the last generation who at one time was looking for a vacancy in the Trinity. His color is against him. His social status is against him. And his economic heresies are against him. But the rapture of pursuing, which is the prize the vanquished win, will be his.

Anyway, the attempt of this much handicapped candidate for mayorality honors is one of the high privileges of democracy. Even the man who scorns the democratic system may avail himself of all its privileges. If he can persuade enough of his fellow citizens to become communistic comrades to elect him there is nothing in our constitutional system to prevent him from holding the office. The privilege of persuading them is his. If he can convince them that the democratic and capitalistic order of society is impracticable and ought to be changed, let him go to it. Every opportunity of speech and propaganda should be his. But he must not depart from the constitutional methods.

We shall not watch this man's candidacy, however, with any particular interest. We can prophesy the result of it with as much certainty as we can the setting of today's sun.

With the report that Shakespeare's sonnets may be filmed, chances seem bright we shall yet hear some good English in the talkies.

DANGEROUS SPORTS

Baseball has been found to be the most dangerous recreation through an analysis of some 4400 claims for vacation injuries which was made by the statistical department of an insurance company of New York City.

Baseball was blamed for 807, or 18 per cent, of the injuries reported, while swimming came next with 562 cases and wrestling, including "friendly scuffling" came third in the list with 287 injuries. Bowling caused 269 of the accidents, skating 231, tennis 211, fireworks 194, hunting 177, golf 164. Pingpong was blamed for only three mishaps. More interesting would be figures revealing the number of accidents in the respective sports with the number of people interested in, or participating in each one. The analysis might be quite different with those figures.

Probably these findings don't have any bearing on the increasing popularity of pingpong. Miniature golf doesn't figure in the estimate. It would probably run a close second to pingpong at the foot of the list.

THE STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS

The other day a man was convicted of manslaughter, who several years ago shot the husband of the woman with whom he was in love, and was living then in the garret of the house of the man whom he was charged with shooting.

There was no question concerning his guilt of the act, the jury brought in the verdict, and then as the judge was about to sentence him, the attorney for the defense made a motion of arrest in judgment on the ground that the statute of limitations had run against this criminal, so that they could not sentence him. The judge agreed that that was the law, and the man was freed.

We can conceive of no more unjust law to put a premium on criminality than a law which protects the criminal, providing he can conceal his own identity and thereby prevent an indictment against him for a certain number of years. It is an old adage that "murder will out." Whether or not we believe that is always true is unimportant, but it is true in a great many cases, as it was true in this case. But when society by its own legal enactments has thrown its protecting arm around the criminal, by providing for his freedom in case he has been adroit enough to conceal the perpetrator of the crime, certainly the bringing out of the guilty person accomplishes little good. The strange part of it is in respect to fraud the statute of limitations does not run against it until two years after it is discovered.

Extraordinary effort is constantly being made by criminals to prevent an indictment until the statute of limitations has begun to run, in other words, until it is so-called "outlawed." Certainly the statute of limitations ought not begin to run against any crime until the perpetrator of the crime is known. If he has evaded the law and concealed himself from it, the crime is really a continuous one, ceasing only at the time when the facts become known. The statute of limitations ought not run against crime. This is putting a big premium on criminality. It should be made as difficult for men to do wrong, and as easy for them to do right as possible. The rectification of this law would go far in that direction.

The average husband could honestly say to his wife, "Thank goodness I haven't a talking picture of you."

BRIDGE STATISTICS

A thirteen spade bridge hand held by a woman the other day has given rise to some statistics from mathematicians. Under the law of probabilities she would have to play eight rubbers a day for 11,024,541 years before she would get another hand like it. A pack of 52 cards can be dealt into 53,644,737,765,488,792,839,237,440,000 different combinations. The odds against any specific thirteen cards appearing in one hand are 635,013,559,600 to one.

Now probably some of you can see why your friends who are enthusiastic about bridge stick with it so continuously. They are proving these statistics.

Testing a College In the Laboratory

Christian Science Monitor

Those responsible for the experimental college at the University of Wisconsin have confidently laid out next year's teaching program despite rumors, which have gone so far as to say that the college had been discontinued. The experiment has neither failed nor stopped, avers Glenn Frank, president of the university.

The need of offsetting the rumors and of certifying to the general public that the college is not only a busy place but more active than ever, has caused Dr. Frank to issue a twenty-three-page booklet. By this means friends and critics alike are afforded an authentic statement of the purpose of the college, of its achievements in the three years of its operation, and of what students and parents think concerning it.

It is true that this experimental college is radical in the manner of presenting its courses, that it is under the direction of Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn, whose reforming efforts are said to have cost him the presidency of Amhurst, and that it has had some big and original difficulties to overcome. Other universities, like Harvard and Yale, also are setting up experimental colleges, but the results of the Wisconsin project are likely to be carefully weighed by college executives far and wide. It has been a conspicuous venture ever since it started.

The contribution which the college has undertaken to render to the University of Wisconsin in particular and to higher education in general is threefold—to evolve a more purposeful unit out of the now very separate subjects of the liberal arts curriculum, to make the relationship between teacher and student more informal and more direct, and to bring about a greater socialization of the student.

The distinctive feature of its plan is that of approaching the entire course of study for the first year through the Athenian civilization of the fifth century, B. C., and for the second year through the civilization of the United States. To some educators there is in the plan more courage and idealism than practical value. Certain phases of the experiment are questionable. Yet Dr. Frank declares that if his son were ready for college he would want to enroll him in the experimental unit. That is a most convincing confession of faith, and educators everywhere will be glad to know that in the favorable atmosphere of that faith, "the liberal college experiment" will go on.

The Valor of Modern Youths

Riverside Enterprise

As soon as youth becomes conscious of what war makes—and they have manifold opportunity for this through the famous war books—they will start to argue against war as against a direct menacing calamity.

Those who glorify the old-fashioned heroism will brand this attitude as unmanly cowardice. But they forget that the youth of today is as valorous as that of former times . . . the youth has chosen other aims and other motives for its valour. It no longer glorifies the romance of war. Modern war methods with their sober, practical, laboratory-like destruction are a lugubrious terror without any disguise. And, moreover, youth has also become too much convinced of the gradually, nearly instinctively penetrated truth, that no political complication can be solved through such catastrophic explosions.—Nieuwe Rotterdamsche Courant Rotterdam.

More Truth Than Poetry

FAREWELL ROMANCE

(The only pirate vessels left on the seas are small Chinese junks)

At the sight of a low rakish sail,
For the pirates of old were delightfully bold
And the theme of full many a tale.
But the seas are now rid of great rascals like Kidd;
The buccanneers' vessels lie sunk,
And the pirate today scours inlet and bay
In a little old twenty foot junk.

No whiskers has he to float fluffy and free
When the tempest is howling off shore—
No room in his hold for great cargoes of gold—
Bright sovereigns and trim Louis d'Or.
The goods that he steals are the skins of fur seals
Which he stows in a moth eaten trunk,
For the pirate's estate is so fallen of late
That his business is done in a junk.

It is true, while he loots, that he often times shoots,
And his victims are killed quite as dead
As the lads who were slain on the old Spanish Main
When from savage old Blackbeard they fled.
Yet askance we must view the piratical crew
Whose yen-hoks are lit with a punk,
And who, timid of heart, seek to ply a great art
In a small, grimy open faced junk.

Captain Kidd's is a name with an echoing fame,
The proudest of vessels he sank,
And watched with a smile of ineffable guile
As their occupants stepped off a plank.
But far-fled are the times of such glorious crimes,
Which won gold by the glittering chunk,
There is never a chance for a glint of romance
When a pirate sails forth in a junk!

"Give 'em Both Barrels"

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

A breathless boy thrust his head through the door of a house in the Ozark Mountains, in Arkansas.

"Hey, Doc," he gasped, "git up ter Hawkins' shack quick's you kin git. The gal's ailin'."

"Doc" bent over the moaning girl. Ailin', indeed! A few minutes more and a ruptured appendix would put her beyond the reach of mortal ailments.

"I'm going to operate," he said sharply to her father. "You'll have to hold the lamp and——"

"Cut her up, will ye? snarled the frantic father. "All right, go ahead an' cut up my gal, but her pappy ain't holdin' no lamp fer ye. He's holdin' a shot gun. Ef'n she lives, so do you. Ef'n she dies——"

The crazed man glared at the Doctor. "Sharpen yer knife, ye butcher, but don't let hit slip. DON'T LET HIT SLIP."

So in a mountain shack, by the dim light of the one kerosene lamp on the wall, the doctor sterilized his knife as best he could, and set about the business of saving a life, with a shotgun held at his head.

The "gal" lived. The Doctor made her as comfortable as he could. Then he sat down and for ten minutes spoke pure Ozark to her pappy and never used the same word twice.

There must be, up and down the land, many leaders of industry who would pay real money for a copy of that speech, and who would walk many miles to clasp "Doc" silently by the hand.

Business is ailin'. Many leaders of industry are operating under discouraging conditions, while those who should at least be holding lamps are holding shotguns. "If business recovers," they say, "all well and good. If it doesn't—give 'em both barrels."

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

THE BLAME FOR UNEMPLOYMENT

No public problem is ever as simple as the slogans it breeds.

The existing unemployment in the United States vividly verifies this contention.

Vote for Hector and find prosperity!

Vote for Hector and face panic!

These are the sort of slogans dinned into the ears of democratic peoples as they go to the polls to vote for presidents and premiers.

But presidents and premiers are rarely responsible either for the prosperity or for the panic that prevails during their terms of office.

Politics grows increasingly irrelevant in this complex, technical, corporate age.

The modern politican lives and legislates in the suburbs of reality.

The plenty or penury of the people is, in the main, decided by forces and facts quite outside the field of politics.

I am temperamentally an unpolitical person, with next to no interest in the Donnybrook Fair of head-breaking partisan politics, but I am enormously interested in the social tendencies of my time, for I want my son to have the chance to live his adult life in a decently ordered civilization. And, as I listen to the endless club-corner discussion of unemployment, I am convinced that we shall never stabilize American prosperity until we stop thinking that unemployment is simply a question of whether Calvin Coolidge, Herbert Hoover, or Al Smith happens to be living in the White House.

Unemployment is a rank weed that sinks its roots in a dozen obvious and obscure soils of our machine order of life and labor; it is not a simple matter; and it is not susceptible of solution by any simple political gesture.

Stuart Chase, in Harper's Magazine for July, says—what every man who has studied unemployment and not simply campaigned on it knows—that there are six distinct kinds of unemployment, viz:

(1) Seasonal unemployment.
(2) Technological unemployment.
(3) Cyclical unemployment.
(4) Residual unemployment.
(5) Stop-watch unemployment.
(6) Consolidation unemployment.

These are, in the main, technical and a bit high-brow descriptions of the varied aspects of unemployment. I realize that the man out of a job is not helped much by a long adjective tacked on to his lack of work, but until we settle down to a technical dealing with these varied aspects of unemployment, the ghost of insecurity will continue to hover over the man with the dinner pail and will freeze his heart with fear.

It is within our power to establish control over these six sources of unemployment, if we will but take a vacation from bunk and bring intelligence to bear upon the situation, but ninety per cent of the current political discussion of unemployment is as futile as the primitive man's plea to the rain god to break the drought.

OUR CHILDREN

QUIET TIME

Life is growing noisier every day, it would seem. Motor cars fill the streets with their grinding and rumbling and honking. The riveter sets his horrible vibrations running through the very masonry of one's house. The radio screams and howls and screeches and murmurs and sings at all hours. The victrola does its share. Bells and whistles and flat wheels, airplanes, freight trains, rag-men, children, animals, machines, all lift their more or less melodious voices and there is no quiet in the world, not even in the churchyard. What is to become of the children who must sleep, study, think?

I always have believed that quiet was essential for the growth of children. Babies must have quiet days in which to lie and croon themselves into growth. Growing little ones who have found their legs must have quiet afternoons for naps. Older children earnest in school work must have quiet hours for study and thinking and rest. ALL children must sleep long hours to rest and refresh and recreate their bodies. In our delight at discovering machinery we are likely to forget the huban being who creates the need for the machines.

Laws are not helpful usually in such situations. To prohibit this and that never works unless the people will this and that to be prohibited. We do not want to throw out the radio and the telephone and the motors and the rest of the exciting delightful things we know and use but we must come to some understanding of how to use them.

We would not destroy ourselves and our children by misusing the machines that are to provide us with delightful leisure hours.

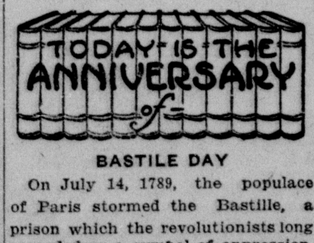

We like fruit and sweets and good food but we know that if we indulge ourselves in any of the pleasures of the table beyond a healthy limit we will surely suffer. We will bitterly repent our indiscretion. We must acknowledge the same condition in our use of the modern machines.

It is silly to turn on a radio at 7 o'clock in the morning and keep it on all day and far into the night. It is stupid to open your window and turn your loud speaker into the courts of an apartment house or your neighbor's windows. Phonographs need not grind all day and far into the night to give a famfly a bit of music. Nor need motors make so much noise.

First we can keep all machinery in good condition for service and that immediately will remove a set of fearful noises from our streets. Flat wheels, loose parts, defective works can be adjusted. Houses where children live will have to be protected from too much radio and the like and the best way to do that is to have the people who live in the houses agree on the best hours, the best regulations possible to all of them.

A certain number of quiet hours daily are essential to the healthy growth of children. Let us try to agree to have them so that the generation most richly endowed with the gifts of science will not perish by their riches.

BASTILE DAY

On July 14, 1789, the populace of Paris stormed the Bastille, a prison which the revolutionists long regarded as a symbol of oppression. The fall of this ancient fortress is celebrated in France as the chief national holiday and as the day when a new era of liberty dawned for the people and an end was put to the old regime.

In the uprising a force of about 50,000 attacked the Bastille, killed its governor and seven of his men and scattered the archieves of the prison. The prisoners, seven in number, were carried through the streets and hailed as victims of tyranny and martyrs in the people's cause.

It is interesting to note that Lafayette sent the key of the Bastille to George Washington "because the principles of America it was that opened the Bastille." This relic may still be seen at Mt. Vernon.

The site of the building is now marked by a column of bronze dedicated to the memory of the patriots of July, 1789 and 1830.

President Takes Hand In Senate Naval Treaty Fight

SEEKS PLAN TO GET VOTE NEXT WEEK

Indications Are That Battle of Opposition to Be Continued For Days

DEMOCRATS TO AID

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(UP)—President Hoover took a hand today in the senate fight for the London naval treaty.

But while senator Robinson, Democrat, Arkansas, one of the American delegates to London, was addressing the senate in support of the pact, and urging its ratification, Mr. Hoover was informed by Majority Leader Watson and Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee there was no hope of a vote before next week.

Mr. Hoover had hoped for ratification last week and his anxiety at the senate's slow pace was communicated to his spokesmen at the capitol. The present program is to permit the treaty opposition to talk itself out and to bring the pact to a vote the end of next week.

To this end it has been suggested that Borah, Watson and Senator McNary, Republican, Oregon, join with Senators Robinson, Arkansas, and Swanson, Virginia, on the Democratic side to outline a bipartisan program to which the senate would be held by cloture if necessary, opposition tactics designed to force the debate into a fourth week probably would be met by an effort to invoke the cloture rule, the United Press was reliably informed.

Borah told Mr. Hoover the real problem confronting the treaty was maintenance of a quorum. Telegrams have been sent to all senators within reach, requesting their immediate presence to bolster the administration in its fight against a bipratisan anti-treaty minority led by two Republicans, Johnson, California, and Moses, New Hampshire.

The administration group is considering amendment instead of rejection of the Norris resolution, which stipulates the treaty shall not be subject to secret papers nor its provisions subject to prior interpretations. It was pointed out today the present wording of the resolution probably would prevent use of the notes exchanged with Japan and Great Britain to clarify replacement clauses of the pact.

Mrs. McCormick Files 5000 Word Statement With Investigators

FEDERAL BUILDING, CHICAGO, July 14.—(UP)—"It may be possible to buy certain elections in this country but you cannot buy Illinois landslides," Ruth Hanna McCormick said today at the opening of the senate committee's investigation into charges of excessive expenditures in Mrs. McCormick's successful campaign for the Illinois senatorial nomination.

The first woman ever nominated for the senate by a major party sumbitted a written statement at the opening of the campaign expenditures committee's Chicago hearing. The statement was more than 5,000 words long and reiterated much of the testimony she had given at the hearing in Washington on May 1.

Mrs. McCormick not only reviewed the campaign in which she defeated Senator Charles S. Deneed for the Republican nomination but repeated her original testimony that she had spent $252,572.30.

She recalled that three weeks ago she had submitted to the committee, whose Chicago hearing is being conducted by Senator Gerald P. Nye, a statement showing that she had found three volunteer organizations which worked for her in the campaign expended $67,214.10 in addition to her personal expenditures.

Mrs. McCromick criticized Senator Nye for giving a statement to the newspapers saying that his investigators had found she expended approximately $325,000 instead of the $252,000 which she reported.

"His assertion is inaccurate and misleading," her statement said. "It is difficult to understand in

BANDIT SOUGHT BY SHERIFF'S POSSES

SAN DIEGO, July 14.—Sheriffs posses are searching the mountain section near Descanso today for a youthful bandit who gagged and bound R. H. Bowman, Owensmouth, Calif., to a tree near there yesterday after Bowman had given the robber a ride in his car.

The robber took the car but was later captured after Bowman had freed himself and notified the sheriff's office. Taken to Descanso by a deputy the robber escaped. He is believed to have been wounded by one of four shots fired by the deputy but no trace of him had been found today.

Brock Sees Large Orange Crop For County Orchards

The 1930-31 orange crop in Orange county will be 95 per cent of normal, in the opinion of A. A. Brock, county horticultural commissioner.

The commissioner basis his estimates on the results of investigations as to the June drop. This, he said, was light, taking the county as a whole into consideration. The drop in some orchards was heavy, he said, but the average for the county was very light.

The setting for the 1930-31 season, which starts with next November, indicates that the trees will be heavily loaded with the golden fruit. The commissioner pointed out that this would portend fruit of small size.

Screen Actress Drives Nude In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, July 14.—(UP)—Even if the temperature did reach 98 yesterday, Evelyn Eagan, screen actress, had no right to do a Lady Godiva through the streets of Hollywood, police said.

Accordingly Miss Egan was arrested on a drunk charge after two officers halted her weaving automobile and found to their surprise that the driver was nude.

The actress explained that it was so warm that she just was stifling so she had removed the bathing suit which she had worn to the beach.

With the aid of a blanket officers transported Miss Eagan to the police station and then to county jail. She was released this morning.

DEATH CLAIMS REAR ADMIRAL A. H. ROBERTSON

Commandant of Pacific Division Passes Away In San Diego Hospital

SAN DIEGO, July 14.—(UP)—Flags of the eleventh naval district were at half mast today for Rear Admiral Ashley Herman Robertson, 62, commandant of the division and a prominent world war figure, who died at the naval hospital here yesterday.

A congestion of the lungs which followed influenza caused Admiral Robertson's death at a time when doctors believed him on the road to recovery.

Military funeral services will be held at the First Methodist church here tomorrow afternoon. Service units will escort the body to a train for Washington, D. C., where the fallen naval leader will be buried in Arlington cemetery.

Admiral Robertson, born at Ashmore, Ill., December 14, 1867, entered Annapolis naval academy in 1884 and after graduation served with various vessels of the fleet. Later he became an instructor at the academy and in 1916 was commissioned as a captain.

His career reached its height during the World war when, after commanding the great troop ship Mt. Vernon, he was appointed transport officer charged with maintaining a steady stream of transports to France. When the war closed he became commander of the U. S. S. New Mexico, the navy's first electrically driven dreadnaught.

Subsequent assignments given Admiral Robertson were as commander of the Atlantic destroyer force and chief of staff at the naval war college, Newport, R. I. In 1923 he was given command of the eleventh naval district here and remained until 1926. He was placed in command a second time in 1928, a post he held at the time of his death.

Among the admiral's honors during his career were the naval war college diploma, the navy cross and the distinguished service medal of the war department.

DELHI MEXICAN IS KILLED IN SUNDAY FIGHT

Police Narrowly Avert Lynching After One Man Stabbed to Death

SERIOUS TROUBLE which threatened soon after Pete Gonzales, 30, had been arrested by Officers E. E. Perry and Merle Dean, at Delhi, early last night, for the brutal murder of Manuel Valenzuella, in a knife-gun battle at Measer street and Central avenue, was averted when Officer Perry rushed the murderer to the county jail, while Officer Dean mingled with an angry crowd which had gathered and dispersed them.

Several Mexicans jumped on the running board of the police car as Perry was taking the prisoner away.

Valenzuella was stabbed through the heart with a butcher knife, after a shot he had fired at Gonzales had gone wild. He didn't have another chance to fire, as Gonzales rushed him with the knife and with one upward swing plunged the knife through the man's heart.

The story of the murder was told officers by both Gonzales and Elisa Bozorquez, the latter being the only eye witness to the killing.

She told officers that she saw Valenzuella in her front yard and that he had been drinking and she attempted to have him come into the house. Just as she spoke to him, she said Gonzales came around the corner of the house and threatened her, telling her to get inside or he would kill her.

He then turned to Valenzuella and Valenzuella pulled a pistol and fired at Gonzales. The shot went wild and Gonzales rushed his assailant. One swing of the knife and Valenzuella was dead. His body slumped down into a corner of the fence.

The body was found there by officers who were led to the scene of the murder by Gonzales. After the

173 Known to Have Died In Last 6 Days

Southern States Continue In Grip of Heat With Many Suffering

CHICAGO, July 14.—(UP)—Rainstorms and cooling breezes brought relief to the mid-west today after one of the worst heat waves of the century.

While the torrid wave that already had lasted a week continued Sunday in extreme southern states, temperatures in central and north central states showed decided drops and predictions today were the weather would remain about normal.

In Chicago, a drop of 36 degrees in 24 hours caused residents to complain that it was chilly and to get out their topcoats.

It was impossible to check accurately the amount of damage caused by the six day heat wave, but it was estimated it would run into hundreds of thousands of dollars. Growing crops in many sections were severely hurt and the loss in human life was great.

An unofficial tabulation showed at least 173 dead for the week from heat prostrations, and many others seriously ill. Scores of persons were drowned trying to escape the heat. St. Louis, where the temperature was above 100 for six consecutive days, reported 51 death.

Relief also came to western states, and at Denver the temperature dropped from 94 to 58 degrees in 36 hours. Heavy rains reduced the temperatures in almost all parts of the Rocky mountain region.

In southern states the weather continued intensely hot, but temperatures were a few degrees cooler than on preceding days. Some of the high temperatures reported Sunday were: Cairo, 102; Memphis, 102; Nashville, 100; Little Rock, 106; Atlanta, 100; Fort Worth, 106; Shreveport, 104; and Phoenix, 104.

HOOVER NARROWLY ESCAPES SMASHUP

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(UP)—President Hoover's tranquil week end at his Rapidan, Va., fishing lodge nearly was marred last night by what narrowly missed being a serious automobile accident.

As it was, a White House car driven by Lawrence Richey, one of the President's secretaries, was struck head on by an automobile driven by a Brooklyn, N. Y., woman, who apparently had lost control of her machine as it careened past the car bearing the president, into that driven by Ritchey.

No one was injured in the collision, which took place near Falls Church, Va., capital suburb, while the presidential party was motoring back from Rapidan.

CALVIN COOLIDGE DECLARES ECONOMIC PROGRESS AHEAD; UNCERTAINTY IS NOW PAST

By CALVIN COOLIDGE
Former President of the United States

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., July 14.—The economic progress, not only of our own country, but of the world at large, has been retarded by three factors of uncertainty, the German bond issue, the tariff revision and the long session of Congress. All of these have now been removed.

Business can stand anything better than uncertainty. A bad situation it can write off and then start anew, but when confronted by the unknown it can only remain inactive. The universal over-subscription to the German loan was most encouraging. It shows the financial world has confidence in the Young plan and in the credit stability of Germany. It was also a gratifying illustration of a broad desire to restore Germany, and on our part, of a continuing purpose to help Europe.

The worst and the best is now fairly well known about the tariff. The Congress will cease from troubling for a period of five months. International finance and domestic legislation have reached a more certain position. Certainty is the basis of business confidence.

M'DONALD, KEY WITNESS IN BILLINGS-MOONEY CASE, IS FREED TO COME TO COAST

BALTIMORE, Md., July 14.—(UP)—John McDonald, key-witness in the Mooney-Billings case, was released here today so that he may return to California to repudiate testimony which sent the two California labor leaders to jail in connection with the 1916 San Francisco bombing. He had been held since Friday night by police.

Release was upon motion of Herbert R. O'Connor, state's attorney, for Baltimore.

MacDonald, now broken in health, was released to the joint custody of his two lawyers, Charles Ruzelka and Hillary Gans, and Frank P. Walsh, who is representing the Mooney defense committee, by Judge Walter S. Dawkins in Baltimore circuit ccurt. MacDonald probably will not go west for a week or more, pending preparation of his case here by his attorneys.

MacDonald was released without any qualifications to his attorneys and Walsh. He left the courtroom in the company of Ruzelka and Gans.

Wire Givernor

His lawyers wired Governor Young of California, today asking him to set a date for a hearing in the case of Mooney whom Young recently refused to pardon; the governor indicated that if MacDonald were located, his statement might change the decision, and this started the nationwide search which found MacDonald last Friday night. A rehearing also will be sought before the California supreme court in the case of Warren K. Billings, who was recently denied a pardon by the court.

Both have been in jail for fourteen years, largely on the basis of MacDonald's testimony in the California trials that he saw them at the scene of the explosion with a satchel supposedly carrying dynamite. They were serving life sentences. MacDonald swore in an affidavit Saturday night that he

SAN FRANCISCO, July 14.—(UP)—The waning gasoline war manifested itself only by sporadic outbreaks today.

In the San Francisco bay region, all parties concerned had apparently arrived at armistice. Both major and independent companies were generally agreed, and 20-cent signs hung from most stations. A scattered few still offered fuel at 13 cents, but it was thought they would see the light before night.

"Tank wagon" prices, subject during the past weeks to wild fluctuation, were back at 16 cents a gallon.

Waiter Witness In Mooney Trial Will Come to Coast at Once

SAN FRANCISCO, July 14.—(UP)—John Macdonald, waiter witness in the Mooney-Billings preparedness day trials, will tell his story of repudiation after the August primary, it was announced here today in behalf of Governor C. C. Young.

Macdonald's story, that he gave false evidence when Billings and Mooney were convicted of the 1916 bombing outrage, in which 10 persons were killed, will be at an open hearing, before Governor Young and his advisory pardon board, the governor said.

Governor Young is a candidate for reelection and in the primary to be held August 26 will contest with Buron Fitts, Los Angeles district attorney, and Mayor James Rolph jr., San Francisco, for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

It is presumed that decision to delay the Macdonald hearing until after the primary is with a view of preventing the case from becoming an issue in the present campaign.

The Mooney-Billings case has been a matter of bitter controversy in California ever since conviction of the pair. Billings, tried first, was convicted in 1916 and sentenced to life at Folsom and Mooney, convicted in 1917, was sentenced to death but the sentence later was commuted to life imprisonment at San Quentin.

Although Governor Young did not mention the case in connection with his candidacy for a second term he was quoted as saying that the affair should be "kept out of politics."

So far in the campaign there has been no reference to either Thomas J. Mooney or Warren K. Billings.

In California the gubernatorial election means assurance of election and Governor Young's two opponents, Fitts and Rolph, have not declared what they would do should

BROTHER OF EX-SENATOR IS MURDERED

Shot Down By Real Estate Broker When He Steps From Witness Stand

ASSAILANT IS CAUGHT

After Killing Banker Slayer Throws Gun on Body and Waits For Arrest

LOS ANGELES, July 14.—(UP)—As a direct result of the $100,000,000 Julian Petroleum Corporation collapse, Mottley Flint, well-known Southern California financier and a brother of the late Frank Flint, former United States senator, was murdered in a courtroom here today.

Frank Keaton, Inglewood real estate dealer, arrested after he sent three bullets into Flint's body said losses sustained in the Julian crash in May, 1927, led him to the act.

The slaying took place in the courtroom of Superior Judge Frank Collier just after the banker had given testimony in a pending case.

Police arrested Frank D. Keaton, real estate broker, and charged him with the murder.

Flint was stepping from the witness stand, according to witnesses, when Keaton, in the second spectators row stood up, pointing a gun and shot Flint through the throat.

Dies Instantly

Flint died instantly.

Officers rushed to the courtroom and took Keaton into custody. Keaton offered no explanation nor any protest when he was arrested.

Judge Collier immediately took charge in the courtroom.

"Flint had just stepped down when I heard shots ring out," the jurist said, "I saw Flint fall and then this man Keaton) threw the gun on Flint's body."

After protesting that he had no intention of killing Flint and that he acted on an impulse Keaton admitted he had thought of slaying the banker for some time.

"Flint ruined me," Keaton said. "I put all my money in bank stock and it went down. I had four thousand shares.

Fire Three Bullets

"I thought of killing him some time ago but I didn't really expect to go through with it. I went to the court room and when he walked from the witness stand I thought I might as well let him have it. I stood up and shot him."

Keaton fired three bullets. One struck Flint in the throat and the

Inquest Ordered In Simmons Death

Coroner Charles D. Brown announced this afternoon that he had ordered an autopsy on the body of Carl Simmons, well known La Jolla man, who dropped dead at his home at Dowling street and Orangethorpe avenue, near La Jolla yesterday.

The body has been taken to the McAuley and Suters Funeral parlors at Fullerton.

Simmons was well known in the Placentia district, where he had lived for a number of years. He is the man who subdivided the La Jolla township, which was almost completely destroyed by fire several days ago.

Mercury Soars To 96 Degrees

Admittedly it was just a trifle warm today, but the temperature did not cause several suffering or men and women to drop over in the street, as has occurred in some of the middle west states where deaths have been numerous.

According to the Hill and Son thermometer, the temperature reached its highest point at 11:30, when the mercury ascended the scale to 96.

Two hours later, at 1:30 o'clock, it had dropped one degree and as the afternoon advanced the weather became cooler.

BODY IS FOUND BY BROTHER IN CLOSED GARAGE

An inquest was to be held this afternoon at the Winbigler Funeral home, to determine, if possible, cause for the death of Russell Gibson, 37, city employe, whose body was found Saturday night slumped over the steering wheel of his automobile, in the garage of his home at 2115 1-2 Orange avenue, by his brother, Keith Gibson.

That death was caused from inhalation of poisonous monoxide gas fumes, generated from the exhaust pipe of his automobile, was the verdict of Santa Ana police, who were called to the place, but members of the family were not satisfied that Gibson took his own life, as they know of no reason why he should desire to end his life, they reported.

Coroner Charles D. Brown announced he would hold an inquest at 2:30 o'clock.

Police reported that both doors to the garage were closed and that the windows on Gibson's machine were closed. The engine was not running when the body was found, but they were of the opinion that it had become flooded and died on its own accord. There was still gasoline in the tank.

The entire garage was covered with carbon soot, and Gibson had been dead for a number of hours when his brother made the discovery.

Coroner Brown was of the opinion that Gibson may have died as early as Friday night, he said, arriving at this theory from the condition of the body. Nothing was found about the man's effects that would indicate that he contemplated suicide, it was reported.

Gibson was well known here. He had been an employe of the street department of the city for the past number of years and also was well known as a night baseball player. He was a member of the American Legion team in the city league, and played third base. His last game was last Wednesday night.

No funeral arrangements have been completed.

had not seen either of the men at the place where the bombing occurred.

MacDonald was pronounced fit for the long journey by Dr. John J. Morrisey, coroner for the northern Baltimore district, who examined him. Morrisey recommended a rest, however, and MacDonald will go into seclusion until time to leave here.

The text of an affidavit made by John MacDonald in reference to the Thomas J. Mooney-Warren K. Billings case is as follows:

"John MacDonald, being duly sworn, deposes and says:

"At the present time I am a citizen and resident of Baltimore, Md. I live at 2417 Maryland avenue and I am employed as telephone operator and night watchman at the Roland Park Apartments. This is a large apartment house containing 72 apartments. I have been employed at this same place for the last six years. I have worked and lived under my true name all my life.

"I am the same John MacDonald who testified in the cases of Warren K. Billings, Thomas J. Mooney, Mrs. Rena Mooney and Israel Wineberg in San Francisco, California.

'Testimony Untrue

"In February, 1921, I was employed as a waiter in the Trenton House, in Trenton, N. J. My testimony in the four trials to the effect that I identified a man who laid a suitcase alongside the building about 20 feet from the corner of Market and Steuart streets and that I afterwards saw another man come out and speak to him was untrue. I did not and could not make any such identification.

"In February, 1921, after being worried for months about being responsible for two men passing their whole lives in prison, I concluded to make a clean, truthful statement of the affair. I talked to the proprietor of the hotel where I lived, in Trenton, N. J., and I talked to other friends and associates I had in Trenton at that time and told a number of them the facts. They advised me to notify the attorneys for Mooney and Billings.

"I went first to the office of Bourke Cockran, in the city of New York, who was a very prominent lawyer there at that time and who has since died. At that office we were directed to go to the office of Frank P. L. Welch in the Woolworth building in New York. They told me at Mr. Cockran's office that Mr. Cockran was sick and unable to attend to any business.

To Tell Truth

"I went to Mr. Walsh's office and told him I wanted to tell the truth and nothing but the truth about the Mooney case. I made a statement before a notary public and swore to it, giving all of the facts in connection with the case. I explained in that affidavit that I was induced to identify these men by Fickert and Goff in San Francisco.

"I testified in my affidavit, and it was the truth, that I did not and could not identify either Mooney or Billings, an dthat both of them were exhibited to me in their cells in the police station and they were called by their names when I was asked to make the identification. I was shown Mooney by Lieutenant Goff.

"When we got into the police station, Goff walked right up to the door of Mooney's cell. I had no recollection of ever having seen the man before and could not have identified him if Goff had not turned around to me and whispered, 'This is your man, this is Mooney,' and then he said in a louder voice, 'Mooney, here is a man who wants to take a look at you.'

"Didn't Know Him"

"I did not know Mooney at the time and never remembered having seen him before. Lieutenant Goff afterward took me to the door of Billings' cell. He asked the turnkey to open the door.

"He said, 'Come here Billings.' A young man came out and he had him walk up and down the corridor.

"I did not know Billings and did not remember having seen him before in my life and of course could not identify him if Lieutenant Goff had not brought me to the cell and told me who he was.

"When I went back to the Hall of Justice I did not even then say to Fickert that I identified these men, but Fickert said to me, 'Now these are the fellows you saw and they are the —— —— —— that I am going to put away!

"Then he said, 'We'll take good care of you, we'll pay all your hotel expenses and I will see the chief about getting you a little money once in a while.'

"I have today carefully read over the affidavid which I made in 1921. In order to make sure of every detail, I read it over several times, consuming a good deal of time in reading it. I read it over in the presence of Charles Rusicka and Hilary W. Gans, my Baltimore counsel, and Frank P. Walsh.

"Every word I said in that affidavit is true and I wish to stand by it. I have asked my attorneys to attach a copy of the affidavit I made in 1921 to this affidavit in order that I would not have to go into all details at this time.

"After I made the affidavit in 1921, I went to San Francisco for the purpose of giving a truthful account of the whole affair to the officials in San Francisco.

"I talked to District Attorney Brady in San Francisco and his assistant and a number of other people, including Fremont Older, the newspaperman. I went to the District Attorney and told him I was ready to go before the grand jury, which he said was then in session. I told him that I set out the truth in my affidavit and I would testify to it any place.

"Mr. Brady advised me not to give my testimony to the grand jury. I remained in California at that time for several weeks, when I returned to Baltimore, stopping part of one day in New York. I have been in Baltimore ever since, working and living under my own name.

"I have worked at the apartment house every single night since last August, until last night, on my way to work, a police officer came up to me on Thirty-sixth street, between Roland avenue and Hickory. He showed me my picture cut out of a paper and asked me if I was John MacDonald.

"I told him I was John MacDonald, and he asked me to come to the police station.

"When I got to the police station, I telephoned to the partment house and asked to have Mr. Charles Ruzicka come to the station house. Mr. Ruzicka is a prominent lawyer of Baltimore and has an apartment in the house where I work and has known me for the last six years. After Mr. Ruzicka came to the police station, he inquired as to the cause of my arrest.

Mr. William J. Martin was present when Mr. Ruzicka got there. Mr. Martin is the manager of the apartment house where I work. Mr. Martin got to the police station first and it was Mr. Martin whom I asked to call up Mr. Ruzicka. I had never talked to Mr. Ruzicka or Mr. Martin about this case and I had never talked about the case to any person since I left San Francisco in 1921.

"Mr. Ruzicka asked me what it was all about and I told him it was in connection with the false testimony which I gave in the Mooney and Billings cases in California. I told him in the presence of Mr. Martin that I wanted to tell the truth and Mr. Ruzicka told me in the presence of Mr. Martin that he wanted me to tell the truth and I told him that I would do that regardless of any personal consequence.

"I made a short statement, which was taken down in longhand by Mr. Ruzicka and signed by me and witnessed by Mr. Martin. I am attaching to this affidavit the original statement which I made, in the handwriting of Mr. Ruzicka. Mr. Ruzicka then took the statement and had it typewritten and I read it over and it was witnessed by a number of police officers who were present.

'To Right a Wrong'

"The state attorney of Baltimore City, Mr. O'Conor, asked me why I had testified as I did and then stated it was false. I told him the only reason in the world I had for doing it was to right a wrong I had done and that is the truth.

"I told Mr. Ruzicka he could wire the governor of California or any of the officers out there and say I would be willing to appear anywhere and tell the truth in regard to the case again, to undo the wrong done by sending two innocent men to prison.

"I told Mr. Ruzicka I had been worrying terribly about my part in this case for years and I could not sleep at night and I had gone off in my weight almost to a shadow and had been anxious for years to undo the wrong which I did these men through the influence of the officials in San Francisco, as I set out in my affidavit and told Mr. Ruzicka and others here.

"I am signing my name to a printed copy of the affidavit which I swore to in 1921, so that it may be read with this affidavit in all of its details and I say that every line contained in that affidavit is true.

other two hit him high in the chest.

The case in which Flint was testifying was that of David Selznick, film producer, seeking a quarter of a million dollars damages from a bank with which Flint formerly was associated.

Selznick claimed he had posted film stock as security for a loan but that the stock never had been returned to him. Flint testified he could not remember details of the quarter of a million dollar transaction.

Keaton stood about three feet from Flint's body, making no attempt to leave or to resist arrest.

Lost Bank Stock

Keaton said he was 56 and that his home was in Lnglewood. He said he was a former member of the Bible Institute.

"I just decided to do it a little while ago," Keaton said. "I've had that gun in my trunk for 35 years. I heard that Flint was to be in court and I came early and sat down in there.

"I suddenly decided to shoot him. I bought some bank stock from his old bank some time ago."

Flint was known as one of the most influential banking figures in Southern California. He recently was tried but acquitted on charges of having accepted usurious interest from the Julian Petroleum corporation.

Flint was born in Boston, Mass., in 1865 moving to San Francisco, where he received his early school education.

In 1896, Flint was appointed postmaster at Los Angeles and held that office until 1904, when he was elected president of the Metropolitan Bank and Trust company.

Later he served as executive vice president of the Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings bank and director of the Los Angeles First National bank.

He resigned his offices with the banks when the two firms consolidated under the name of Security-First National bank in April 1928.

Flint retired from public life in January, 1929, then he spent much of his time traveling about the United States and Europe. He returned here from Europe several years ago when he was indicted in the Julian case.

While he had had other dealings with Flint it really was his $4,600,000 loss in the Julian case which enraged him, officers quoted Keaton as having said.

The shooting threw the courtroom of Superior Judge Frank Collier into a turmoil. One woman fainted and two others became hysterical when Flint toppled and then fell to the floor dead.

Flint had just concluded testimony in a case before Judge Collier and was stepping from the witness stand when Keaton stood up, aimed a revolver at the banker and fired three times.

One bullet struck Flint in the jaw, a second hit him in the neck, and the third took effect high on the breast. Death was instantaneous.

A WORD OF COMFORT

In the final analysis it is because you know that God loves His children that you are absolutely certain that your dear one continues to live after having passed away from an earthly habitation. A God of love could not see the object of His love exterminated.

Furthermore, just because He loves, He is so unselfishly devoted to the well-being of His child that He would not preserve its life unless the days ahead were to be characterized by joy and blessedness. Therefore you know that your dear one is happy and going on from strength to strength.

RAIL REMOVAL PREREQUISITE TO AGREEMENT

The city council of Santa Ana never will consent to abandonment of the street car service between Santa Ana and Orange unless discontinuance of the rail connection also includes removal of the tracks on Main street, according to a declaration today by Frank L. Purinton, mayor.

The city councils of Santa Ana and Orange today were without official notice of the recent action of the railroad commission in granting the railway company permission to discontinue its service between the two municipalities, according to the clerks of the two cities.

The Santa Ana council meets tonight and the council at Orange tomorrow afternoon, and consideration of the abandonment program will not be taken up, unless it is done in an informal way on the basis of information of the action of the commission received some two weeks ago by the board of supervisors.

Notice to the supervisors included the information that the commission had granted the application of the Pacific Electric company for permission to discontinue the street car service on condition that approval be given by the councils of the two cities most directly concerned.

Purinton intimated that he and his colleagues on the local council would have no objection to the program if the railroad tracks were removed from Main street.

"We do not want the tracks to remain on the street and will oppose any effort made to discontinue the car service without removing the rails," the mayor said.

It is known that the railway company wants to maintain the line so that it may be used at night in the transportation of freight to and from Orange.

Announcement was made recently that the company's program is to substitute the car service with bus service between the two communities, with the bus fare reduced to six cents as against the car rate of 10 cents.

POLICE AT ORANGE JAIL RUDY GOETZ

Rudy Goetz, of Delhi, this afternoon was in the Orange jail, following his arrest this morning after a skirmish with Chief of Police B. H. Richards and Officer Pete Winslow. Goetz is charged with resisting an officer.

According to Chief Richards, Goetz resisted arrest after the officers had found a gallon jug of liquor in his car. In the struggle that followed Goetz broke the bottle, destroying the evidence, they said. The fight and arrest took place at Frank's barbecue at Orange.

CONSTRUCTION OF RIVER WEIR IS UNDER WAY

Announcement that construction has started on the weir across the Santa Ana river, direction of attention to the fact that flood control is claiming more attention than ever, stress on the necessity of a main distributing ditch and comment on the conservation problems that the association is attempting to solve, were features of the address of Francis Cuttle, president, at the annual meeting of the Water Conservation association held at the office of the association in Riverside.

Officers and directors were returned for the year, as follows: Francis Cuttle, president; D. S. Bell, Riverside, vice president; Mrs. C. J. Kettering, Riverside, secretary; R. D. Skelly of Riverside, H. H. Hlea, A. N. Saxon, W. W. Hoy, Orange county; J. C. Jones, J. W. Catick, George S. Hinkle, Riverside county, directors.

Highlights of the report by Cuttle follow:

"The diverting weir at the mouth of the upper Santa Ana river is now under construction. This weir is a part of a tentative system, on the Santa Ana river and tributaries, selected from the state engineer's report, which sys, tem, when completed, would cost in the neighborhood of $30,000,000. It is likely that the first heavy rains will bring the gravel to the top of the weir on the upper side.

"The rubble masonry in the weir ranges from 4 feet to 7 feet thick. Suitable intake works at the west end of the weir lead to a covered conduit 450 feet long, having a carrying capacity of 1000 second feet or 50,000 miners inches. This closed conduit empties into an open cement ditch 700 feet long to connect with an intake used at present to divert water direct from the river, or water can be diverted direct from the end of the closed conduit, back to the river, should it be necessary or desirable to do so.

"The most of the weir will be between $60,000 and $70,000. This is being met by the boards of supervisors of San Bernardino, Riverside and Orange counties and the Water Conservation association, each organization paying one-quarter of the cost.

"The construction of this weir is the first step in a comprehensive plan for the control of floods and the conservation of water on the Santa Ana river. While it will enable the association to save part of the water that is now being wasted into the ocean, it should be regarded as a beginning only, and a part of the comprehensive system when all of the system is completed.

"The weir itself will not desilt the water which it will divert into the spreading system. That can be done only by dams. This matter was called to the attention of the Hoover-Young commission by George S. Hinkley, W. W. Hoy and your president, who urged the necessity for the construction of dams on the Santa Ana river, as above outlined. Senator Ralph E. Swing is a member of the commission and is losing no opportunity to keep the claims of the Santa Ana river forcibly before the commission.

"Should a comprehensive program of water conservation and flood control be authorized by the next session of the legislature, the claims of the Santa Ana river, both in the upper regions, as well as near the ocean, should be included in any proposed legislation. Even if the comprehensive plan being worked out by the Hoover-Young commission is not put into effect by the next legislature, there may be another means of securing state and possibly federal aid for this necessary work.

"During the past year, ending June 30th, 1930, water supply and its maintenance and flood control are claiming the attention of the federal and state governments to a greater extent than ever before.

"Should actual construction of conservation work and flood control be delayed much longer, the results will be disastrous, not only to individuals and localities, but it will be reflected in reduction in both income and other taxes.

"It will be necessary to build a main distributing ditch from the point where the conduit, now being built under contract, would deliver the water to the intake of this association. It is likely that a nautral arroyo can be utilized to carry this water, in which case it will only be necessary to build concrete gates at each cross contour ditch to turn water into them and permit the balance to pass on down to the other contour ditches. Should there be heavy erosion or cutting on the steep grade of the aroyo selected, when the water is first turned into it, this will do no particular harm as there are plenty of large boulders to prevent too much cutting when the loose material is washed away.

"The association recently has had an aerial survey made of this area which will simplify and expedite the selection of the best route for the construction of this main distributing ditch.

"Water levels in artesian wells under observation by this association show a rise in pressure equal to 3.46 feet July 1st, 1930, above October 1st, 1929. Surface wells show a rise of 6.06 feet during the same period. The rainfall record for San Bernardino shows that it averaged about 3 inches below normal for the past three years but the year 1927 was above the average. As it takes about three years for water to travel through under ground strata from the base of the mountains to the wells under observation, it is likely that the slight rise in water levels noted is the result of the heavy rains of 1927 and the spreading of water during that season by this association.

"In this connection it is noted that 70,000 acre feet of water were lost into the ocean during the season of 1927. Had we had means of diverting and conserving this water there is little doubt that water conditions would be better in the locality under observation than they are now.

"The cash statement for the year ending June 30th, 1930, shows receipts and disbursements in excess of $16,000.00, with cash on hand of over $3,000. It will be noted that the Association has paid nearly $5000 on its part of the cost of the weir and the contract price is $59,679. The total cost including engineering and overhead will be considerably over $60,000. With the regular income of the association for the fiscal year beginning July 1st, 1930, plus cash on hand, there will be no difficulty in the association meeting its part of the cost of the weir and still have between $3000 and $4000 to expend on the proposed main supply ditch heretofore referred to."

'OUR DEBT TO THE DREAMER' SERMON TOPIC

"Our Debt to the Dreamer" was the subject of the sermon of the Rev. Walter S. Buchanan, pastor of the First Christian church, at the morning service yesterday. The pastor cited to his congregation many of the great inventors of the past who were laughed at when they advanced their "dreams," but whose efforts have resulted in the advance of civilization and the modern conveniences we enjoy today.

"Take the dreamer out of world history and who would care to read it?" the Rev. Mr. Buchanan asked. "Most of the things which made life worth living, which have emancipated man from drudgery and lifted him above commonness, we owe to our dreamers. Our great ocean liners, our marvelous tunnels, our magnificent bridges, our schools, hospitals, libraries and cosmopolitan cities with their vast facilities and comforts, are all the results of somebody's dreams.

"We hear a great deal of talk about the impracticality of dreamers, of people whose heads are among the stars, but where would civilization be today but for the dreamer? How many matter-of-fact unimaginative men, who see only through practical eyes, would it take to replace in civilization an Edison, Bell, or Marconi?

"Christ Himself was denounced as a dreamer, but His whole life was a prophecy, a dream of a coming man, a coming civilization. He saw beyond the deformed, weak, deficient man to the ideal man, the image of divinity. Christ dreamed of a day when all mankind would return unto God through Him, because He was willing to shed His blood on the cross for the redemption of mankind.

"There is nothing that hurts the heart of God so much as seeing His creatures drifting away from Him in sin. Let us as Christians become more like the great dreamers, and dream of a world that is free of sin, ruled over by Christ as the king of our souls and lives."

Masonic Temple Group Will Pass On Bids Tonight

In preparation for executing its program for construction of a new Masonic temple on the northeast corner of Fifth and Sycamore streets, the building committee of the Santa Ana Masonic Temple association, limited, will meet at the temple tonight to consider bids for erection of the structure.

Bids were opened in Long Beach Saturday at the office of Architect Austin, the competition bringing 16 offers by general contractors throughout the Southland.

It is anticipated that when the figures submitted are publicly revealed they will disclose that the keen competition in the building field resulted in offers much below the estimates made by the architect.

With a view to its colonization a government commission is exploring that part of New Guinea belonging to the Netherlands East Indies, to determine the type of agriculture to which it is best suited.

HUFF TO SERVE 5 COMMITTEES OF STATE FAIR

SACRAMENTO, July 14.—D. Eyman Huff, of Orange, today was appointed to serve on five important committees in connection with the California state fair, which will be held in Sacramento, August 30-September 7. The appointments, made by R. A. Condee, president of the exposition, place Huff on the following committees: agriculture and horticulture, livestock, junior division and vocational, dairy products and poultry. In addition, he has been named director in charge of track events during the fair.

D. Eyman Huff

Huff recently was appointed to the state fair board by Governor Young. He is one of the leading livestock men of the Pacific slope, and has exhibited at the state fair and other expositions for a number of years, winning many awards.

The state fair this year will have as its theme "Eighty Years of Progress," celebrating the 80th anniversary of California's admission into the Union.

BLOODGOOD TO RESUME SANTA ANA BUSINESS

Freeman H. Bloodgood, after three years of commuting to Los Angeles, has decided to resume the real estate business in Santa Ana.

He stated today that holding down a job in Los Angeles while living in Santa Ana so uses up the day and one's energy that practically all activities in civic and social affairs are largely curtailed.

Bloodgood came from Iowa to California 22 years ago, finishing a law course in U. S. C., but found real estate more attractive. Having been a state official for some eight years, he has had opportunity to size up the different portions of California, thus enabling him to feel confident that Santa Ana is the cream of the great Southwest.

He said, "I moved to Santa Ana in 1919. Since that time the population of Santa Ana has more than doubled. Santa Ana has about doubled in population every 10 years since 1890. I confidently predict that we shall have a city of 50,000 people by 1940. Just imagine what that means by way of employment, transfers and advance in real estate values!"

Bloodgood's work as deputy real estate commissioner during the past few years has taken him into Arizona, Nevada, Utah and all over California as inspector of farm lands and rural acreage subdivisions, and he stated that without question Orange county is the best county of its size in the Southwest, and that Santa Ana is the best county seat town in the world.

Bloodgood will be associated with Mel Trickey in real estate, insurance and real estate law, in the Abstract and Title Guarantee company building at Fifth and Main streets.

VANDALS FAIL TO BALK KLAN CONCLAVE HERE

The carefully laid plans of vandals or an enemy faction went for naught in an attempt to frustrate the concluding session of the annual state Ku Klux Klan "Klorero" or convention Saturday night at the county fair grounds. That determined efforts had been made to balk the proceedings was best evidenced by the fact that wires connecting the park lighting system were mysteriously several, apparently by lurking marauders.

Illuminated by five picturesque electric crosses, the grounds, without any other lighting save that provided by an inquisitive moon and twinkling stars, resembled a weird setting worthy of the imaginative mind of a Dickens, as 10,000 klansmen, their families and curious spectators milled their way into the gloomy enclosure. Desperate, last minute efforts were made to locate the cause of the trouble and when this measure failed, automobile owners were requested to drive their machines into the park and form a semi-circle of light around the ceremonial plaza.

With this improvised lighting plant, a colorful program, elaborate in every detail, was unfolded. Visitors, who never before had witnessed such a sight, sat with muscles tensed, eyes alert, lest they miss some feature of the unforgettable extravaganza. The mammoth grandstand was virtually packed, with standing room a nonenity, when the women's pageant team of California, gayly bedecked in the symbolic robes of the organization, marched onto the field. The opening presentation offered a diverting interpretation of the "Seven Symbols of Klancraft."

To add to the beauty of the pageant, at an appointed time, an illuminated airplane, with the traditional flaming cross plainly visible, swooped out of the skies like some stronge invader from another world, flying at a low range within 50 feet of the ground. During the entire program, the aerial visitor played overhead, performing intricate stunts.

With Klan officials from every part of the state, including T. S. Moodie, of Los Angeles, imperial grand dragon, looking on, the annual outdoor naturalization or initiation of nearly 250 pledges was next presented. This part of the program was conducted by the Los Angeles Klan No. 1. Inasmuch as is was impossible to administer the rites to the entire class, a representative group of 20 was drafted for the occasion. In unison, although not audible in the grandstand, the vows of the order were depeated and allegiance sworn to the national order of Ku Klux Klan.

As a contrast, a musical program and accompanying drill was given by the Los Angeles drum and bugle corps. Popular band numbers interspersed with bits of modern jazz, constituted a pleasing departure from the usual type of concert.

The address of the evening was delivered by the Rev. Bruce Brown, of Los Angeles, pastor of Southpark Christian church. The speaker chose as his subject, "Our Friends and Our Foes," which was a complete analysis of the manner in which the klan has come to be regarded in this country.

"The Ku Klux Klan is gradually finding favor in every section of the United States. People now realize that the unfavorable publicity long accorded the organization, for the most part, was without foundation," he said.

The Rev. Mr. Brown did not confine his remarks entirely to the klan. He stressed the importance of national warfare against gangsters and their ilk and stated that the co-operation and support of the people was essential if organized crime is to be wiped out. Reverting to the prominent part the newspapers play in bringing before the public the actual facts surrounding existing conditions, the speaker declared:

"The American press occupies a responsible niche in the affairs of the people. Constant urging on the part of this medium will tend to bring about a growing knowledge and awakening to the need of rigid law enforcement."

In a forceful style, the Rev. Mr. Brown stressed the importance of intelligent voting in the forthcoming election. He concluded by saying:

"It is the duty of the people to elect to office those when who, by their natural qualifications and past records, are best fitted for the respective duties entailed. It is not enough to elect these men to office, it is imperative that the people as a whole stand behind the men of their choice." The Rev. Mr. Brown's address brought the convention to a close.

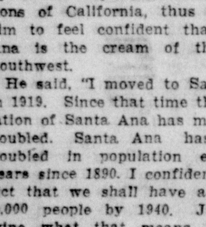

Saturday morning, the convention business was transacted in the Knights of Pythias hall, Fifth and Broadway. This formally marked the opening of the annual Klorero and all morning, incoming delegates were officially welcomed and registered. At noon, a recess was declared and a special luncheon held for visiting officials. At 2:30 p. m. a general session was called. At the conclusion of a business discussion, in which favorable detailed reports for the year were heard, an open forum on the state political campaign was held.

While the Ku Klux Klan is reputedly a non-partisan organization it was indicated that the support of the group would be accorded the Young-for-Governor platform. No direct endorsement was made at this time, the general consensus of opinion seeming to indicate that in view of the prosperous and satisfactory record of the present administration a change might work to the disadvantage of California's citizenry.

Next year's convention will be held at Visalia, Calif.

Edison School

A pep meeting was held recently to send off the representative to the city domino contest. A brief program in charge of Dona Endress was presented. The program was led by two charmingly sung numbers by the tiny two year old, Miss Phyllis Jones, followed by two readings given by Miss Darleen White, who is five years old. Those numbers were followed by cheers for Gus McCeustion, Chas. Maxwell, Etla Lounsbury and Blanche McCeustion, representatives to the domino contest. The senior girls team was then introduced. The assembly ended with a rousing yell for the Edison gang.

An assembly also was held to elect the highway safety committee and to award badges to the successful candidates. John Birt was elected captain of the safety squad, while Billy Musick, Selma Allrid and Doris Hossfield were elected his helpers.

The senior boys played a schedule indoor baseball game with Lincoln and lost by a close margin. They also played a practice game with Lathrop which they won after gaining a lead in the fifth inning. The senior girls played a game with Roosevelt and lost.

Recently a group of youngsters had by Etta Launsbury and Irene Wycoff presented us with a humorous skit prepared entirely by themselves.

The miniature golf course at the Edison grounds, which is in the making is progressing rapidly, eight holes having been completed. The boys are working out some clever ideas and are out to win the picnic promised the group of boys who succeed in building the best course in the city by next Thursday.

The attendance at the Edison playground reached a peak of 125 in attendance for the week.

Fremont School

Lowell School

We are making waste paper baskets. We make them out of cardboard and raffia. First we take cardboard and draw the design, then we color the design, and then lace the sides of the basket with raffia. Nancy Morris was the first to finish a basket. We get 25 points for making them.

ELEANOR HENRY.

The Lowell playground is getting up the girls' indoor tea.m. Colleen Block and Beryl Bates are the captains of the two sides. Every day we are going to practice from 3:30 to 4:30 p. m.

BERYL BATES.

During the first week of the playgrounds the children made curtain pulls. They had to braid the raffia, then they put beads and spools on them. You may pull curtains or electric lights with them.

Spurgeon School

The system of points was explained by Miss Robertson. The rest of the week was spent by working in clay, and playing indoor or croquet. The boys are organizing a team to play some other playground.

Roosevelt School

Thursday was the banner day in attendance for Roosevelt. There was a total enrollment of 125, a day's attendance of 74, 9 adult visitors, and 11 tournament visitors.

The domino tournament was as exciting for onlookers as participants. Many held their breath as a player decided on whether to put the 5-2 player on the 5 end of the two. Some individual high plays were made, followed by zero plays until the game of chance presented more chance than game. The report of winnings was as follows:

Junior High School Girls

L. W. Archer took pictures of the winners for the playground scrap book. The films are furnished by the Sam Stein Stationery store. Children may receive copies of their own pictures from the store for a nominal sum.

Points gained toward the 250 necessary for certificate are as follows:

Lloyd Race, 260, silver certificate; Mae Meall, 220; Irva Watters, 185; Bruce Harnois, 135; Teddy Knowlton, 120; George Dorsey, 115; Raul Gonzoles, 110; Milton Crawford, 95; Eugene Lopez, 95; Kenneth Warren, 80; Mamie Iley, 80; James Watters, 80; Ralph Barnes, 75; Pierino Lovera, 75; Louise Crawford, 60; William Mermen, 55; Jessie Marroquin, 55; Gilbert Gonzales, 50! Priscilla Iley, 50, and Agnes Iley, 50.

The playground has been the scene of some racing by the small boys on hobby horses made by themselves with coping saws and scraps of lumber. Ralph Barnes, Teddy Knowlton and Robert Young have made the best ones so far.

Safe and sane Fourth of July playthings gave some fine results. Made of weighted paper the parachutes, spirals, torpedoes, and showers were colorful and joyous playthings and each child had his own to take home.

The miniature golf course being built under Merle Ewell's direction is progressing splendidly. Coffee cans, broken stove pipes, sewer pipes, and scrap lumber are proving good material in the hands of the boys.

Large Attendance At Second Union Church Service

SUNDAY SERMON PRESENTED BY REV. F. MINCK

ORANGE, July 14.—A large attendance marked the second of the series of union church services in this city at the First Christian church last night when the Rev. Franklin H. Minck preached a sermon which was both inspiring and interesting from the subject "Going to Church With Christ After Pentecost."

The Rev. Minck said in part: "On Monday it is a common phrase to say, "we went to church with so and so yesterday." In the same sense, I want to talk about "Going to Church With Christ."

Why Go To Church

As we go back to the New Testament times we find the real reason why we should go to church. Jesus went to the Jewish synagogue because he wanted to unite with others in the worship of His Father. He did this even though the service was conducted with only a partial understanding of God, yet it ministered to his spiritual life. After the death of Jesus and after Pentecost, we find his disciples still going to church with him although he was in the spirit rather than the flesh. We often find Paul in a synagogue and Acts 20:7 tells of the usual meeting on the first day of the week. In every case Paul preached, but he went to worship first and then to preach. We pastors come to church at 11 o'clock rather than waiting until time to preach because we wish to worship first. If we didn't we wouldn't be fit to preach.

Christ Becomes Real

"As we worship in church we find that Christ becomes real to us in our own experience. The Jesus of creeds is slightly important, the Jesus of history is very important as the foundation of our religion, but the Christ of experience is extremely important. Without Christ in us, we have not passed our Pentecost, and we have no Christian joy in this life nor any hope of life eternal with God.

"The runner trains for the 100 yard dash which is the test of his preparation. The Christian prepares for his tests of hard duties, long illness, sorrow, or defeat. The Christian training is found primarily in his public worship at church. The runner and the Christian who fails to train will fail when he meets his test. But the runner's preparation also makes him physically fit for every day of his life. The Christian's preparation not only prepares him for the tests of life, but also for every day of his life.

Does Not Care

"The man who stays home from church when he is able and free to go is saying to himself, the world, and God that he does not care enough about building a Christian character to go to the training school. Roosevelt said, "Yes, I know all the excuses. I know that one can worship the Creator out of doors just as well as in church. But the average man does not thus worship." Therefore let us go to church with Christ to worship His Father, our God."

MUCH ACTIVITY IN OIL FIELD AT BEACH CITY

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 14.—Standard Oil is starting a well on the Jones lease in the old field. It will be Jones Community No. 6. The Jones lease is probably the apex of the Huntington Beach old field. It has been one of the most valuable leases in the field and for its size, probably the most productive. W. I. Jones and Harry Anderson are the largest royalty owners, with Jones holding a two-thirds interest in the royalty. Wells on this lease have been flowing for seven years.

The lease is located on Garfield street near Cypress drive. The lease requirements are said to have been completed with five wells and for this reason the drilling of a sixth well is significant. It is certain Standard does not need the oil, and the kind of equipment installed will be watched with interest.

It is an established fact that Standard is making a deep test at Newport on the Irvine ranch in the east arm of the bay. Standard has the heaviest and newest equipment on this project ever installed at a California well. There is a string of eight-inch drill pipe and the well is being cored apparently all the way. According to a count of the drill pipe taken last week, the hole is now below 1000 feet in depth, probably about 1200. A 22-inch hole is being carried down thus far. This is the biggest hole ever drilled that deep in Orange county.

This well if it develops deep oil, and deep oil is developed at Huntington Beach, will give a prospective oil value to the entire area between Huntington Beach and the east arm of Newport Bay, which would include a portion, if not all of Costa Mesa. Deep sand proven profitably productive here and at Newport bay, would add an area seven miles long by a mile wide to Orange county's area.

The Barnsdall Newland-Borchard is coring below 6700 and still in oil formation, sand and shale, with the last few cores showing some excellent sand with plenty of saturation. The Barnsdall operating department does not think there issufficient sand, saturation or gas to warrant setting casing for a production test as yet, but are confident the well is going to make a producer.

The four or five wells drilling in the town lot zone are all making hole, with McCasland on the old Crail well at Twentieth and Olive, the only one deep enough to be interesting. McCasland is drilling below 5000 feet with no oil showing reported. The other drillers and redrill jobs in the West End town lot have not attained depth below 2000 feet.

Lovely Party Held For Bride-elect Of Garden Grove

ORANGE, July 14.—A lovely affair of the week was the shower and evening party given here the latter part of the week when Miss Alice Campbell and James D. White, who are to be married this evening, were the honor guests and Miss Neva Ward and Miss Wilma Ward were hostesses. The event took place at the Wade home on East Palmrya avenue. Miss Campbell is the secretary of the Appling agency, Santa Ana, and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Campbell of Garden Grove.

Present Musical Program

The evening was spent at games and a musical program was presented. An unique feature of the affair was the appearance of a tiny bride and bridegroom, Little Marietta Weethee and cunning Melva Burk. Marietta was the cunning bride and Melva Burk was the debonaire bridegroom. Miss Campbell was presented with a basket of lovely gifts for the new home which is to be established in this city at 228 South Lemon street. Tiny Burk in a charmingly original costume, was the only attendant and made the presentation.

Guests included Miss Ruby Warwick, Mr. and Mrs. John Dame, the Rev. and Mrs. S. M. Eidsath, Mrs. Vonnie Burk, and small daughters, Melva and Tiny; Leonard Waite, George Skiles, Mrs. W. R. Whittaker, Mrs. S. P. Kane, Mrs. J. M. Frieden, Miss Hazel Frieden, and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Corcoran of Orange.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Pentecost, Miss Lucy Ward, Mr. and Mrs. George Epps, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Campbell and Miss Helen Campbell of Garden Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Dame of Anaheim; George Campbell of Placentia; Clarence Campbell of Los Angeles; Lola, Marietta and Maxine Weethee, of Santa Ana; John Ward and Elmer Ward of Orange.

The bride-elect was the incentive for a prettily appointed kitchen shower given July 1 by Miss Hazel Frieden of 164 Sout hBatavia street.

Bidden in her honor were Miss Neva Ward, Mrs. Olive Eidsath, Mrs. Mina Kenworthy, Mrs. Dorothea Pentecost, Mrs. Bethel Frieden, Mrs. Ollie Dame, Mrs. Effie Dame, Mrs. Charles Townsend, Miss Helen Campbell, Mrs. Mabel Campbell, Mrs. Clarice Corcoran and Mrs. J. M. Frieden.

The ore of aluminum is cheap enough, for it is only clay. But the amount of current needed to make one ton of the metal in an electric furnace is 30,000 units, or 40 times as much as is required for making a ton of steel.

MISSIONARY OF CHINA EXPLAINS FOREIGN LIFE

ORANGE, July 14.—A vivid picture of the conditions in China which she will encounter on her return to that country next month, was painted yesterday morning by Miss Ellen Suffern, missionary to China, at the First Methodist church. Miss Suffern, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Suffern, 636 East Collins avenue, has been home on a furlough for the past year.

The speaker asked for the prayers of those at home while she is on the firing line, as a help in solving the many problems which will come to her in the Orient which at present is rife with unsettled conditions. The interest of those at home form an equipment for missionaries at the battle front, Miss Suffern declared.

Tells of Young People

As the speaker proceeded with her talk, listeners were told of the eager ranks of young people, all anxious for an education and release from conditions which persisted in that country for thousands of years. The adaptability of the young people of China, their readiness to accept new methods and the great effort which is often necessary for them to make to attend school, were told by Miss Suffern in a most interesting way.

The territories for mission work in the foreign field do not overlap—a field is given to a church and they work in that field leaving the adjourning territory to the next mission, Miss Suffern revealed.

Many Soldiers and Bandits

The country is overrun with soldiers and bandits. Property rights are uncertain. Not long ago a group of Christians found themselves without a church to meet in. They went to an adjoining hill and carried 1400 pieces of stones for the construction of a church building. The non-Christians became interested in the building and gave 200 days of labor. These 25 church members worked over a year—390 days—to construct the church just one day's journey in a sedan chair from the ocean front, the speaker said.

The native Christians meet the brunt of the conflicts, with the missionaries standing behind them for moral support, declared Miss Suffern. Fall conferences in China will be held when the four bishops, located in that country, can arrange them. There can be no definite time set as so many unexpected problems come up at all times, the missionary pointed out.

Missionaries Needed

During the coming year 127 missionaries are needed in the field with which she is familiar, Miss Suffern declared, and but only 27 are being sent out.

Miss Suffern has spoken at a number of outstanding missionary events since her arrival here last year, and on a number of occasions she has exhibited numerous articles and pieces of wearing apparel from the district where she teaches in a girls' high school.

IRVINE

Friends of Oscar Patmor, of Alhambra, will be sorry to hear that he received painful injuries, when a pump being installed fell on his feet. He will be in the hospital for several weeks with casts on them. His parents Mr. and Mrs. Walter Patmor, of Trabuca Road, visited him at the hospital this week.

Claude Parkham is driving a new sedan, purchased in Santa Ana the past week.

Rev. Schmoock To Preach For Rev. Loretz

ORANGE, July 14.—The Rev. William Schmoock, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran church, of Santa Ana, will occupy the pulpit of the Rev. Walter Loretz at the Immanuel Lutheran church of Orange during the absence of the latter.

The Rev. Mr. Loretz and family will enjoy a three weeks' vacation, which began today.

Pastor To Attend Oregon Meetings

The Rev. U. E. Harding, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, is leaving this week for Portland, Ore., where he will attend the Columbia river camp meeting. This session is an annual affair for the north Pacific districts of the Nazarene church, and the Rev. Mr. Harding has been called as one of the workers at this meeting. He will be a member of the camp staff.

During his absence the work in the Santa Ana church will be under the guidance of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Meyers. The Rev. Mr. Harding will return to Santa Ana about the first of August, as the camp, opens on the 17th, is scheduled to close on the 27th.

NEWPORT BEACH

NEWPORT BEACH, July 14.—Forty guests enjoyed the hospitality of the Newport Beach Yacht club at the second luncheon and card party of the summer season held Friday afternoon.

Dinner was served in the spacious dining room at noon, after which all assembled on the deck and contract and auction bridge were played.

Mrs. E. J. Cheesewright won high score in contract, and Mrs. Martha Smith in auction bridge.

The following hostesses were present: Mrs. Caroline Heseman, Mrs. Robert E. Rodgers, Mrs. D. F. Axelson, Mrs. James M. Webster, Mrs. Edgar J. Cheesewright, and Mrs. Walter Hubbard.

Friday night, a group of 35 members of the Southern California Yachting association held their monthly meeting and dinner at the Yacht club dining room.

GOD'S STANDARD SERMON TOPIC OF REV. LORETZ

ORANGE, July 14.—Taking as his text Luke 6, 36 to 42, the Rev. Walter Loretz, pastor of the Immanuel Lutheran church used as the theme of his sermon yesterday "God's Standard; with the same measure that ye mete withal it shall be measured to you again."

In introducing his subject, the pastor said, "The text is a mighty exhortation of Christ to be merciful. It is directed to His followers, the Christians, who have experienced and tasted the mercy of God in the Savior and, therefore, 'also should walk in newness of life,' as Jesus says in the text: 'Be ye therefore merciful, as your Father also is merciful. 'This exhortation receives even greater force when considered in the light of the standard set up by Christ in the text: 'For with the same measure that ye mete withal it shall he measured to you again.'

In developing his theme the pastor said in part: "This standard of God is based upon His immutable and incontrovertible righteousness. Many persons entertain the idea that God is not much concerned about their actions and their dealings with their fellowmen, but the Lord looketh from heaven; He beholdeth all the sons of men; He considereth all their works. He takes note of the standard wherewith we measure and deals in like manner with us. God is not a respecter of persons, He rewards those that do good, He punishes the evil-doer; and all this He does commensurate with their own deeds.

"God is not prompted to deal with man according to His standard by any secret ambition, nor along the lines of any hidden counsel. He has clearly revealed the method of operation in His holy Word, so that every one who reads and studies this Word will know at once what his words and deeds will bring unto him. The experiences of thousands of people, good and bad, pious and ungoldly, are the mute, but obvious evidence of Christ's earnest determination when He said: 'With the same measure that ye mete withal it shall be measured to you again.' And herein, as with respect to all declarations of God, be ye not deceived, 'for God is not mocked, whatsoever a man soweth that he shall also reap.'

"The knowledge of this standard of God should urge us all to sincere repentance. How often do we not lose sight of this standard; how unmerciful are we not at times in our thoughts and words of, and in our dealings with our fellowmen: Woe unto us, if God deals with us according to our transgressions and metes unto us with the same measure as we have dealt with others! Let us in this respect walk in newness of life in the future. We surely are desirous of being the recipients of the mercy of God in Jesus Christ, the Savior, let us then be merciful, even as our Father which is in heaven is merciful unto us."

PICK WRAPPERS FOR NEW BRAND OF VALENCIAS

ORANGE, July 14.—Wrappers for the Orco brand of oranges, an exclusive output of valencia oranges from Orange county, will be chosen soon from three wrappers submitted at a recent meeting of the plant managers of this vicinity at the Orange county Fruit Exchange offices.

The fruit is to be advertised as an exclusive product of this county and the wrappers are to be lettered with the motto, "Eating Quality Uniformly Good."

Present plans for marketing the fruit call for placing a display card in each box of the brand shipped. It is planned to make the card very attractive and on it will be printed the information that the fruit is a product of Orange county, Calif.

The uniformity of the grades of fruit marketed under the Sunkist brand was demonstrated in a unique way. Tests had been made from fruit from the various packing plants, the plant managers not having been informed of the procedure. The process is a sort of annual checkup on the uniform quality of this brand as packed by the various packing plants.

After a discussion by the plant managers of the oranges displayed the fruit was identified as the output of the various packing houses from which it was selected. Tests showed that little difference could be found in the fruit.

TWO PROJECTS CONSIDERED BY ORANGE PEOPLE

ORANGE, July 14.—Two important projects are to come before the Orange Community Chamber of Commerce at a meeting scheduled for Thursday afternoon, the proposed opening of South Glassell street through to Grand avenue, Santa Ana, and a plan for placing ornamental lights from the Santa Ana boulevard along West Chapman avenue to Main street.

The meeting has been called by H. D. Nichols, president of the chamber and it is expected to be one of the most important of the year.

A study of a way to finance the placing of the lights is being made, as a difficulty is presented in the fact that ranchers living on the north side of West Chapman avenue are in unincorporated territory while those on the south side are in incorporated territory. It is also desired, it is said, to finance the lighting system in such a way that the expense will not be a burden on the ranchers who are living on a strip recently annexed to Orange.

Will Attract Motorists

It is expected that the new lighting system will provide a brilliantly lighted entrance to the city, which it has been pointed out, will be needed more than ever before as the new Santa Ana boulevard is to have an ornamental lighting system. The lighted entrance to Santa Ana would naturally attract southbound traffic through that city, it is said.

The opening of South Glassell street from Fairhaven avenue to Grand street, Santa Ana, has been under consideration for a number of years. The plan has the approval of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce and of the Santa Ana city council, it is undersood, as the proposed opening would provide an eastern outlet to that city as well as a western outlet to Orange.

THE KING AND HIS SERVANT

STARS HAVE TWO HOME GAMES

M'CREERY, FORMER STANFORD CAPTAIN, FIGHTS PROFESSOR ON CORNER LOT GOLF COURSE

PALO ALTO, Cal., July 14.—(INS)—Bobby Jones won the U. S. open golf title. Who won a rough and tumble "golf" match on a lilliputian course here between Prof. A. N. Goudin of the University of Montana faculty and Harold McCreery, former Stanford university football captain, was to be determined today in police court.

Prof. Goudin and Capt. McCreery filed assault and battery complaints against one another following what was reported to have been a lively encounter on the eighteenth hole of a miniature golf course here.

Ambulances removed Goudin and McCreery to a hospital, while golf course attendants removed pieces of midirons, mashies, drivers and other clubs originally intended for players to use on the course.

McCreery suffered a severe scalp wound while the professor has a sprained shoulder and numerous cuts and bruises.

Each denied starting the fight. Police objected to the brutality of corner lot golf as played in Palo Alto and halted the game as spectators cheered. Goudin is here as a Stanford summer term professor.

GALLANT FOX AFTER ALL-AGE TITLE NOW

CHICAGO, July 14.—Gallant Fox, under the direction of Jockey Earl Sande, began training today for competition in the $25,000 added Arlington part course cup in which "The Fox" will attempt Saturday to win the all-age turf championship in 1930.

It will be the first time that Gallant Fox has run against older horses and a victory would add materially to the three-year-old honors he has won this season. Among the older opponents will be Blue Larkspur, champion three-year-old last year; Misstep, The Nut, and Toro.

Gallant Knight and Ned O, which finished second and third to Gallant Fox on the $70,000 Arlington classic last Saturday, will be among the three-year-old opponents.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

by WILLIAM BRAUCHER

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Out of 275 starts, Young Stribling has lost two on fouls and won two and never has been knocked out . . . but of course he has done a lot of dancing, clinching and all that in the ring, too, which doesn't appear on the record . . . some of his friends blame the careful tactics of Pa and Ma for Willie's failure to fight on several occasions. . . . Willie minds 'em very well indeed. . . . California, Australia, Massachusetts, New York, Texas, Canada, Kansas and Colorado have had heavyweight champions, but Georgia hasn't clicked as yet. . . . Strib has knocked out 122 bozoes . . . and about 100 of those were gents propped up in the sticks . . . a fan, somewhat the worse for his needled beer, came out in front of the dugout at Sportsmen's Park, St. Louis, the other day, and announced he intended to bat for "Goose" Goslin.

LET'S HAVE A CONTEST!

Boxing commissions, as a rule, are fairly dumb, but they have no exclusive monopoly on the privilege of being unintelligent. In any sort of stupidity contest, the master-minders of the lawn tennis business would run them a pretty race for first prize.

The other day I was talking with a magazine editor who had arranged for a series of articles by a woman members of the United States tennis team at Wimbledon. He had just received a cablegram from the player, stating that "a new ruling had been made stating that no member of an official team may write or give interviews while a member of that team." The penalty for breach of the ruling, the star wrote, would be removal from the team.

This probably is the last word in something or other, but we can't determine just what it is. But that isn't all.

WELL, THEN, HOW'S THIS?

This same player previously had written an article for the magazine, giving her impressions of Helen Wills Moody. In the caption over the article, the editor had referred to the rank of the writer, her official ranking by the United States Lawn Tennis association. But it seems that wouldn't do. Editors are not supposed to inform their readers in headlines the ranking of the writer, the tennis master-minds solemnly averred.

And if that isn't the last word in something or other, maybe some boxing commission will oblige with some quaint asininity. A contest between the bosses of boobism would be a hilarous mid-summer diversion.

THE COLONEL IS BULLISH

You have to hand it to Colonel Jacob Ruppert, buyer for the big New York baseball department store known as the Yankees. The colonel's bullish enthusiasm hasn't been equalled in this day and age by any other magnate in either major circuit.

GREAT ATLANTA GOLFER IS IN CLASS BY SELF

By DAVIS J. WALSH
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 14.—In the cold, sane light of a new day, some 30 hours after the denouement surrounding the close of the national open championship, there would seem to be nothing to it this morning but to admit that golf is likely to know no lasting competitive equality for at least five years, unless Bobby Jones retires out of sheer boredom.

Golf was intended to make all men humble; but all it apparently has succeeded in doing is to make one man exalted.

At this belated hour Jones, the perennial champion, had left town and the scene of his greatest triumphs Saturday. But this was about all he did leave. He took everything and everybody in his second consecutive open championship with his 287 for 72 holes at Interlachen and the feeling now is that he will continue to do much the same until the game knows him no more.

68 Made Victory Possible

The victory, made possible by a stunning 68 in the third round Saturday morning while most and, in fact, nearly all of the professionals were cracking wide apart, simply added another pearl to the competitive necklace he is assembling this year.

He won the British amateur at St. Andrews. He won the British open at Haylake. Then he came back here and won the American open.

So the tendency is to concede him the fourth championship of the year, the national open at Merion in September and I can see nothing illogical about the concession in question. In fact, if you don't concede it he is liable to go out and take it anyhow. So why be headstrong in the face of the inevitable?

Jones wants the four championships because the performance would savor of conquesting the impossible and he has been doing this so long that it has become something of a fixed habit.

He Looks Like Winner

Anyhow, barring the unforeseen, he probably will get what he wants this time since he now is greater than ever, while it is admitted that those who could take issue with him in amateur golf are becoming fewer and funnier, even as it is with the professionals.

It is more than significant of Jones' monopoly here that only three amateurs—Jamieson in the 1926 British event, George Von Elm in the American final of the same year and Johnny Goodman last September—have been good enough or lucky even, as the case may be, to beat Jones.

The amateur field, at that, is stronger than ever today. It simply isn't strong enough to compete successfully against the supernatural Harrison Johnston, the current champion, is one of the few who has a real chance against Jones any time he starts. But this chance always must be predicated on the hope that Jones will not be at the pinnacle as he enters any given match and so will be merely a great golfer, instead of an unbeatable one.

It is this that also will give Tolley, Von Elm, Moe, Willing, Sweetser, Voigt, McCarthy, Perkins, Goodman and others that 1 to 2 chance against Jones at Merion. If it isn't so, I'm afraid this chance might become more like 1 to 10.

ATLANTA TAKES HOLIDAY TO WELCOME BOBBY HOME

ATLANTA, July 14.—A holiday was observed here today in honor of Bobby Jones' return from his victorious golf campaign.

Wheels of government, industry and commerce ground to a stop to permit thousands to participate in a general public tribute, probably unexcelled in the history of Dixie.

A parade of 20 sections—comprising hundreds on hundreds of Jones fans—awaited the marshall's signal to sweep through Atlanta's streets at noon.

Hundreds of factory whistles, horns, sirens, were oiled up to generate a general municipal bedlam of 10 minutes duration at the start of the parade.

An hour before the train speeding Bobby homeward from Interlachen reaches Atlanta, a fleet of airplanes will fly northward to form an aerial escort into town.

At a point several miles out Jones will transfer into an automobile and proceed to the head of the waiting parade, then proceed in triumph to city hall for an official welcome from Mayor I. N. Ragsdale.

Official nature of the welcome was supplied by act of city council making today a municipal holiday.

MATCH DADO, WOLGAST

PHILADELPHIA REGAINS LEAD IN FLAG RACE

NEW YORK, July 14.—The world champion Philadelphia Athletics were back at the head of the pack in the American League race today, holding a .005 point advantage over Washington in the percentages.

Connie Mack's club took the lead when they annexed their second straight game from the St. Louis Browns, 12-1, yesterday, collecting 17 hits off Coffman and Holshaser.

Detroit made Philadelphia's entry into first place possible by defeating Washington, 5 to 4. Vic Sorrell's single in the eighth inning drove home Mark Koenig with the deciding run.

Brooklyn enjoyed a 21-/2 game lead over the Chicago Cubs in the National league today, despite the fact that the Robins lost a heartrending game to Pittsburgh, 1-0. "Jupmbo" Elliott held the Pirates to four hits. The Robins made nine hits off Larry French, Pirates' southpaw, but could not score.

The Chicago Cubs received a severe setback at the hands of the Boston Braves, losing a double header, 2-1 and 3-0. Harry Seibold blanked the Cubs until the ninth inning of the first game.

In the second game, the Cubs were leading, 4 to 3, in their half of the ninth. The Braves came to bat with only five minutes to play before 6 p. m. after which time baseball is forbidden in Boston. The game was called before the inning ended and the score reverted to the eighth inning, when the Braves were leading.

FIRST HALF OF P. C. L. IS COMPLETED

SAN FRANCISCO, July 14.—The first half of the season of the Pacific Coast league was over today with Los Angeles holder of first place.

Hollywood was in second position though there still remains a possibility of third-place Sacramento sharing that honor with the Sheiks, one postponed game remaining unplayed. San Francisco and Oakland were tied for fourth.

MORGAN, HARE WIN SKEET CLUB SHOOTS

It has been taking 24 and even 25 to win recent shoots at the Santa Ana Skeet club but there was a slight letdown yesterday and Mel Morgan, with 21 breaks, coasted home ahead of the field.

Herb Carter, Allen Mandy, and Carl Kumpe, with 20, were next to the pacemaker. Other scores: Theo. Reuter, 19; W. A. Smith, 18; B. W. Anders, 15; Les Hare, 15; Vance Fixsen, 14; Herb Heanes, 14; F. M. Hudson, 14.

Les Hare, state fish and game deputy, won at blue rocks with a score of 24. Other scores: B. W. Anders, 23; Herb Meanes, 22; Carl Kumpe, 20, and F. M. Hudson, 12.

MACIAS, ALLEN HEAD THURSDAY RING PROGRAM

Jack (Kid) Allen, welterweight champion of Cuba, will make his initial appearance in Southern California at the Orange County Athletics club here next Thursday night.

Preparatory to matches at the Olympic and Hollywood, Allen will meet at Delhi "Wild Man" Macias, eccentric but capable Los Alamitos Mexican, who held Allen to a draw at Las Vegas, Nev., less than a month ago.

Promoter H. T. Foust will send them in again at 150 pounds and for a scheduled distance of 10 rounds.

The Macias-Allen shindy in Nevada was described as a wild slugging orgy in which both men suffered considerable punishment.

Allen has met a number of Southern California's best welters—Joe Schlocker, Alphonse Gonzales, Clyde Hull and Tommy White—but all of his American fighting has been done in El Paso and Mexico City where he is a great card. He would not be adverse to fighting Mushy Callahan and boys of their kind during his California invasion.

Foust has another treat in store for his clients this week in the return to action of Tony Moreno, popular Placentia bantamweight who has been away from the Delhi auditorium for a number of months.

Traveling six rounds, Moreno is scheduled to meet Jess Gabucco in the semi. Gabucco, a Filipino, is the fighter who knocked out Moreno in less than a round at Hollywood about a year ago. The defeat set Moreno back in his natural development, and nearly caused him to forsake the ring altogether.

Mickey Thomas and Mickey Koshell, welters, head the preliminaries. They are booked for six rounds. Thomas is from Seal Beach. Koshell appeared in a main event here a few months ago.

The four's are Cliff Burrier vs. Frankie Hirsch, and "Bud" Austin vs. Benny Stinson.

TEST GOTHAM FOUL RULE ON THURSDAY

NEW YORK, July 14.—The first test of the New York athletic commission's new foul rule will take place Thursday night at Yankee stadium in the 15-round lightweight championship bout between Sammy Mandel, 135-pound titleholder, and Al Singer, New York challenger.

Under the new rule no contest can end foul from low punches. If either Singer or Mandell goes down from a blow below the belt, he must get up or be counted out. The penalty for delivering a low blow is the loss of the round, provided the other man continues.

Both Mandell and Singer have signed contracts that their bout shall not end in a foul, and both have agreed to wear soul-proof protectors.

Tilden Wins Two Dutch Net Titles

NOORDWICK, Netherlands, July 14.—William T. Tilden, American and Wimbledon champion, added the Dutch tennis championship to his list by defeating Roderich Menzel, Czecho-Slovakia ,yesterday, in the singles final, 8-6, 6-8, 6-3, 6-4.

Paired with Dr. Daniel Prenn of Germany, Tilden also won the doubles by beating the Dutch team of Hans Timmer and A. Diemer Kool, 6-1, 6-2, 6-5.

CITY LEAGUE'S 'NEW SEASON' OPENS TONIGHT

Spotless and clean after a thorough whitewashing of all their past transgressions, 10 night baseball teams sidle up to the starting post this week for the second and final half of the Santa Ana City league's split schedule.

They actually begin the "new season" in the Bowl tonight—without the championship of the first half having been definitely determined.

The Orange County Builders' exchange is still a mathematical possibility to win the first race. Franklin Nickey's Builders get their big chance Thursday when they go against the Printers in a first half "holdover" game. If the Builders win, they will go into a tie for the title and some method will be devised to play it off. If the Printers triumph, they will cinch the flag they are defending this year.

This week's schedule follows:

Monday—Dennis Printers vs. Pacific Telephone company, 6:45 p. m.; Builders' exchange vs. Peek's market, 8:15 p. m.

Wednesday — Richfield Oil vs. Auto Club of Orange county, 6:45 p. m.; American Legion vs. Courthouse, 8:15 p. m.

Thursday — Excelsior creamery vs. Eastern Oil, 6:45 p. m.; Builders' exchange vs. Dennis Printers, 8:15 p. m. (playoff game.)

Aside from the Dennis Printers, who are conceded an edge in class, the whole league is rated virtually even, so a tight fight is anticipated through the entire second half.

Even the Printers are no cinch to coast in to Pennantville, many of the managers and players believing the Dennis entry will have plenty of trouble duplicating its first half success, since many of the teams will be considerably strengthened for the last lap. The consensus is that the chase is wide open, and that a "dark horse" has a good chance of sneaking home first.

ANAPAUMAS DEFEAT L. A. JAPANESE, 4-3

The score was close, 4 to 3.

Al Encinas and Matsuura hooked up in one of the season's choicest pitcher's batties, neither side being able to score after the fourth inning in which the Anapaumas shoved home their tying and winning runs. Encinas struck out nine and helped win his own game with two hits. The score:

U. S. Soccer Team Beats Belgium, 3-0

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, July 14.—The United States soccer team stood out today as a formidable contender for the world's soccer football championship as a result of a surprising 3 to 0 victory over Belgium in its first round match Sunday. In the other match France won from Mexico, 4 to 1. Thirteen nations are competing.

WHAT A MAN!

The numerals "13" are avoided by most people but not by this publicity-loving character who likes photographers as much as any one in the world. The broad shoulders and sturdy legs belong to Art (The Great) Shires, new first baseman the Washington Senators obtained from the White Sox in a recent trade.

U. S., ITALY IN DAVIS CUP NET CLASH FRIDAY

GENOA, Italy, July 14.—Italy and the United States will meet in the inter-zone final of Davis cup competition Friday, Saturday and Sunday to determine France's opponent in the challenge round at Auteil July 25, 26 and 27.

Italy captured the European zone title by eliminating Japan in the final, three matches to two. Italy won two singles matches and the doubles to Japan's two singles victories.

In the two final matches Sunday, Baron H. L. DeMorpurgo, Italy's No. 1 player, won the deciding victory over Hoshiro Ohta, 6-0, 6-2, 6-1, after Takeichi Harada had evened the score at two matches each by defeating Giorgio de Stefani, 6-2, 7-5, 7-5.

Italy had a comparatively easy path to the European zone final, drawing a bye in the first round; defeating Austria, 3-2, in the second; defeating Australia, 3-2, in the third round, and then upsetting Japan.

The meeting of Italy and the United States will be the second time in the last three years these two nations have won the title in their zones.

LONG BEACH TO SHOW TUESDAY, OLIVE FRIDAY

When Sherman made his ejaculation about war he must have meant the night baseball kind. Certainly there is not much fun in the type of going the Santa Ana Stars have been through lately and, which is more to the point, will have this week.

After they got through at La Habra and Whittier, earning an even break in games against two of the toughest teams in the National Night league, Manager Herb Salveson's disciples thought they were entitled to a "breather" or two.

Instead the Stars return to the Bowl this week for two assignments that are sure to be spirited, and desperately contested.

Long Beach, champion of the league last year and now a runner-up to Santa Ana for the second half of this year's race, invades the local orchard tomorrow night.

Olive Here Friday

Olive, always a Santa Ana stumbling block, will make its last start of the summer here Friday.

Victories in both games would leave the Stars in a comfortable position to begin the stretch drive for the championship .

Overwhelmed by Santa Ana in both earlier games this semester, Long Beach promises sterner competition tomorrow despite the fact that the Acorns may have to come here handicapped by the absence of Pitcher Deene Downer, a sensation from the Long Beach City league who is on his vacation; Infielder Al Davis, also vacationing, and Vic Wilson, regular outfielder, who is out of the lineup indefinitely with a severely wrenched knee.

The Acorns are optimistic, however, because Rod Ballard, husky outfielder from Oregon State college, will be in their outfield once again and little Bobby Dalton, their sombre-faced moundsman, will be on deck for his first fling at Santa Ana's swatsmiths.

Ballard is just out of quarantine, his little sister having for a time been threatened with infantile paralysis. Dalton only recently joined the Acorn pitching staff. He is badly needed, too, because Lloyd Lichtnewalter moved to Riverside the other day and will do his slinging hereafter for the inland outfit.

Acorns In Second Place

Long Beach has won five games in succession and is firmly entrenched in second place. It can get a tie for the leadership with Santa Ana by bumping over the Stars.

Manager Salveson has intimated that he may use Ray Price on the knoll tomorrow, saving Cornelius for Olive. This is not a definite announcement because Salveson may change his mind between now and game-time. Price hurled good ball against the Acorns the last time he faced them, an error costing him a shutout.

The Stars are in no way despondent over their 4-3 defeat at Whittier last Friday, this being their first reversal of the second half. They feel they should have won with their share of the breaks but already they have forgotten about it and are looking ahead to the important home tussles.

YACHTING NEWS

BY S. H. LUCAS

The first of the July series for star boats was sailed Saturday over the diamond course in a light breeze, and Tom Robin took first, Sirius, second, and Tempe IV, third.

The yachts were sent away towards the Corona del Mar marker but just as the mark was reached after the slide down, the fitful breeze subsided and the yachts were hung in irons for almost an hour. The three leading boats drifted in to the shore, where just outside the line of breakers, a catspaw was encountered that enabled them to work down along the coast, and finally secure a slant out to the weather mark.

From there on it was just a procession, the first three finishing three quarters of an hour ahead of the balance of the fleet. The rear division made up over 20 minutes on the last part of the race, owing to the freshening breeze.

Sunday's Races

The second of the elimination series was sailed yesterday off Balboa and Hubbard, in Tempe IV, made it two in a row. Jack Keith nosed in for place, and Webster got the show.

The boats were sent away down the coast toward Newport, thence out to sea around the club marker and home to the Balboa pier, twice around. The wind was from the south and the fog lifted just in time for the race to be sailed, as a 15 minute postponement had been called on account of no visibility.

The start was made with the wind over the quarter, and Webster elected to start from the leeward end of the line, thus making the ideal start under the conditions existing. Keith broke over first about the center of the starting line, and got away without any interference, but owing to Webster's better position, had to take second at the mark, being beaten by Webster some 20 seconds. Hubbard got into a flat spot and Webster led at the end of the first round by 26 seconds, while Hubbard in second position, was 54 seconds ahead of Keith, who was followed by Bartholmae 10 seconds later.

On the second round, Webster held his lead until the first bouy was rounded, after which he picked out the same flat spot that Hubbard had found on the previous lap and gracefully dropped back to third place, which he held to the finish. Keith sailed the second round one second faster than Hubbard and deserves the congratulations that he is receiving for his consistent work.

The total points scores on these two races show Hubbard leading with a perfect 32 and Keith and Webster tied for second with 28 each. Murphy shows only 13, but had it not been for his unfortunate foul probably would have been fighting it out with Lyons for fourth.

fight he went to the Delhi post office where he surrendered to Mrs. F. H. Johnston, the post mistress. She called officers.

Both men lived at Delhi. Officers were today investigating rumors to the effect that marijuana may have played a part in the murder, they having learned that within a few minutes of the killing the two men were seen walking down the street together, arm in arm.

A motive for the fight also was being sought by officers today. Police were looking for a woman angle, but were frank to state that they had learned nothing.

A number of empty bottles and liquor equipment were said to have been found in Gonzales' home, near the place where the murder was committed.

Aside from admitting that he killed Valenzuella, Gonzales had nothing to say about the fight.

Simmons Victim Of Heart Attack

Suffering from the heat of the past few days and the victim of a sudden heart attack, Carl Simmons, 43, of Orangethorpe and Dowling street, Fullerton, died Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

Simmons was formerly engaged in the cement pipe business but recently was a rancher. He is survived by his wife, Rena, of the home address. Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 3:30 p. m. from the McAuley and Suters parlors in Fullerton and interment will be in Loma Vista cemetery. The Rev. R. M. Dutton, of Placentia, will be in charge of the rites.

the pardon application of the pair come before them.

In denying Mooney's pardon application, which followed a supreme court refusal to recommend a pardon for Billings, Governor Young suggested that MacDonald be located and returned to California so that his repudiation of his trial testimony could be thoroughly investigated.

Today, as evidence of sincerity in providing that "loop-hole" for Mooney and Billings, Governor Young wired Baltimore that he personally was ready to pay all costs of bringing MacDonald to California and his return fare to Baltimore.

In view of Governor Young's interest in the MacDonald phase of the case, it is thought unlikely that any attempt will ever be made to prosecute MacDonald for perjury.

It is probable that MacDonald will appear before the supreme court as well as before Governor Young and the pardon board because the court must act on the Billings application before it even reaches the governor.

California law provides that the supreme court decommend a pardon for twice convicted men, such as Billings, and that the recommendation be favorable before the governor may grant a pardon.

The three governors belonged to two factions of Republicanism in California, Stephens and Young are generally classed with the Liberal Johnson faction while Richardson, who defeated Stephens and who was defeated by Young four years later, is a leader of the Anti-Johnson group.

While other governors acted but once, and unfavorably, on the pardon applications, it now appears likely that Governor Young will act twice. His decision the other way was unfavorable.

onel all along that the Yankees needed pitchers. Jake has taken an option on pitchers Howard Crakhead and Pet Daglia of the Oakland team. The option expires in September, and if it is exercised, another 100 grand will have winged its way to the coast for promising baseball talent.

The colonel paid $75,000 for Lazzeri, and the street corners aren't crowded with people bearing megaphones shouting that Jake was gyped. The colonel paid $50,000 to the Seals for Pitcher Vernon Gomez last year. Lazzeri, Lary, Reese and Mery Hoag, the new outfielder, cost the colonel in the neighborhood of $275,000. If he puts out another $100,000 for Crag-head and Daglia, his purchases on the coast alone would amount to $275,000. It looks as though it might be cheaper to buy a franchise in the league.

If the colonel fails to buy Craghead and Daglia, it is said that Billy Evans is ready to step in with a juicy bid for the pair on behalf of the Cleveland Indians.

OFFICIAL SAYS KLAN SUPPORTS CONSTITUTION

Emphatically stating that the Ku Klux Klan is in full sympathy with the constitution of the United States and is therefore actively interested in promoting the welfare of the country, T. S. Moodie of Los Angeles, Grand Dragon of the state Ku Klux Klan, today denounced the criticisms that have been made on the organization in past years.

"We are just the same as any other organization whose foremost principles and standards are for the betterment of their country. We set aside personal interests to accomplish this end. The Klan has long been subjected to the prejudice of certain parties who have hoped to benefit themselves with vile attempts to make the Klan appear ridiculous in the eyes of the average layman.

"It was this direct action that made us forego the traditional mask in 1928. Ever since, our meetings have been open to the public, and I feel safe in saying that the Klan has done as much to promote national prosperity as any other individual organization."

Moodie also stated that the Klan was a protestant-Christian organization with the cross as its sacred emblem. He admitted that there have been rascals in the Klan but that every effort has been made to rid the organization of this type. He also pointed out that every order has undesirables and that the true caliber of any organization is only expressed in the attitude of the majority.

In reverting to national polttics Moodie said "The Ku Klux Klan is in favor of rigid immigration laws. The country is fast becoming overrun with a foreign element which is doing more to jeopardize than benefit the nation's future. We also are in hearty accord with the Kapper-Robison bill which provides for a secretary of education in complete charge of national education with jurisdiction much the same as our present day secretaries of treasury, state, war, navy, and other departmental heads."

Moodie was born in Texas in 1902. He attended public school and college in Austin. He removed to Los Angeles with his family in 1922 and it was there that he became interested in the activities of the new Klan. Moodie was elected Grand Dragon and has held that post consecutively for the past four years.

Addresses Heard Yesterday In Santa Ana Churches

STRESSES SIN OF REFUSAL TO ACCEPT CHRIST

In a sermon depicting the depth of the sin of crucifying Christ upon the summit of Calvary, the Rev. R. W. Harlow, pastor of the First United Brethern church yesterday morning pointed out to his congregation the even deeper sin of men and women in the world today who live in enlightened America, knowing of Christ, yet refusing to accept or believe. The subject of the sermon was "A Sin Worse than Crucifying Christ."

"Calvary with its noon-day blackness, Calvary with its tragedy, with its lynching and blood spilling, is, ordinarily speaking, without a parallel," the pastor began. "Shadows from the cross went as far back as the days of Adam—back to the days of his son, Abel.

"Down through the years, seer and prophet told that sad story of the coming cross. They told in black pictures what the world would do for Jesus—how He would be led as a lamb to the slaughter, and like a sheep dumb before his shearers, so He opened not His mouth. They told of His trials, they told of the lying witnesses, they told of everything about which we read in the New Testament. The heart of the world was chilled over the story of the coming crucifixion.

"And the New Testament account of it, gives one of the blackest stories ever told. His familiar friend, one who had eaten His bread, allowed Satan to get the advantage of him and this one-time familiar friend lifted up his heel against Him and sold him for the price of two harlots. Every one of His apostles forsook Him and fled when Calvary was in sight. The sun refused to shine, and darkness for three long hours took charge of the scene of the cross. Oh what an hour! There is no language that can portray or describe the horrors of the crucifixion of Jesus Christ. All the tragedies and stories of Calvary will not be revealed until we hear it from Christ himself in the sweet by and by.

"But I say unto you in all of the calmness of life; bad as Calvary was, and as bad and black as that sin of crucifixion, the crucifying of the price of peace, the Son of God, the world's best friend and only Savior, I would rather have been the man who sold Him for $15.00 as Judas did, be the man that denied Him three different times, be the man who made the crown of thorns and pressed it hard upon His innocent brow, be the man that smote Him on the face, be the man that drove nails in His hands and in His feet, and the man who pierced His side, rather than the man or woman who lives in enlightened America, who lives in the blazing noon-day sunlight of the gospel of the Son of God and fails to accept and believe.

"On the cross Jesus said, "Father forgive them, for they know not what they do." Peter said, "I know that through ignorance ye did it." There was not one of them that would have crucified Him if they had known that He was the Christ, but we know today that He is the Christ. Hence, we have the greater sin upon us today.

Speaking concerning the achievements that have been made by persons who were handicapped in life and calling attention to the inspiration that is found therein, the Rev. Harry Evan Owings, pastor of the First Baptist church, talked to his congregation yesterday morning on the subject, "Making Wings of Our Handicaps."

"One is led to marvel at those heroic souls who not only meet the troubles and afflictions that life brings them with grace, but even use them as a means of climbing to higher and fuller life," he began. "For them, handicaps do not become weights, but rather wings. Paul had a 'thorn in the flesh' which he wanted very much to have removed, but when it remained he learned that God's power could be used to make perfect his weakness.

"Leigh Hunt, John Keats, Sidney Lanier, Harold Bell Wright, Roger Babson, are names that the world knows for their achievement, even though as Dr. Arthur Myers tells us in his 'Fighters of Fate' they had the great handicap of the white plague to deal with. We even read of Admiral Richard Byrd that he was incapacitated for naval service by reason of a fractured leg sustained at the Naval Academy and discharged. But after some years he found the chance to enter the air service with the words, 'A man does not fly with his feet.'

"Somehow the very handicaps acting as a most severe test of the 'stuff' men are made of seems to bring to birth fortitude and courage, larger sympathy and a more stubborn resoluteness. And they set themselves to be useful as a result. Such people seem to face their handicaps with grimness, calling them by their proper name, then drawn upon teh divine resources to adopt a courageous attitude toward life, and with a 'fighting spirit' begotten of their misfortunes, set themselves to work out, even with or through their handicaps, some worthy purpose that will make their lives useful, counting for God and humanity.

"All men have their handicaps of one kind or another. But what an inspiration it is to those who are 'the more favored' to devote their powers to useful ends when they find their less fortunate fellows making wings of most serious handicaps."

Rev. Rothrock To Direct Education At Camp La Verne

The Rev. Edgar Rothrock, pastor of the Church of the Brethren, will be director of religious education at Camp La Verne, Barton Flats. The camp sessions begin today and continue until July 30.

The Rev. Mr. Rothrock founded Camp La Verne six years ago and has been active in camp work for 15 years. He rates the work done in supervised camps for boys and girls as superior to any other agency in the development of Christian character. Boys and girls from the local church will attend the camp.

The pulpit at Santa Ana will be filled during his absence by Dr. J. P. Dickey on July 20 and Dr. E. M. Studebaker on July 27. Dr. Studebaker is president of La Verne college.

LIGHTHOUSE IS SERMON TOPIC OF EVANGELIST

A large crowd heard Evangelist Alice Wislon Parham deliver her illustrated sermon "The Lighthouse," at the Four Square Gospel church last evening. A lighthouse was on the platform, surrounded with a beautiful sea scene. The text used was found in John 1.12, "I Am the Light of the World."

"The Lighthouse represents Jesus," said the evangelist; "the sea represents the masses of people and the little boat sailing represents the individual life. From this lighthouse radiate blessings unnumbered. The first important blessing that comes from Him who is The Light is redemption through His shed blood. There is no doctrine that seems to be so hard to understand, as the doctrine of redemption, yet it is taught so clearly in God's Word. We cannot clearly understand it until we realize its necessity.

"If man could have lifted himself from sin to heaven, there would have been no need of a saviour to redeem from sin. The definition of sin are many and varied. Society calls sin indiscretion, the lawyer calls it crime, the scholar calls it ignorance, but God calls sin transgression of His law.

"The individual who transgresses laws needs to be redeemed and regenerated. So Christ has come into the world that He might become your light.

"The second light gleaming from the lighthouse brings us the blessing of the Holy Spirit which gives us power to witness, and gives us not a dead, formal, lifeless, powerless apologetic Gospel, but a living, flaming moving, powerful Gospel.

"The third light from the lighthouse reveals to us the truth in God's word about Divine healing.

"As we watch the little boat, we see it brought safely to shore through all the storms, because Christ has become its light and Pilot and the Captain of salvation."

Sunday School To Postpone Sessions

Announcement was made at the Church of the Nazarene yesterday that, in accordance with action of the church board, the junior, primary and beginners' departments of the Sunday school would be closed until September 1. The Sunday school board also has decided to postpone, until some later date, the annual school picnic. These steps were taken as co-operative measures with the county health office in an effort to avoid spread of infantile paralysis.

FIRST EPISTLE TO TIMOTHY IS SERMON BASIS

Choosing as his sermon subject "Sound Doctrine" the Rev. J. W. Saunders, evangelist at the Southside Church of Christ, talked to his congregation yesterday morning concerning matters discussed in the first epistle to Timothy.

"The term doctrine, as used in the first epistle to Timothy means correct teaching," the evangelist declared. "Paul had left the young evangelist at Ephesus to correct the erroneous teaching of some who had been wrangling over disputed questions arising out of their misunderstanding of the design of the law. Timothy, therefore, was to give himself to good or sound doctrine. Consider some of the things he was to teach.

"The salvation of sinners was the main object of Paul's life. Timothy was reminded of this so that he also might teach it. If we take the idea of sin, and salvation from sin, out of the Christian teaching, Christianity is but a farce and a waste of time and energy.

"The doctrine of prayer also occupied the apostle's mind, and he reminds the young preacher that we would that prayers supplications, intercessions be made for all men. Too much emphasis cannot be placed on the doctrine of the prayer life.

"The apostle also gave Timothy a glimpse into the future, describing for him the conditions of the last days. If we see a tendency to indifference we should not be discouraged. The pen of inspiration recorded the fact that many would be led into error, and error is the cause of indifference. Are we indifferent? Are we in error? Is our doctrine or teaching sound? Let us answer these questions honestly."

YOUNG PEOPLE IN CHURCH PROGRAM

A group of young people, led by the Rev. Ernest Vauman, former missionary to China, gave a program at the Church of the Brethren last evening.

The program consisted of talks, vocal and instrumental selections and a report of the California Christian Endeavor convention recently held in Sacramento.

Refreshments were served in the basement to the visiting group after the program. Misses Ada Teter, Pearl Herrick and Florine Dismukes constituted the committee in charge.

PASTOR TELLS NEED OF HEART FELT RELIGION

The Rev. U. E. Harding, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, spoke Sunday evening on "Heart Felt Religion," taking for his text Psalmes 57:7. The pastor said in part:

"There is no need to bend the hands on your watch or change the dial to make it keep correct time, the trouble is within. Perhaps the reason many of the sermons today are directed at the head, rather than the heart, is because the minister is seeking the softer place.

"The old-fashioned doctrine of conversion, a change of heart, or heart felt religion in many places has been cast to the scrap heap. But the Bible remains unchanged. Jesus said 'out of the heart proceed evil' and again, 'blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God.' James says 'make the fountain pure and the stream will be pure.' Then again that old Book from which my mother taught me says 'with a heart man believeth and with the mouth confession is made.'

"If man is not a depraved creature why all these laws and amendments and enforcements of same that we talk so much about? Sin is not a disease of the head but of the heart. You can join all the churches in christendom, be baptized in every mode and fashion, but unless your heart has been changed by the operation of the Holy Spirit your desires will be the same.

"If your eyes seek the obscene, if your feet carry you to the dance, and if your ears are attentive to the vile, the trouble is not with the different members of your body, but it comes from the heart. Remove the cause.

"David said his heart was fixed. I have seen folks get their heads fixed up by good resolutions but soon go wrong again. Christ can fix the heart, you can't do this for yourself. I tell you your nature must be changed. I don't have to tie myself to a bed post to keep away from bad shows, or my feet from the dance. Neither do I force myself to stay at home while my heart is there, for this Book says 'where a man's treasure is, there will his heart be also'."

PLANE SAFETY DATE

PHOENIX, Ariz., July 14.—There were 40 automobile fatalities in Arizona during the first three months of 1930, and but 30 plane fatalities in the last five years, according to a recent survey. During the first three months of 1930 there were no plane fatalities and no major accident to any plane, with more planes flying than ever before in the history of the state.

DISTRICT CONVENTION FOR CHURCH OF BRETHREN WILL BE HELD HERE NEXT AUGUST

Delegates from Southern California and Arizona will assemble in Santa Ana next month for the annual district conclave of the Church of the Brethren. The Santa Ana church, located at the corner of South Ross and Camile streets, will be host to the convention, which is scheduled for August 22-29. The Rev. Edgar Rothrock is pastor of the Santa Ana church.

Several hundred pastors and laymen are expected in attendance at the conference and plans are being laid by members of the Santa Ana church for their entertainment during the week. The committee gathering is composed of Roy in charge of making plans for the Teter, J. M. Wyne, I. N. Santee and Walter Dunlap.

Noted speakers from the church headquarters in the east will be present to take part in the conference, and the varied interests of the church, including the aid society, Sunday school, Christian Endeavor, ministerial association, La Verne college, Camp La Verne and Christian education, will be discussed and furthered at the sessions of the annual meeting.

The Rev. Mr. Rothrock is chairman of the program committee and will act as convention chairman. He will be assisted by the Rev. A. O. Brubaker, of Pomona, and the Rev. H. B. Heisey, of Los Angeles.

Christian Science

Communion services were held Sunday in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass. The subject of the Lesson-Sermon was "Sacrament."

One of the scriptural citations included the following verses from John: "As soon then as they were come to land, they saw a fire of coals there, and fish laid thereon, and bread . . . Jesus saith unto them, Come and dine. And none of the disciples durst ask him, Who are thou? knowing that it was the Lord. Jesus then cometh, and taketh bread, and giveth them, and fish likewise. This is now the third time that Jesus shewed himself to his disciples, after that he was risen from the dead."

A correlative passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, stated: "This spiritual meeting with our Lord in the dawn of a new light is the morning meal which Christian Scientists commemorate. They bow before Christ, Truth, to receive more of his reappearing and silently to commune with the divince principle, love."

MAN OF POWER DISCUSSED BY LOCAL PASTOR

"Israel—A Man of Power" was the subject discussed by the Rev. Edgar Rothrock, pastor of the Church of the Brethren, in a sermon Sunday morning. He said in part:

"It takes a long time to make a man. Jacob had much to overcome before the angel changed his name to Israel and said, 'Thou hast striven with God and men and hast prevailed.'

"Provident men accomplish more than those who, like Esau, consume all they make. Jacob gathered around him much property which helped to make him and his family of twelve sons a power in their country. With a present he appeased the wrath of his brother, Esau. He excelled his brother in leadership and thus became the father of a nation.

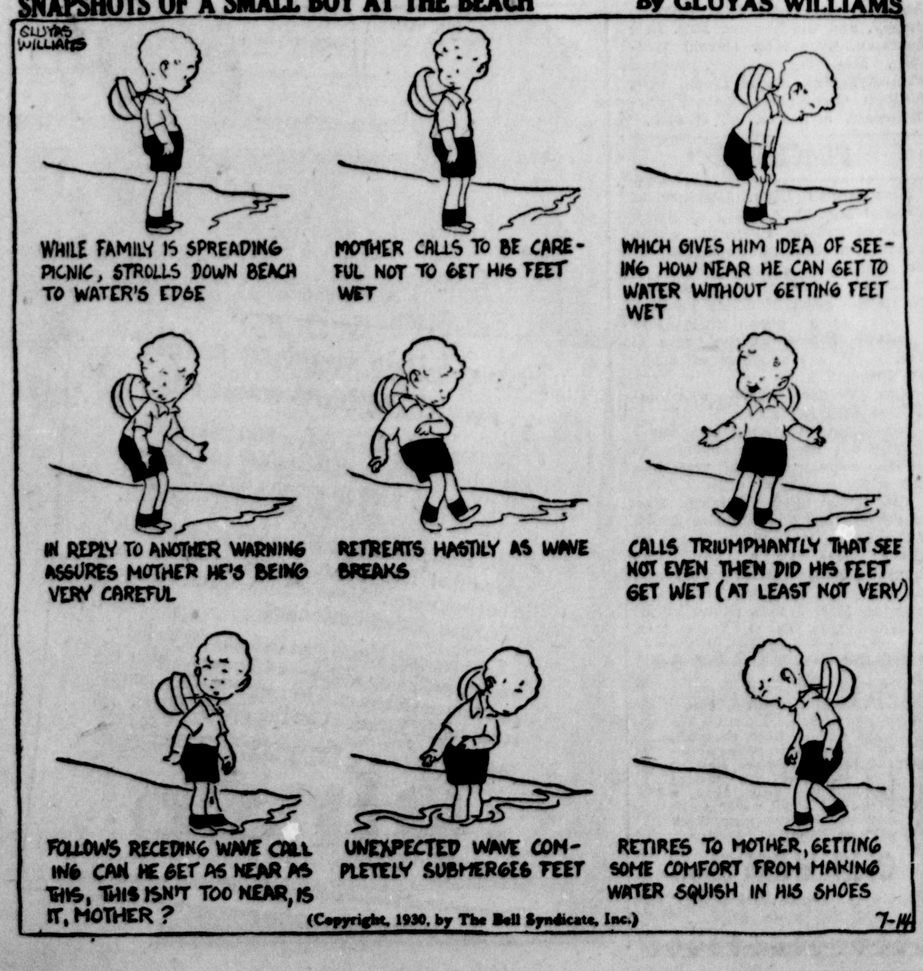

"In his wrestling with the angel he revealed the secret of his success—power in prayer. Early on his journey from home, he discovered that his father's God was everywhere. He walked and talked with Him."

Recent Bride Shared Party Honors With Bride-to-Be

A bride in retrospect and a bride in prospect,—such were the two delightful features stressed Saturday afternoon when Miss Marian Smith entertained in the cool gardens of her home on Prospect avenue, Tustin, at a gift shower complimenting Mrs. Hubert Riggan, formerly Miss Leta Harwell, a bride of June.

For while Mrs. Riggan was the honoree at the shower, the party also served as an announcement for Miss Louise Lange's betrothal to Donald Sheldon of Washington. This delightful news was revealed at the tea hour when place cards of conventional design, bore the announcement.

Meanwhile the guests had enjoyed a gay afternoon of hearts in which Mrs. Riggan scored high and Miss Margaret Rust, second, each receiving an attractive reward. The shower motif for Mrs. Riggan, was of charming green crystal, and she received countless pieces to complete her set.

The green motif was emphasized at the tea hour when card table covers were replaced with pretty linens, and a delectable refreshment course served, with green favors for each guest. The scene was an animated and lovely one, with the guests in their summery frocks in pastel tints and the background of garden flowers. Mrs. Riggan honoree, wore her exquisite wedding gown.

Those present in addition to the hostess, Miss Marian Smith were the Misses Louise Lange, Josephine Roy, Cinderella Phiney, Charlena Swartz, Margaret Rust, and Mesdames Foster Prather, Frank Bacon, Leland Finley, James McCalla, James Thompson, George Stevens, Russell Manderscheid, George Harris, Clyde Daugherty, Lauraine Bowe, of Pomona, and the guest of honor, Mrs. Hubert Riggan.

Charming Rites Unite Miss Armstrong and Mr. Adams

Before an improvised altar banked with a profusion of pink sweet peas, Miss Maxaline Armstrong, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Armstrong, of 440 South Sycamore street, on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, became the bride of John Benton Adams, son of Mrs. Alice Adams, of Stevansville, Texas. The simple but impressive ceremony took place in the home of the bride, where baskets of shell pink gladioluses, intermingled with blue delphinium, completed the charming decorative effect.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Geneva Holmes sang "At Dawning," and "Oh Promise Me," accompanied at the piano by Miss Lois Lamb, who also played Lohengrin's Wedding march, to which the bride entered, on the arm of her father. Miss Armstrong was attired in filmy peach chiffon and wore a wreath of orange blossoms in her dark hair. Her bouquet was of creamy roses combined with lilies of the valley and maiden hair fern, with a shower of lilies of the valley, while her only ornament was a strand of sparkling crystals, a gift of the groom.

She was attended by Mrs. Arthur Murdy of Midway City, as matron of honor. Mrs. Murdy was a recent bride, and wore her ivory wedding gown, fashioned along princess lines, and carried pink surprise lilies. Arthur Murdy acted as best man. The ceremony was read by the Rev. J. W. Saunders, pastor of the Southside Church of Christ.

Following the ceremony, the young couple left for a brief honeymoon at Catalina. For her going away costume, the new Mrs. Adams wore an apple green traveling ensemble, with biege accessories.

The bride is a graduate of the local high school, and attended one year in Santa Ana junior college. She later attended the University of California at Los Angeles, where she received her teachers' certificate. For the past several years, she has been teaching in Santa Ana schools, and will continue teaching this fall, this time in Westminster.

The groom is a graduate of Stevansville, Texas, schools, and is now employed with the Southern Counties Gas company. They will make their home in Midway City.

W. C. T. U. Workers to Convene at Palisades

An opportunity of bringing before the public a group of prmoinent and timely speakers, any one of whom would be sufficient to hold the interest of an audience, has been seized by the W. C. T. U committee, and on Wednesday of this week, Hon. C. C. Young, and Buron Fitts, heading the list, will be presented as features of W. C. T. U. day, to be in progress at the Pacific Palisades.

Plans for the success of the celebration have been worked out in detail, according to reports of officers of the organization, and they believe that the program will be especially worthwhile. They urge that a large number of people attend, free of charge, the only stipulation being that every one bring his own picnic lunch. Lending variety to the campaign speeches to be given by Gov. Young and Buron Fitts, district attorney of Los Angeles county, and candidate for governor, will be the talk by John T. Miller, a world lecturer and author of note. Expected to be equally as interesting, and unusually informative, is the discussion to be given by Mrs. Mott Keisler, vice president of the W. C. T. U. in India.

As a special feature of the day's entertainment, there will be a college oratorical contest, and although the entrants have not as yet been announced, it is expected that this number will be one of the most interesting of the day's program.

Reputed as eight of the best professional men singers on the Pacific coast, are the Famous Meistersingers, who will provide the musical numbers of the program.

W. C. T. U. day, Wednesday, comes in the midst of a two day state board meeting, which convenes on Tuesday, and will be continued on Thursday. Attending this group from Santa Ana, will be Mrs. T. L. Warren, 814 North Parton street. She will remain at the Palisades all of this week, and will be joined on Wednesday by a number of local W. C. T. U. workers.

Miss Mignon Oldfield Is Charming Bride Of Dr. Waters

Occasioning much surprise to their friends, who had not been informed of their exact wedding date, Miss Mignon E. Oldfield, one of the community's most charming girls, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Royal A. Oldfield of Garden Grove, and Dr. Donald R. E. Waters, son of Mrs. Ida B. Waters of this city, were quietly wedded this morning at 11 o'clock, and are now on their way to a honeymoon outing to be spent in the San Diego mountains.

The Waters home at 1127 West Seventeenth street was chosen as setting for the event, and a profusion of feathery green tamarisk boughs were used with shell pink gladiolus blossoms to stimulate an altar at the wide fireplace. There, in flickering candle-light, the Rev. W. G. Nicholson of Cambridge, Mass., acting pastor of the First Congregational church, stood to await the young people, entering to the strains of Lohengrin.

Miss Oldfield was gowned in white French organdy, sheer and dainty, and carried white roses mingled with gardenias and lilies of the valley. There were no attendants, and guests were confined to members of the family circle.

Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Oldfield entertained at breakfast at St. Ann's Inn, with the new Dr. and Mrs. Waters as honored guests. Covers were placed for the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Oldfield, Dr. and Mrs. Waters, Mrs. Ida B. Waters, Dr. Pearl S. Waters of San Bernardino, an aunt of the groom; Mrs. M. H. Lewis of Pasadena; Mrs. Grace M. Shafer of Los Angeles, and Miss Mary I. Scott of Fallbrook.

The table which had been arranged by Mrs. Robert Bisby, was a charming study showing a miniature wedding party whose tiny bride and groom stood at an altar directly in front of the actual bride and groom. The party was complete with flower girl and eight attendants, and seemed to proceed down an aisle outlined with silver festoons, candles and smilax. Tall candles, a large silver slipper filled with pink blossoms, and tiny silver slipper nut cups were other charming decorative details.

Since the announcement of the engagement of Miss Oldfield and Dr. Waters, in the early spring, there have been many charming courtesies extended the bride-elect in the way of showers and parties. Both young people are popular in a wide circle of friends. Dr. Waters has been here for the past two years, and is associated with Dr. Roy Horton. He is a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, later finishing his professional training at Los Angeles School of Optometry.

His bride graduated from Anaheim union high school and Santa Ana junior college, later attending U. C. L. A. where she received her teaching certificate. She has taught for the past two years in the Bolsa school.

Days of the Dons Are Revived at Colorful Barbecue Dinner

Reminiscent of the "Days of the Dons," that most colorful period in California's history, was the enjoyable gathering yesterday at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. George Jeffrey of Irvine, when members of the immediate family circle were present to share in the hospitality extended by Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey.

The patio and gardens offered setting for the pleasant affair which was especially unique in the fact that every member of the immediate family was present. During the afternoon and evening hours, special charm was given by the lilting Spanish and Mexican music played by a string quartet stationed on one of the balconies overlooking the patio. Spanish dancing too contributed color and recalled the joys of life on the big haciendas of early days. Miss Katha Costello was the danseuse who executed a series of intricate numbers.

Strangely linking the historic days which the festivity recalled, with the present era of "air consciousness," were the thrills provided when Robert Jeffrey, brother of the host, and his friend, Ralph Mitchell, flew over the ranch during the afternoon in their own 'planes, and thrilled the onlookers with their stunt and formation flying.

As evening drew on, the group took its way to the putting green near the big barbecue gates where a typical barbecue feast was in readiness. The remainder of the evening was enjoyed in the moonlight-flooded patio, with the Spanish music adding its seductive charm. Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey and their son, William Jeffrey, greeted as their guests, Mrs. Mary Jeffrey, mother of the host; Andrew Turnbull and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jeffrey, all of this city; Mr. and Mrs. Beryle Wilson of Van Nuys; Mr. and Mrs. Alex Jeffrey with their son and daughter, Alex jr and Miss Melda Jeffrey, and William Jeffrey and daughters, the Misses Mildred and Wilhelmina Jeffrey, all of Reseda; Dr. Al. Farmer, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Jahns and son, Billy, Mr. and Mrs. James Jones, Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jahns of Irvine.

Several hundred delegates are expected to attend the sessions which will open tomorrow and continue four days, closing with Friday night's final feature. Beautiful Hotel Alameda, located in the central part of the city, will be convention headquarters, and also will be chosen by the greater number of delegates, as their stopping place.

Wedding Vows Taken In Chapel of First M. E. Church

The First Methodist chapel with its quiet intimacy was again the setting for a wedding Saturday evening, which proved to be one of the most beautiful of the summer, when Miss Celestine White, of Tustin, was united to Raymond Kent Horvey, of Pasadena. The chapel was lighted with gleaming tapers which cast their soft glow over the pretty scene. The altar was banked with potted palms, and a screen of coral pink sweet peas, while at either side was placed a huge basket of pink and blue delphinium.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Ruth Ann Byerkey of Los Angeles, soprano, and sororiety sister of the bride, sang "I Love You Truly," and "Oh, Promise Me," accompanied by Miss Eva Ramsey at the piano. Miss Ramsey also gave a beautiful rendition of Lohengrin's Wedding March, to which the bridal party entered.

The bride entered on the arm of her father, William Horace White, and was attired in a lovely gown of white satin, modeled in princess lines. Her cap was of Irish point lace, from which a filmy veil fell over her shoulders, caught in place with orange blossoms. Her necklace was of ivory pearls, while she carried a sheaf of orchids, bride roses, and lilies of the valley.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Merritt A. White, was demure in peach organdie, fashioned in the prevailing mode, and carried a bouquet of coral tinted roses.

The groom was attended by Gardener King, as best man, while ushers were brothers of the bride, Merritt A. White, and Thoburn White.

The ceremony was read by Dr. George A. Warmer, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, who was assisted by Dr. Harry W. White, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church in Burbank and an uncle of the bride.

Mrs. William Horace White, mother of the bride, was attired in eggshell chiffon, with blue accessories, and wore a corsage of blue gardenias, while Mrs. John Milton Horvey, mother of the groom, wore an ensemble of blue.

Immediately following the ceremony, the young couple left by automobile for a week's honeymoon in northern California. For her traveling costume, the new Mrs. Horvey wore an olive green ensemble, with eggshell accessories. On their return they will locate in Glendale.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Horace White of Holt avenue, Tustin, and is a graduate of Tustin union high school. She graduated this year from the University of Southern California, where she was a member of the Kappa Delta sorority.

The groom was a member of the 1929 graduating class of the University of Southern California, and was a member of the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity. He is now engaged in business as one of the young architects of Los Angeles, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Milton Horvey, of Pasadena.

The MIXING BOWL by ANN MEREDITH

Untying Nerve Knots

Coping with the strenuous activities of Flaming Youth has added many a gray hair to the heads of fond parents. Mothers especially have a peculiar sense of intuition where their children are concerned ....Bob or Betty may be out for the evening....Mother goes peacefully to bed and to sleep knowing her child will be home at a certain hour....the hour slides 'round, the child is not there, and Mother is wide awake, turning, twisting, trying to find a logical reason for the delay, tieing herself into knots with worry....and then, the door quietly opens and the truant tiptoes a quiet way upstairs, and so to bed.

But the mother does not so easily go back to sleep—grown-up nerves are "that way," y'know. Next day she is listless and tired, feeling as though she had not slept for weeks. She is feeling the nerve tension of the previous night and unless she knows my simple little trick of relaxation she will continue to feel the same way until nature by slow steps unties the knots in her nerves.

Please note that I said "until nature UNTIES THE KNOTS in her nerves." That is exactly what you can do deliberately and at the moment, so that you can go back to restful sleep in a very few minutes. Place yourself in an easy position in bed, preferably on your back, arms at sides and as relaxed as possible.

Now, just imagine that there is a hard knot at the top of your head, another at the back of the neck, one at the throat, one in the chest, the two arms, the hips and abdomen, the two thighs and two especially knotted ones at your toes' ends. Imagine that you are going the rounds and that all you have to do is to pull one end of the string and out comes the knot.

Start with the one on top of your head and follow the knots right down to your toes....you get the most perfect and blessed sense of release and rest and before you know it you are peacefully asleep.

TODAY'S RECIPE
PECAN PIE

2 eggs—separated
1 cup sugar
1-2 tablespoon butter
1 teaspon allspice
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1-2 teaspon ground cloves
2 teaspoons vinegar
Good pinch of salt
1-2 cup chopped raisins
1-2 cup chopped pecans
Pastry for one crust

Melt the butter and add to the egg yolks. Beat very smooth with the sugar. Add the various spices, salt, raisins and chopped pecan meats, and last of all, whip the stiffly beaten whites into the mixture, pour into the pastry-lined plate and bake in a very hot oven for 10 minutes (to bake the crust and keep the filling from soaking), then reduce the heat and bake for about 25 minutes longer.

Cut into six sections this pie has a calorie value per section of 370 energy-making food units. I offer this recipe at this time to use with the vegetable plate dinner of summer vegetables. There came a time in the life of every family when too many fresh fruit desserts pall and a toothsome pie is looked upon with favor. You will find this one particularly good. Try it soon.

The marriage of Miss A. Kate Story, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Story, and Leonard O. Crapo, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Crapo of Buena Park was solemnized at the Congregational church parsonage, Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock, by the pastor, the Rev. Burton Y. Neal.

A reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents on Marshall street following the ceremony, after which the happy young couple left for a short honeymoon to the beach.

The bride wore a pretty green crepe ensemble, the dress made with a circular skirt and inserts of panels of lace. Her hat, shoes and accessories were in blonde shades.

'WESTERN FRONT' FILM OPENS HERE

A pageant of terrible splendor . . . a drama of deep human emotions . . . a terrific indictment of modern war . . . that is "All Quiet On The Western Front," Universal's superb super-production of Erich Maria Remarque's famous war book, which comes to the screen of the Fox West Coast theater today.

"All Quiet n The Western Front" is a magnificent picturization of the fate of youth in war. Its hero, young Paul Baumer, is a German, but he stands for the youth of all nations.

The picture portrays the effects of war upon young Baumer and his companions. It is the poignant story of youth that has been denied its chance at life . . . of youth hurled into a ceaseless hell of body and soul before it has begun to live.

Lewis Ayres, in the central role, Louis Wolheim and John Wray give performances that have never been surpassed on the motion-picture screen. Others in the large cast who stand prominently forth are Slim Summerville, Russell Gleason, William Bakewell, Scott Kolk, Walter Browne, Rogers, Ben Alexander, Owen Davis jr., and Zazu Pitts.

Lewis Milestone has done a magnificent work as director. The broad sweep of war is never allowed to obscure the human beings whose fate is the foremost consideration in the picture.

BOLSA

Lafe Ross has sold his residence and acre of land located on Wright street, just north of Bolsa boulevard, to a Long Beach man whose name was not learned. Mr. Ross will have possession until the first of August and it is his plan to erect a home in this vicinity to which he and his family will move upon leaving here. The family has lived at the place just disposed of for a number of years.

Mrs. Glade Fuller was operated upon Friday morning at the Santa Ana Valley hospital where she will remain at least two weeks. Mrs. Fuller sr., mother of Glade Fuller, is staying in their home during Mrs. Fuller's absence.

PERFECT COLOR IN DRAMA AT WALKER

Too great a variety of colorings has been the chief fault in practically every color picture made in the past, is the criticism artists have made of moving pictures photographed in colors. Director Albert Rogell, appreciating the importance of colors properly blended, decided to work on this theory in making the Tiffany all-talking, all-Technicolor production, "Mamba." The result is that this young director has been showered with compliments for the natural coloring obtained.

All the coloring in "Mamba" was kept absolutely natural, so that an audience would be practically unconscious of the fact that it was seeing a picture in Technicolor.

"If one looks at a distant landscape," says Rogell, "his impression is one of beauty and a perfect blending of all colors.

Another quality noticeable in "Mamba" is a third dimension—a depth and perspective that is all that is needed to make moving pictures perfect.

GARBO 'ROMANCE' AT FOX BROADWAY

"Romance," starring Greta Garbo, in a new type of picture for her, opens a four-day run at the Fox Broadway theater today.

Strictly a woman's play, "Romance" will team at the heart-strings of every woman in Santa Ana and there will be few who will not love the new Garbo that is seen in the leading part, in a part the like of which she has never played before.

The plot of the story concerns a great woman opera singer who gives up love because she loved too deeply and of a man who was advised to refuse to give his love to an actress and who wanted to "play" with her instead, and did.

"Romance" is romance from start to finish. It is a picture of today with yesterday's settings and was was the vehicle that Doris Keane used years ago on the stage.

Critics who have seen it declare it to be the biggest thing that Garbo ever has done on the screen. Its plot is human, soul stirring and emotional and it will bring many a tear to the eye and many pangs to any audience that views it.

"Romance" is showing in Santa Ana even before Los Angeles. The picture has just been released and Santa Ana fans of Garbo are betting the first chance to see her in the type of a demure actress.

A Fox Movietone news heel together with an all talking comedy also are shown.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

Said Clowny, "Gee, Ill bet that I could spin that yarn. I'll gladly try, if I'm allowed to do it." Then the spinning woman smiled and answered, "You would have much fun but likely you'd spoil all I've done. I hate to disappoint you, but it's no job for a child."

"She's right," the Travel Man broke in. "You wouldn't know where to begin. 'Tis best to stand and watch her. She's been trained to do it right." So, 'bout an hour they made their stay and then they went upon their way. The Tinies waved good-bye just ere they traveled out of sight.

The Travel Man then said, "Right now I think I'll get some rest somehow. I see a place where we can sit out in the cooling breeze." Then Scouty answered, "I'm tired, too. I'll gladly do the same as you. I know that I'll appreciate just loafing 'round at ease."

Not very far away they found a big flat stone upon the ground. They all sat down to watch the Persian people walking by. The men's gowns were a sight to see, all loose and flowing as could be. Said Coppy, "What queer clothes they wear. I've often wondered why."

The Travel Man explained that they were living in their own sweet way. "Their clothes seem queer to us," said he. "But they are the Persian style. Now, when some Persian looks at you, no doubt your clothes look funny, too. In fact when we have passed some folks, I know we've made them smile."

The next place that they went was grand—a very spacious copper stand, where some old man sold copper wares to folks who came his way. Amidst the things he sat alone. It seemed like being on a throne. Said Carpy, "Gee, he must be tired, if he sits there all day."

(The Tinymites visit another Persian home in the next story.)

RULES

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't: TEE, TIE, PIE, PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.
2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.
3. The order of the letters cannot be changed.

HARD to BOIL—It shouldn't take you any longer than five minutes to HARD BOIL this par five hole.

Newport Harbor Lauded For Tournament Of Lights

MOTOR TRANSIT USES P.E. DEPOT IN FULLERTON

FULLERTON, July 14.—Starting tomorrow, Motor Transit stages will operate from the Pacific Electric depot on East Commonwealth avenue, it was announced here today by Max H. Green, general traffic manager, who was in Fullerton today with J. P. Pettinger of the advertising department, making arrangements for the change.

Office equipment of the Motor Transit is being moved to the new quarters this afternoon from the present location on West Commonwealth avenue. The full ticket and express agency force will be located at the new address, it was said, in addition to the regular Pacific Electric force. Motor Transit, Pacific Electric and Southern Pacific freight service will be available. The joining of the two stations comes as a result of the consolidation of the stage line with the Pacific Electric.

Apply For Service

Joint application of the Pacific Greyhound stages and the Motor Transit, whereby the latter would take over the Los Angeles to Corona service through Fullerton, to be operated in connection and as a part of the Yorba Linda and Placentia service, is now before the railroad commission, Green said. In connection with the Placentia and Yorba Linda service, Green declared that ideas of patrons on possible changes or improvements would be welcomed. The new line through to Corona would connect with lines to Riverside, San Bernardino and Redlands and with the inland route to San Diego from Corona.

No changes in depot arrangements at the Pacific Electric are contemplated at the present time, Green declared, although later alterations may be made to improve accommodations. A new driveway has been arranged around the depot and the stages will turn east on Commonwealth avenue from Spadra road, circling the station and going out the same way.

NEWPORT BEACH TO PETITION FOR GAS TAXES

NEWPORT BEACH, July 14.—Residents of Newport Beach today were reported to be signing in large numbers petitions asking that the Orange county board of supervisors "bring about a proper and equitable distribution of funds so that the city of Newport Beach may receive the consideration we feel is due" in regard to gasoline taxes.

The petition is one of several which it is said will be circulated or are being circulated in other cities of the county asking for similar apportionment of the gas tax. Those circulating the petition state that 70 per cent of the gasoline tax in the state is collected within incorporated cities, but less than 30 per cent expended within them.

Pays Out $19,000

This city, the petition says, pays annually about $19,000 in the form of gasoline tax into the state motor vehicle fund. Of this amount approximately $12,800 is used by the state highway commission on the state trunk line routes throughout the state and some $6300 is apportioned to Orange county to be used under the jurisdiction of the supervisors.

It also points out that this city "has, at the sole expense of its citizens incurred a heavy burden of taxation for the construction and maintenance of its city streets" and "has never received any portion whatsoever of the beforementioned motor vehicle tax fund" and asks that some of the money be used for streets in this city which carry "more than ordinary local traffic."

Huntington Beach is another coast city which is demanding some state or county money for roads; namely, for completing the widening of the coast highway. They point out that years ago they paid for widening that highway through part of the city, and that it was and is used for more than local traffic and that the part now required to be widened is also for more than local use.

Fear of infantile paralysis has caused a somewhat lower registration for the camp this year than last, according to Raitt, who pointed out today that the healthful outdoor exercise and strict camp supervision and sanitation, according to medical authorities, makes such an outing place the healthiest and safest place for youngsters during the period infantile paralysis cases have been appearing.

ANNUAL AFFAIR IMPROVED BY AIR FEATURES

NEWPORT BEACH, July 14. — Presenting the most brilliant and beautiful and most successful Tournament of Lights in the history of Newport Harbor, General Chairman H. L. Sherman of the chamber of commerce committee and his aides were receiving congratulations today for the novel spectacle Saturday evening which lured thousands of Southern California residents to the shores of the bay.

Not only was the equatic parade more magnificent in itself than previous ones; but the air features added this year put "The Lights" in a new class of annual events. Another tremendous crowd, variously estimated at from 60,000 to 80,000, lined the streets and shores and hills and buildings all around the bay to view the splendid lighted parade.

Powerful Searchlights

With army and other powerful searchlights piercing the moon-lit sky and playing on the Goodyear dirigible and the Richfield Neonsign plane, the big illuminated parade passed before the eyes of the thousands of delighted residents and visitors, while music was wafted over the placid waters of the bay on an ideal summer evening making the sight one which thrilled everybody within seeing or hearing distance.

The traffic was handled better than last year and the jam on all parts of the peninsula was not so great, although it was estimated that the number who saw the parade was even greater than 1928. Yesterday's crowd was also the greatest Sunday crowd at the county harbor this year.

Newport Float Delayed

The parade started almost on time, and traversed the route as scheduled, except that the towboat of the City of Newport Beach float, a splendid entry which was bringing up the rear, had trouble and this float was late in passing the turn from Balboa Island to the peninsula and finally wound up at the foot of Palm street.

Lido Isle Winner

The Lido Isle float, first prize winner in the commercial division of the parade, had a drum and bugle corps. Outside of this, the musical part of the program was given by radio. Music from Everett Hoagland's Troubadours was broadcast by Station KGER, Long Beach, from the Rendezvous ballroom, Balboa to three sets on floats in the parade and was heard distinctly.

The judges, all from the Laguna Beach art colony, were as follows: William A. Griffith, W. W. Riddell, Frank Cuprien, Ross Shattuck, Miss Julie Raymond and Miss Virginia Woolley.

Haver and Beek Win

Ralph Haver won the sweepstakes in the three classes of small entries, rowboats, canoes and sailboats under 20 feet, while Commodore J. A. Beek, who managed the tournament for many years before this year and whose boat led the parade Saturday night, captured the sweepstakes in the three larger classes.

The Newport Beach Exchange club won first in the organization floats class, the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce in the division of civic floats and Commodore John C. Piver of San Francisco in the boats at anchor class. The full prize list follows, in each case in the order named:

PARALYSIS CASES ARE WANING HERE

With only five existing cases of infantile paralysis in Orange county, the threatened epidemic is apparently well in hand, it was indicated this morning by the county health office. Altogether, a total of 27 cases have been reported since the disease first made its appearance in this district. With the exception of those now under quarantine, the rest of the patients have fully recovered, it is said.

"The conditions prevailing in Los Angeles, where an extensive war is being waged on the spread of infection, have in no manner invaded this section, although every precaution should be taken to prevent such a possibility," said Dr. H. K. Sutherland, county health officer.

NEW YORK CURB

NEW YORK, July 14.—(UP)—The curb market started the week today with a spirited advance in all sections of the list. Operators for the advance derived stimulus from a pick-up in activity that accompanied the advance and scattered selling that depressed a few individual issues failed to shake bullish confidence.

Driver Harris was an outstanding feature of strength, spurting more than 7 points on brisk demand. National Rubber machinery gained almost 2 points, while a jump of nearly 6 opints took place in Newmont Mining.

With the exception of American Light and Traction, which receded a little over a point, the leading public utility stocks were well taken at rising levels and gains ranging from fractions to a point took place in American and Foreign Power warrants, American Superpower, Cities Service, Electric Bond and Share, Electric Power Asociates nad Niagara Hudson Power.

REPUDIATES EVIDENCE

John McDonald, the man upon whose testimony Thomas J. Mooney and Warren K. Billings were convicted and are spending life sentences in San Quentin and Folsom respectively, is coming back to California to correct his testimony.

We have been unable to see how any one could read the amazing revelations in respect to the Mooney-Billings cases and have serious doubt of Mooney's innocence. Up until the time the supreme court and the special investigating commission made their reports upon these two cases, our conviction was firm that certainly Mooney was an innocent man, and that he was suffering imprisonment when he should be free.

The jury which convicted Mooney, and the judge who sentenced him, have all expressed confidence in his innocence since the exposure of Oxman, and the declarations of McDonald. The review of the case in respect to McDonald by the supreme court, pointing out that he had refused to be placed under oath, and the refusal of Billings to take legal action permitting the supreme court de novo to investigate the matter, raised much doubt in our mind which we felt justified the special investigating committee and the governor in the position which they assumed.

Now McDonald, arrested in Baltimore, declares that the reason he was not willing to testify was because they would not grant him immunity, but now he is willing to take the consequences, and will come back and tell the truth regardless of what happens to him. He is a crippled old man. He declares that as far are Mooney was concerned, he never saw him where he had previously testified he had seen him, he says Mooney was pointed out to him; he says that money was paid him for his testimony and all of his expenses were paid. We are not greatly surprised at this result. Certainly the incarceration of innocent men in jail for a decade and a half by his false testimony must have weighed upon the mind and conscience of McDonald. It seems to us it would be a distinct relief to him to come back and to the extent possible make restitution. Imprisonment for perjury would be a joy compared with living in freedom with innocent men in jail due to one's act.

The lamentable part of it all is that these terrible years, the heart of the lives of the men, can never be returned to them. It is unfortunate that the matter could not have been searched more thoroughly and the conclusions reached earlier.

Michael, ex-boy king of Rumania, will soon join the army as a corporal. To be sure, he has lost some authority, but prospects are good he'll be made a top sergeant some day.

A COMMUNIST SEEKING A JOB

The Communist candidate for mayor of Baltimore is a negro laborer out of a job. That is somewhat of a combination. He has about as much chance of getting the job for which he is a candidate as a certain newspaper man of the last generation who at one time was looking for a vacancy in the Trinity. His color is against him. His social status is against him. And his economic heresies are against him. But the rapture of pursuing, which is the prize the vanquished win, will be his.

Anyway, the attempt of this much handicapped candidate for mayorality honors is one of the high privileges of democracy. Even the man who scorns the democratic system may avail himself of all its privileges. If he can persuade enough of his fellow citizens to become communistic comrades to elect him there is nothing in our constitutional system to prevent him from holding the office. The privilege of persuading them is his. If he can convince them that the democratic and capitalistic order of society is impracticable and ought to be changed, let him go to it. Every opportunity of speech and propaganda should be his. But he must not depart from the constitutional methods.

We shall not watch this man's candidacy, however, with any particular interest. We can prophesy the result of it with as much certainty as we can the setting of today's sun.

With the report that Shakespeare's sonnets may be filmed, chances seem bright we shall yet hear some good English in the talkies.

DANGEROUS SPORTS

Baseball has been found to be the most dangerous recreation through an analysis of some 4400 claims for vacation injuries which was made by the statistical department of an insurance company of New York City.

Baseball was blamed for 807, or 18 per cent, of the injuries reported, while swimming came next with 562 cases and wrestling, including "friendly scuffling" came third in the list with 287 injuries. Bowling caused 269 of the accidents, skating 231, tennis 211, fireworks 194, hunting 177, golf 164. Pingpong was blamed for only three mishaps. More interesting would be figures revealing the number of accidents in the respective sports with the number of people interested in, or participating in each one. The analysis might be quite different with those figures.

Probably these findings don't have any bearing on the increasing popularity of pingpong. Miniature golf doesn't figure in the estimate. It would probably run a close second to pingpong at the foot of the list.

THE STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS

The other day a man was convicted of manslaughter, who several years ago shot the husband of the woman with whom he was in love, and was living then in the garret of the house of the man whom he was charged with shooting.

There was no question concerning his guilt of the act, the jury brought in the verdict, and then as the judge was about to sentence him, the attorney for the defense made a motion of arrest in judgment on the ground that the statute of limitations had run against this criminal, so that they could not sentence him. The judge agreed that that was the law, and the man was freed.

We can conceive of no more unjust law to put a premium on criminality than a law which protects the criminal, providing he can conceal his own identity and thereby prevent an indictment against him for a certain number of years. It is an old adage that "murder will out." Whether or not we believe that is always true is unimportant, but it is true in a great many cases, as it was true in this case. But when society by its own legal enactments has thrown its protecting arm around the criminal, by providing for his freedom in case he has been adroit enough to conceal the perpetrator of the crime, certainly the bringing out of the guilty person accomplishes little good. The strange part of it is in respect to fraud the statute of limitations does not run against it until two years after it is discovered.

Extraordinary effort is constantly being made by criminals to prevent an indictment until the statute of limitations has begun to run, in other words, until it is so-called "outlawed." Certainly the statute of limitations ought not begin to run against any crime until the perpetrator of the crime is known. If he has evaded the law and concealed himself from it, the crime is really a continuous one, ceasing only at the time when the facts become known. The statute of limitations ought not run against crime. This is putting a big premium on criminality. It should be made as difficult for men to do wrong, and as easy for them to do right as possible. The rectification of this law would go far in that direction.

The average husband could honestly say to his wife, "Thank goodness I haven't a talking picture of you."

BRIDGE STATISTICS

A thirteen spade bridge hand held by a woman the other day has given rise to some statistics from mathematicians. Under the law of probabilities she would have to play eight rubbers a day for 11,024,541 years before she would get another hand like it. A pack of 52 cards can be dealt into 53,644,737,765,488,792,839,237,440,000 different combinations. The odds against any specific thirteen cards appearing in one hand are 635,013,559,600 to one.

Now probably some of you can see why your friends who are enthusiastic about bridge stick with it so continuously. They are proving these statistics.

Testing a College In the Laboratory

Christian Science Monitor

Those responsible for the experimental college at the University of Wisconsin have confidently laid out next year's teaching program despite rumors, which have gone so far as to say that the college had been discontinued. The experiment has neither failed nor stopped, avers Glenn Frank, president of the university.

The need of offsetting the rumors and of certifying to the general public that the college is not only a busy place but more active than ever, has caused Dr. Frank to issue a twenty-three-page booklet. By this means friends and critics alike are afforded an authentic statement of the purpose of the college, of its achievements in the three years of its operation, and of what students and parents think concerning it.

It is true that this experimental college is radical in the manner of presenting its courses, that it is under the direction of Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn, whose reforming efforts are said to have cost him the presidency of Amhurst, and that it has had some big and original difficulties to overcome. Other universities, like Harvard and Yale, also are setting up experimental colleges, but the results of the Wisconsin project are likely to be carefully weighed by college executives far and wide. It has been a conspicuous venture ever since it started.

The contribution which the college has undertaken to render to the University of Wisconsin in particular and to higher education in general is threefold—to evolve a more purposeful unit out of the now very separate subjects of the liberal arts curriculum, to make the relationship between teacher and student more informal and more direct, and to bring about a greater socialization of the student.

The distinctive feature of its plan is that of approaching the entire course of study for the first year through the Athenian civilization of the fifth century, B. C., and for the second year through the civilization of the United States. To some educators there is in the plan more courage and idealism than practical value. Certain phases of the experiment are questionable. Yet Dr. Frank declares that if his son were ready for college he would want to enroll him in the experimental unit. That is a most convincing confession of faith, and educators everywhere will be glad to know that in the favorable atmosphere of that faith, "the liberal college experiment" will go on.

The Valor of Modern Youths

Riverside Enterprise

As soon as youth becomes conscious of what war makes—and they have manifold opportunity for this through the famous war books—they will start to argue against war as against a direct menacing calamity.

Those who glorify the old-fashioned heroism will brand this attitude as unmanly cowardice. But they forget that the youth of today is as valorous as that of former times . . . the youth has chosen other aims and other motives for its valour. It no longer glorifies the romance of war. Modern war methods with their sober, practical, laboratory-like destruction are a lugubrious terror without any disguise. And, moreover, youth has also become too much convinced of the gradually, nearly instinctively penetrated truth, that no political complication can be solved through such catastrophic explosions.—Nieuwe Rotterdamsche Courant Rotterdam.

A Country Landscape!

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

FAREWELL ROMANCE

(The only pirate vessels left on the seas are small Chinese junks)

In the days of the past sailors panted aghast
At the sight of a low rakish sail,
For the pirates of old were delightfully bold
And the theme of full many a tale.
But the seas are now rid of great rascals like Kidd;
The buccanneers' vessels lie sunk,
And the pirate today scours inlet and bay
In a little old twenty foot junk.

No whiskers has he to float fluffy and free
When the tempest is howling off shore—
No room in his hold for great cargoes of gold—
Bright sovereigns and trim Louis d'Or.
The goods that he steals are the skins of fur seals
Which he stows in a moth eaten trunk,
For the pirate's estate is so fallen of late
That his business is done in a junk.

It is true, while he loots, that he often times shoots,
And his victims are killed quite as dead
As the lads who were slain on the old Spanish Main
When from savage old Blackbeard they fled.
Yet askance we must view the piratical crew
Whose yen-hoks are lit with a punk,
And who, timid of heart, seek to ply a great art
In a small, grimy open faced junk.

Captain Kidd's is a name with an echoing fame,
The proudest of vessels he sank,
And watched with a smile of ineffable guile
As their occupants stepped off a plank.
But far-fled are the times of such glorious crimes,
Which won gold by the glittering chunk,
There is never a chance for a glint of romance
When a pirate sails forth in a junk!

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

A breathless boy thrust his head through the door of a house in the Ozark Mountains, in Arkansas.

"Hey, Doc," he gasped, "git up ter Hawkins' shack quick's you kin git. The gal's ailin'."

"Doc" bent over the moaning girl. Ailin', indeed! A few minutes more and a ruptured appendix would put her beyond the reach of mortal ailments.

"I'm going to operate," he said sharply to her father. "You'll have to hold the lamp and——"

"Cut her up, will ye? snarled the frantic father. "All right, go ahead an' cut up my gal, but her pappy ain't holdin' no lamp fer ye. He's holdin' a shot gun. Ef'n she lives, so do you. Ef'n she dies——"

The crazed man glared at the Doctor. "Sharpen yer knife, ye butcher, but don't let hit slip. DON'T LET HIT SLIP."

So in a mountain shack, by the dim light of the one kerosene lamp on the wall, the doctor sterilized his knife as best he could, and set about the business of saving a life, with a shotgun held at his head.

The "gal" lived. The Doctor made her as comfortable as he could. Then he sat down and for ten minutes spoke pure Ozark to her pappy and never used the same word twice.

There must be, up and down the land, many leaders of industry who would pay real money for a copy of that speech, and who would walk many miles to clasp "Doc" silently by the hand.

Business is ailin'. Many leaders of industry are operating under discouraging conditions, while those who should at least be holding lamps are holding shotguns. "If business recovers," they say, "all well and good. If it doesn't—give 'em both barrels."

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

THE BLAME FOR UNEMPLOYMENT

No public problem is ever as simple as the slogans it breeds.

The existing unemployment in the United States vividly verifies this contention.

Vote for Hector and find prosperity!

Vote for Hector and face panic!

These are the sort of slogans dinned into the ears of democratic peoples as they go to the polls to vote for presidents and premiers.

But presidents and premiers are rarely responsible either for the prosperity or for the panic that prevails during their terms of office.

Politics grows increasingly irrelevant in this complex, technical, corporate age.

The modern politican lives and legislates in the suburbs of reality.

The plenty or penury of the people is, in the main, decided by forces and facts quite outside the field of politics.

I am temperamentally an unpolitical person, with next to no interest in the Donnybrook Fair of head-breaking partisan politics, but I am enormously interested in the social tendencies of my time, for I want my son to have the chance to live his adult life in a decently ordered civilization. And, as I listen to the endless club-corner discussion of unemployment, I am convinced that we shall never stabilize American prosperity until we stop thinking that unemployment is simply a question of whether Calvin Coolidge, Herbert Hoover, or Al Smith happens to be living in the White House.

Unemployment is a rank weed that sinks its roots in a dozen obvious and obscure soils of our machine order of life and labor; it is not a simple matter; and it is not susceptible of solution by any simple political gesture.

Stuart Chase, in Harper's Magazine for July, says—what every man who has studied unemployment and not simply campaigned on it knows—that there are six distinct kinds of unemployment, viz:

(1) Seasonal unemployment.
(2) Technological unemployment.
(3) Cyclical unemployment.
(4) Residual unemployment.
(5) Stop-watch unemployment.
(6) Consolidation unemployment.

These are, in the main, technical and a bit high-brow descriptions of the varied aspects of unemployment. I realize that the man out of a job is not helped much by a long adjective tacked on to his lack of work, but until we settle down to a technical dealing with these varied aspects of unemployment, the ghost of insecurity will continue to hover over the man with the dinner pail and will freeze his heart with fear.

It is within our power to establish control over these six sources of unemployment, if we will but take a vacation from bunk and bring intelligence to bear upon the situation, but ninety per cent of the current political discussion of unemployment is as futile as the primitive man's plea to the rain god to break the drought.

OUR CHILDREN

QUIET TIME

Life is growing noisier every day, it would seem. Motor cars fill the streets with their grinding and rumbling and honking. The riveter sets his horrible vibrations running through the very masonry of one's house. The radio screams and howls and screeches and murmurs and sings at all hours. The victrola does its share. Bells and whistles and flat wheels, airplanes, freight trains, rag-men, children, animals, machines, all lift their more or less melodious voices and there is no quiet in the world, not even in the churchyard. What is to become of the children who must sleep, study, think?

I always have believed that quiet was essential for the growth of children. Babies must have quiet days in which to lie and croon themselves into growth. Growing little ones who have found their legs must have quiet afternoons for naps. Older children earnest in school work must have quiet hours for study and thinking and rest. ALL children must sleep long hours to rest and refresh and recreate their bodies. In our delight at discovering machinery we are likely to forget the huban being who creates the need for the machines.

Laws are not helpful usually in such situations. To prohibit this and that never works unless the people will this and that to be prohibited. We do not want to throw out the radio and the telephone and the motors and the rest of the exciting delightful things we know and use but we must come to some understanding of how to use them. We would not destroy ourselves and our children by misusing the machines that are to provide us with delightful leisure hours.

We like fruit and sweets and good food but we know that if we indulge ourselves in any of the pleasures of the table beyond a healthy limit we will surely suffer. We will bitterly repent our indiscretion. We must acknowledge the same condition in our use of the modern machines.

It is silly to turn on a radio at 7 o'clock in the morning and keep it on all day and far into the night. It is stupid to open your window and turn your loud speaker into the courts of an apartment house or your neighbor's windows. Phonographs need not grind all day and far into the night to give a family a bit of music. Nor need motors make so much noise.

First we can keep all machinery in good condition for service and that immediately will remove a set of fearful noises from our streets. Flat wheels, loose parts, defective works can be adjusted. Houses where children live will have to be protected from too much radio and the like and the best way to do that is to have the people who live in the houses agree on the best hours, the best regulations possible to all of them.

A certain number of quiet hours daily are essential to the healthy growth of children. Let us try to agree to have them so that the generation most richly endowed with the gifts of science will not perish by their riches.

BASTILE DAY

On July 14, 1789, the populace of Paris stormed the Bastille, a prison which the revolutionists long regarded as a symbol of oppression. The fall of this ancient fortress is celebrated in France as the chief national holiday and as the day when a new era of liberty dawned for the people and an end was put to the old regime.

In the uprising a force of about 50,000 attacked the Bastille, killed its governor and seven of his men and scattered the archieves of the prison. The prisoners, seven in number, were carried through the streets and hailed as victims of tyranny and martyrs in the people's cause.

It is interesting to note that Lafayette sent the key of the Bastille to George Washington "because the principles of America it was that opened the Bastille." This relic may still be seen at Mt. Vernon.

The site of the building is now marked by a column of bronze dedicated to the memory of the patriots of July, 1789 and 1830.
